RESCINDS ORDER FOR BLOCKADE AT TAMPICO

NEW CRISIS IN MEDIATION PASSES

Washington, June 8.—Huerta has decided, after all, not to blockade Tampico and force the hand of the United States with the possibility of disrupting the mediation proceedings at Niagara Falls. Mr. Riano, the Spanish ambassador notified Secretary Bryan officially to that effect today.

Thus the latest crisis in the Mexican situation, fraught with possibilities of renewed hostilities between Huerta and the United States passed over. What actuated Huerta in backing down does not appear in the brief advices which reached Washington.

News Reaches Washington.

Unofficial reports that the dictator had decided at the last moment to rescind his order of blockade had reached unofficial sources which have been in very close touch with the situation about the same time Mr. Riano was notifying Secretary Bryan. Instantly there was an evidence of relief of the tension of the last three days along the line in officials circles.

There were broad intimations here that the influence which had caused Huerta to rescind his order had gone to Mexico City all the way from Niagara Falls where it was said, the mediators and the Mexican delegates had been urging him in the strongest possible terms to withdraw his position and let the mediation proceed.

It did not appear here that Huerta's change of position had been contingent upon any change of plans for the cargo of the steamer Antilla, steaming for Tampico with arms for the constitutionalists. It had been suggested that possible pressure upon the owners of the ship might cause them to divert her.

Wilson Was Determined.

One thing, however, was plain, President Wilson was determined that Tampico should be kept open to the commerce of the world and the American ships under Rear Admiral Mayo were in evident readiness to enforce it Whether the Antilla's war cargo would have been considered as commerce had the situation come to the point of a break, all officials here declined to say.

The gunboats Zaragosa and Bravo should have arrived at Tampico about 5 o'clock this morning Followed by the U. S. S. Sacramento and Tacoma, they passed Vera Cruz yesterday. In the absence of any new report today, Secretary Daniels wirelessed Rear Admiral Badger for a report of their position. The possibility that Huerta's decision not to blockade the port may have diverted them was taken into the reckoning here.

Gen. Huerta's Dispatch.

Gen. Huerta's dispatch announcing the suspension of the blockade was received at the Spanish embassy early today and its purport was immediately communicated to Secretary Bryan at his home. Later a fuller report was made to the secretary after the translation.

The dispatch requested the Spanish ambassador to inform the American government that the suspension of the blockade had been decreed by Gen. Huerta, that official notification would be published in the official paper tomorrow and that orders had been given to the Mexican gunboats to return to Puerto Mexico. Gen. Huerta's action in calling off the blockade was inspired, it was stated, by a sincere desire not to jeopardize the success of mediation.

Evidence of Sincerity.

In diplomatic circles Huerta's action was regarded as conclusive evidence of sincerity that he has placed the fate of

FIX MOLARS AS CURE

New York, June 8.—Bad teeth make bad boys in the opinion of Charles D. Hilles, formerly private secretary to President Taft, but now president of the New York juvenile asylum at Dobbs' Ferry. Mr. Hilles made public his discovery in an announcement today. He declares that by patching up the teeth of delinquent boys he is able to send them back to their homes 90 per cent. good, instead of 90 per cent. bad.

Acting upon the premise that the bad boy is generally an ill boy, Mr. Hilles said, "We determined to maintain a thorough physical study of all boys sent up here, all of whom are under fifteen years of age. Sixty-five per cent. of them were anaemic.

"Then we sought for the physical cause of the anaemic condition. We found that more than 90 per cent. of the boys came to us with bad teeth. They were dragged down in a physical manner and through no fault of their own became degenerates and moral delinquents.

"We have been able to trace, at least to our satisfaction, most of the troubles from which the boys suffer to their mouths. In other words, their teeth were bad and the dentist has been a thorough upbuilder.

GIRLS DRIVEN TO SLEEP IN PARKS

Tell New York Policemen of Unusual Case of Poverty and Privation.

THEY WERE STARVING

New York, June 8.—An unusual case of poverty and privation has come to the notice of the authorities. Two girls, Pearl Schwartz, 20, and Dinah Meyers, 18, step sisters, appealed to a policeman for aid Sunday, saying they were starving.

In court they told the magistrate that they were orphans and friendless and that for two weeks they had been sleeping in the parks at night walking the streets by day vainly looking for work. The girls came to this country several years ago. Their mother died two years ago and until several months ago they were employed in a factory. Two weeks ago their savings became exhausted and they were forced to give up their furnished room.

To avoid the insults of the streets, they said, was the reason they took up quarters under bushes in Central park. They did not know that the city would care for them and appealed to the policeman only when they were weak from hunger and exposure and did not know where to turn. Magistrate Krotel sent the girls to a refuge home where they will be cared for.

RIVER GIVES UP BODY OF WOMAN

MYSTERY IN DEATH

Baltimore, Md., June 8.—The body of Miss Ella Winter, 1228 East Preston street, this city, who had been missing from her home since last Thursday, was found floating in the Patansco river, near Curtis, today. Miss Winter was said to have left her home Thursday evening and to have gone to Curtis Bay to go aboard the house boat of D. Meredith Reese, jr., which she had visited on numerous occasions, accompanied by the parents of Mr. Reese.

Reese said he met the young woman Thursday evening and after a motor boat ride had landed her at their starting point to enable her to catch a car for Baltimore. He said that was the last time he saw her, and that he had been looking for her ever since the next day, when he learned she hadn't appeared at her place of employment. Miss Winter was thirty years old and a stenographer.

Washington, June 8.—President Wilson is expected to accept the senate amendments to the Panama tolls exemption repeal, specifying that the United States does not waive its right to "discriminate in favor of its own shipping," but he does not feel that the senate gives its assent to the repeal in "ungrudging measure" by attaching amendments. More Impassioned Appeals by Singer's Husband to Mrs. Dean.

OTHERS INTERCEPTED

Chicago, June 8.—More impassioned letters addressed to Mrs. Catherine Dean and alleged to have been written by Wm. Rapp, who is being sued for divorce by Mme. Schumann-Heink, the famous contralto, were introduced in Judge Sullivan's court today.

There was a bit of comedy between the lines. Under date of August 1, 1913, the writer said:

"I wrote you Friday, Saturday, Sunday. Monday I did not write as I had conferences all day until late at night Tuesday, and Wednesday I write again. Yesterday I waited all day for a letter from you and I was discouraged at not hearing from you."

The reason the writer did not hear from Mrs. Dean was that she was in court in the person of Miss Frances J. Ashton, a nurse, employed as a detective by counsel for Mme. Schumann-

DROWNS HERSELF IN SHALLOW POND

Despondent Over Domestic Trouble Mrs. Charles Lahrman Ends Life.

FILED A DIVORCE SUIT

Presumably despondent because of family difficulties, Mrs. Charles Lahrman, aged forty-eight years, rushed from her home on the Illinois road, six miles west of the city, at 10 o'clock Monday morning, and threw herself into a shallow pond at the rear of her home, drowning before the other members of the family discovered her absence from the house.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Lahrman applied for a divorce from her husband and the two had not been living together. She had been in a very nervous frame of mind since and it is said that for several days she refused to eat. Just a short time before members of her family missed her she had been sitting in the living room of the handsome country home, where she had lived ever since her marriage, twenty-eight years ago.

She had not been away from the house but a few moment when a small daughter, Marie, strolling to the pond, about 300 feet from the house, saw her mother's skirts floating on the water. Help was called and Mrs. Lahrman's body was dragged from the water, but life was extinct and medical aid, summoned later, was fruitless.

Mrs. Lahrman was the mother of a family of eight children. She was widely known in the western part of the county and news of her suicide will come as a sorrowful shock to hundreds of acquaintances.

TODAY HOTTEST DAY OF SEASON

NEARLY 95 DEGREES

No break is in sight for the heat wave that engulfs Fort Wayne and vicinity, and today is the hottest day of the year here. Fort Wayne is sweltering under a temperature in the neighborhood of 94 degrees and unlimited suffering is reported from all parts of the city because of the unseasonable heat.

According to Forecaster W. S. Palmer today's temperature is about three degrees above that of Sunday. At 10:30 o'cloc Monday morning the government thermometer stood at 87 degrees, compared with 85 degrees at the same hour of the day previous.

The entire city is seeking relief from the excessive heat and as a result of the torpid climate, business has been slightly affected. During the midday the business streets were practically deserted, except for the few whose duties compelled them to brave the sun's piercing rays.

It is estimated that 12,000 persons sought the parks Sunday as a relief and more than 5,000 people passed through the gates at Robison park, while in fact every bit of wooded land in the city and vicinity held record breaking crowds for the season. A municipal concert was rendered at Lawton park during the afternoon and it is estimated that fully 1,000 people attended.

Rappite Village Celebrates Century of Notable History.

New Harmony, Ind., June 8.—Reasons for the failure of experiments in socialism were discussed by William H. Taft today in an address delivered at the centennial celebration of the founding of New Harmony. This town probably is the most famous place in the United States where the exponents of socialistic and community ideas tried to prove the practical value of their theories. The former president outlined the history of these experiments here and drew his conclusions.

"The most notable experiments at New Harmony," he said, "that of Robert Owen failed, as all socialism must fail, because it found no substitute for the motive essential to arouse and make constant human effort that is furnished by the institution of private property and the shaping of reward by competition and natural economic adjustment. The plan was based on the assumption that man was a different being from what he is. If he were so perfect that his love of human kind would banish from every one in human form selfishness and retain in him the same energy, self-sacrifice and industry in behalf of others that he now manifests in behalf of himself and those near to him, then there would be no need for the organization of a socialistic community

COAL MINES TAKE VAST DEATH TOLL

Total of 346 Men Killed in United States During Month of April.

2,785 DURING YEAR 1913

Washington, June 8.—Men killed in and about coal mines in the United States during April numbered 346, as compared with 285 in April, 1913, according to the bureau of mine statistics announced today. The large increase during April was due to an explosion at Eccles, W. Va., which resulted in the death of 180 men.

For the four months ending with April this year's total was 917 men killed, compared with 918 men killed last year during the first four months. The principal increases were: Explosions of gas and coal dust, 91; falling down shafts or slopes, 11); the principal decreases were: Falls off roofs and coal, 79; mine cars and locomotives, 27.

During the year 1913 there were 2,785 men killed in and about mines in the country. This is at the rate of 38.82 per 1,000 employed, and 4.88 per 1,000,000 short tons of coal mined, or a production of 204,688 short tons of coal for every life lost.

CURBS RULE OF STATE BOARDS

MUCH INTEREST IN IT

Washington, June 8.—The supreme court today upheld the inter-state commerce commission's orders in the Shreveport rate case, thus placing inter-state railroads more under the commission and less under state commissions.

Justice Hughes announced the court's decision. He spoke of the unrestricted power of the inter-state commerce commission over inter-state commerce, saying the commission was expressly created to prevent conflicting state legislation.

Justice Hughes pointed out that congress and not the states had the power to prevent the instruments of inter-state commerce from being used so as to injure inter-state commerce. He quoted the cases under the safety appliance law and the second federal employers liability law supporting the power of congress to keep the channels of inter-state commerce clear.

Referring to the noted Minnesota rate case Justice Hughes said that decision was expressly reserved in those cases as to what the outcome would have been had the inter-state commerce commission found that the Minnesota rates discriminated against inter-state commerce.

History of the Case.

The fight for better rates for Shreveport jobbers into Texas promised from the start to establish a precedent governing the future trade of cities along states boundaries. So important was the matter deemed to be that the Louisiana railroad commission itself initiated the contest before the interstate commerce commission in behalf of the jobbers along the Louisiana-Texas border.

The Louisiana commission complained to the interstate commerce commission in March, 1911, that the class rates charged by the railroads for transportation in a westerly direction from Shreveport to points in Texas were unjustly discriminatory in that they were much greater than the rates contemporaneously charged for the transportation of like traffic from Dallas and Houston, in Texas, to the same points. They complained, in substance, that a trade wall had been erected around Texas and that outside jobbers were not permitted to enter into the enclosed field.

The Houston, East and West Railway company and the Texas and Pacific Railway company did not deny the discrimination, but answered that the Shreveport rates were reasonable in themselves, and that the Texas rates were not voluntary but were prescribed by the Texas railroad commission. The interstate commerce commission issued an order holding that an unjust discrimination existed and directed the railways either to lower the interests rate from Shreveport to Texas points or to increase the Texas rates from Dallas and Houston to other Texas points so as to remove this discrimination. The railways vainly endeavored to induce the commerce court to enjoin the enforcement of this order.

his government and the settlement of the Mexican problem fully in the hands of the South American mediators and his representatives at Niagara Falls. The wires between Washington, Niagara Falls and Mexico City have been hot with official dispatches since the receipt Saturday afternoon of the dispatch announcing the proclamation of the blockade. epresentations of the serious nature of the crisis precipitated by his action and the decision of the American government to keep Tampico open were made to Gen. Huerta from several quarters with appeals to sacrifice a possible momentary advantage for his government in order to prevent the collapse of the peace conference at Niagara Falls.

Will Receive Carranza?

In official circles here the rescinding of the Tampico blockade order was regarded as an indication that Gen. Carranza will be received into the Niagara conference. Carranza's answer to the mediators, it generally was expected, will be forwarded from Saltillo tonight or tomorrow. Upon what terms the constitutionalist leaders representative may agree to enter the negotiations were not definitely known here, but there was a feeling that conferences at Niagara Falls yesterday and negotiations resulting from these conferences with the Washington government and Gen. Huerta had worked out an understanding by which the scope of mediation was to be broadened.

Though unconfirmed here reports were persistent that the mediators had induced Gen. Huerta to rescind the blockade order, only after there had been some assurance from the United States as to the disposition of the Antilla. One report had it that the steamer would be diverted to some other port, probably Havana, pending further mediation negotiations. Secretary Bryan's face was illumined with a smile broader than usual. He was asked if the Spanish ambassador in announcing the suspension of the blockade had made any protest to the United States on behalf of Huerta relating to the landing of the Antilla's cargo or if there had been any negotiations on the part of this government and the owners of the steamer Antilla with a view to diverting the shipment. "I cannot discuss further than to state that the blockade has been suspended," was Mr. Bryan's reply.

Rear Admiral Badger reported that the Mexican gun boats Zaragosa and Bravo arrived off Tampico at 8 a. m. today. He did not say whether their commanders knew of the suspension of the blockade.

SAFELY OVER SHOALS.

Devision of Huerta Sases Minds of the Mediatorsfl.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 8.—Mediation passed safely today over the shoals of threatened disruption. Gen. Huerta came to the rescue rescinding the order he had issued for a blockade at Tampico, a circumstance that imperiled mediation and produced the gravest apprehension since the conference began. "The blockade incident has been satisfactorily adjusted," was the announcement of Justice Lamar as the American delegates entered their conference with the mediators. "We have received word from Secretary Bryan that the Spanish ambassador had been advised by Gen. Huerta of the raising of the blockade."

Justice Lamar said he was uninformed as to the reasons which had actuated Huerta. The Mexican delegates, however, announced that they would issue a statement of explanation.

The blockade incident was only briefly discussed at the conference between the American delegates and the mediators. It was regarded as a past issue. Then the American commissioners presented the peace plan which they had drafted. In many respects it is the same as was suggested by the Mexican delegates and the mediators. The points of difference are in matters of detail. Justice Lamar dictated the following statement after the conference: "The mediators have heretofore submitted to us a complete plan and we have now submitted to them our plan. Our counter proposition contains a number of points on which we have agreed and also propositions on which there has been neither an agreement nor disagreement. The mediators are now taking under consideration the points on which there has been no disagreement."

Justice Lamar spoke hopefully of the general situation, saying that the adjustment of the blockade incident gave faith in the ultimate success of the mediation board.

No word has been received from Carranza according to Justice Lamar though the reply to the last communication is being anxiously awaited. It became known too, that the American government was exerting pressure to have the way for the constitutionalist representation and it was generally understood that final approval of all peace plans would be upheld until the question of constitutionalist acceptance of the plans has been settled.

FORTY DESERTERS SHOT.

Activities of Firing Squad at Chihuahua Are Explained.

Juarez, Mex., June 8.—Persistent rumors that many federals had been executed recently at Chihuahua City, were explained here today to the effect that those who faced the firing squad were without exception deserters from the constitutionalist army and "reds," or former Madero irregular troops, who had joined the Huerta soldiery. These men, after their dispersal at Torreon last April, had penetrated the mountains of western Chihuahua, engaging in brigandage. Of the twenty-six shot last Wednesday at Santo Rosa, a suburb of the state capital, seven were former officers of the rebel army. Since then a few others have been executed, it was said, but all of them met death after proper identification and a review of their cases had made the infliction of the death penalty purely a course sanctioned by the civil and military laws of Mexico. It was estimated that at least forty had been shot.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE FIGHT IS WARM

THE MUNICIPAL NEWS

Tuesday night first business of the city council will be to settle the hot three-cornered fight for membership on the Fort Wayne board of school trustees. The candidates are Ernest W. Cook, who is now concluding his third term; A. L. Randall, the automobile dealers, and E. H. Trier, head of the accounting department in the C. C. Schlatter hardware store. Mr. Cook's friends, both in the council and outside are urging his candidacy upon his record of nine years in the office and point to the progress made in the Fort Wayne public schools in that period. Mr. Trier's candidacy has a strong backing from the German Alliance, which organization believes that a German should be a member of the board both by reason of the large number of German patrons of the public schools and because of the importance of the study of German in the schools. Mr. Randall is urged by many friends as a highly fit and competent man who has always been a citizen of the city and devoted supporter of public educations. Friends of all express confidence but the supporters of Mr. Cook's candidacy for re-election are more positive than any.

INQUIRE ABOUT THE DAIRIES.

Women Want to Know Where Clean Milk Can Be Assured.

Dr. J. H. Gilpin, secretary of the board of health, states that there is a constantly increasing number of inquiries at the city health office for information relating to dairies. Most of these inquiries come from women and presumably from such as have infants to feed. The inquiries for the most part bear upon the point of cleanliness and information is asked as to which dairies are shown by the milk inspection division to have the best records. Dr. Gilpin says the health department welcomes these inquiries and in all cases will furnish the information. Those dairies that have been graded highest under inspection are those recommended to inquirers. The health department's inspection of dairies discloses that city depots whose business is confined to the purchase and distribution of milk are in need of close inspection. The country dairies grade higher.

"American City Magazine" Asks for Local Pictures.

Secretary C. J. Steiss, of the park board, has a letter from Harold S. Buttenheim, editor of the "American City," a monthly magazine devoted to municipal government and city development, praising the annual report of the Fort Wayne board of park commissioners and requesting the loan of two half-tone illustrations showing Reservoir park in winter and summer. The editor likewise requests that the plate for the cartoon, "Lessons from the Park Board's Annual Report," be sent him. It was reproduced in the board's 1913 report. Editor Buttenheim wishes to reprint the illustrations and the cartoon in his magazine. They will be sent to him.

WILL OPEN BIDS WEDNESDAY.

The park board will open bids at its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon for the construction of the new bandstand in Swinney park and for the comfort station in Weisser park. Contractors are now consulting the plans and specifications for these two park improvements.

VISIT PROPOSED TERRITORY.

As Committee of the Whole Council Views Part Up for Annexation.

As a committee of the whole President William A. Bayer and other members of the city council paid a visit Sunday afternoon to the territory east of Alexander street and south of Pontiac street to look over the tract which it is proposed to annex to the city. An ordinance introduced by Councilman Korte, of the Tenth ward, at the last regular meeting was referred until the committee of the whole could visit the territory. Annexation has been petitioned for by eight persons resident in the territory. A counter petition has been filed. There is a division in the council as to the advisability of annexing this territory at present, but so far as can be ascertained a majority of the council seems to be in favor of the addition to the city. The proposal will be threshed out in the council Tuesday night after the committee of the whole has reported. Councilman Korte briefly addressed the people of the district Sunday, urging that the annexation should be made.

WHEAT YIELD TO SMASH RECORDS

June Crop Report Puts 1914 Total at 900,000,000 Bushels.

OTHERS ALSO LARGE

Washington, June 8.—Nine hundred million bushels of wheat, almost half of the acreage of the world's wheat production, and a new record for the United States, is the prospective total yield of the farms of the country this year, the department of agriculture announced today in its June crop report.

The enormous crop will be 137,000,000 bushels more than ever was grown before in the United States in any one year. Excellent weather for the growing crop and an increase of 6.4 per cent in the acreage planted to wheat are reported. There also will be large yields of oats and barley, probably second in size in the history of the nation.

The June crop report shows: Spring wheat: Area, 17,990,000 acres; condition, 95.5 per cent; indicated yield, 14.6 bushels per acre; estimated production, 262,000,000 bushels.

Winter wheat: Condition, 92.7; yield, 18.1; production, 638,000,000 bushels.

Oats: Area, 38,383,000 acres; yield, 31.7; production, 1,216,000,000 bushels.

Rye: Condition, 93.6; yield, 17.2.

No Unfriendly Feeling for Roosevelt is Shown at Madrid.

COL. T. R. ARRIVES

Madrid, June 8.—Col. Roosevelt arrived at Madrid this afternoon on his first trip to Spain, completing his journey to attend the wedding of his son, Kermit Roosevelt, and Miss Belle Wyatt Willard, daughter of the American ambassador to Spain.

There was a small crowd gathered at the station, including a number of police in plain clothes who were distributed about the station as a result of the publication of several newspaper articles antagonistic to Col. Roosevelt. The chief of police had feared the possibility of some evidence of an unfriendly feeling being displayed against the former president, but none whatever was shown. There was an affectionate greeting between Col. Roosevelt, his son, Kermit, and his daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Col. Joseph Willard, the American ambassador, and the members of the embassy staff, and Senor Menez, the Spanish undersecretary of state, also were at the station to meet Col. Roosevelt. He was driven to the American embassy.

King Alfonso traveled on the same train for some distance with Col. Roosevelt, but as each was unaware of the presence of the other there was no meeting. King Alfonso had been to Biarritz to see his doctor and it was merely a coincidence that his car was attached to the train in which Col. Roosevelt was traveling.

When the king left the train the former president was an interested spectator when his majesty passed through a cordon of troops. His majesty got into an automobile which he himself drove. The king will not be present at the wedding ceremony, but it is said he will probably meet Col. Roosevelt on Wednesday.

FLEMING NOT ON ROME CITY LAKE

RUMOR OF ARRESTS

A man who said he was Capt. Rodney D. Fleming, in charge of the Northern Indiana district for the state fish and game department, examined the fish in the live boxes of a number of Fort Wayne fishermen at Rome City Sunday and is said to have made three arrests, or rather to have notified three to appear in court for having in possession fish shorter than the Indiana law permits to be caught.

The fact that Capt. Fleming arrived in Fort Wayne at noon Monday after having spent Sunday at Long lake, indicates that somebody was either "kidding" the fishermen or one of the deputies was misunderstood when he made the examination. There were two deputies on duty there yesterday, but a report does not include any arrests and Capt. Fleming is pretty sure none was made.

During the forenoon L. A. Randall caught a fish and after an argument with Marion Black decided to keep it to ascertain whether it was a bass or a perch. If it was a perch there was no law against keeping it, but if a bass it should have been thrown in the lake at once.

This fish was gobbled upon by the man, who said he was Fleming and for a time it looked like trouble ahead for Black, but as the head was that of a perch, while the body resembled a bass it was finally decided that no offense had been committed.

Mr. Fleming will make an investigation and ascertain whether or not one of his deputies made the examination or whether some fellow thought he would have a little fun with the fishermen, and if he finds the latter to be the case he will have something to say about it.

RUSHVILLE MAN IS PRESIDENT

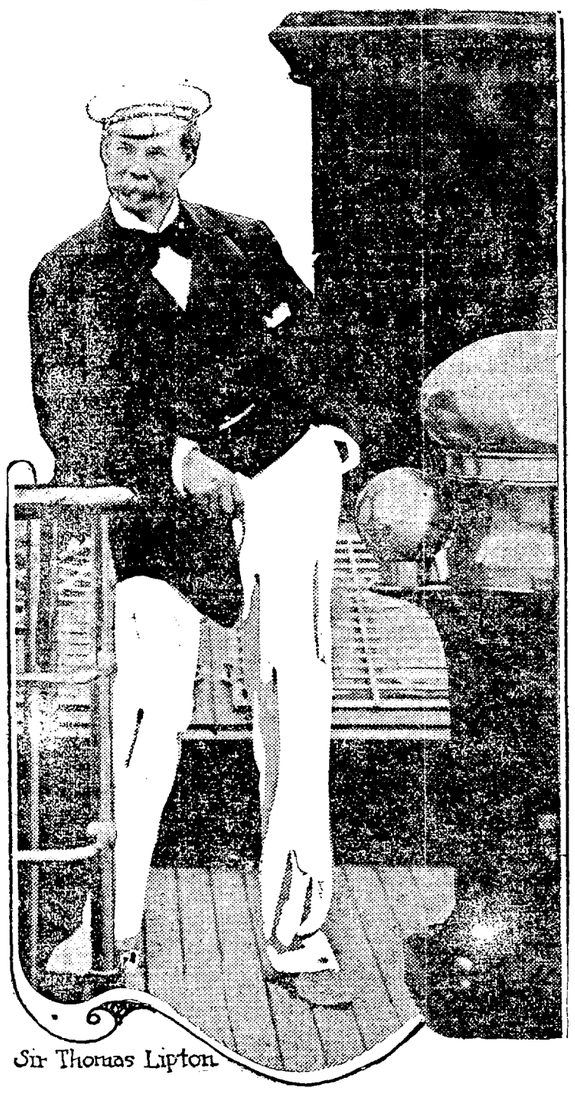
Will Sir Thomas Lipton Take America's Cup With New Mascot?

It's a Baboon, and, Incidentally Sir Thomas Takes His Pen in Hand and Writes a Little Article on Mascots.



Sir Thomas Lipton

SIR THOMAS LIPTON ON BOARD HIS STEAM YACHT ERIN. THIS IS HIS LATEST PHOTOGRAPH.

(By Sir Thomas Lipton.)

The strangest mascot that has ever been seen in the world will be aboard the Shamrock IV when she competes this fall for the America's cup—a mascot that I fuliy expect will break at last the hoodoo that has defeated my former cup challengers.

I am not a strong believer in mascots.

The Erin in 1903 was full of them. I think I had twenty-four horseshoes, one of these having been made by Fitzsimmons, the champion American boxer, who was a blacksmith. In the way of religious and other emblems I had everything one could possibly think of.

I had also tigers' whiskers sent me, likewise a green hen which came from Pittsburg (I presume its feathers had been dyed), also pedigree rabbits, pedigree black cats, lady birds, green frogs, baskets full of babies' cauls and chicken wishbones—some of the latter mounted in gold and silver—grasshoppers from Kansas with legs like dromedaries, Irish terriers, and, last but not least, I had a magnificent American eagle sent me. In fact, the Erin was like a traveling menagerie.

One lady wrote to me suggesting that I should take her son on board with me as a mascot. She said that he was young and red-headed and that he brought luck everywhere he went, and that if I had him on board I should be sure to win. I also had a young Jumbo pet elephant offered me, and this I was reluctantly compelled to decline for lack of space.

I do not think, taking things overhead, that there was anything wanting or that my friends missed anything that could be thought of as a mascot, but, of course, the readers of The Sentinel know the result. They might let me know which of the above-mentioned collection was the hoodoo.

Still, I have never had a baboon before, and the one which Sir Thomas Dewar has brought me from Nairobi, East Africa, can, I understand, do everything but talk, including shaking hands in the most approved fashion.

Sir Thomas, when he sent it to me, had it dressed in his kilts. He, being a Highlander himself, thought the baboon ought to be dressed in his own native costume, but I consider his manners are not yet good enough for this costume. I am sure his conduct will be better if I give him a Shamrock sailor's outfit of clothes.

Yours sincerely,

THOMAS LIPTON.

SPENDS MILLIONS TO WIN CUP WORTH $500.

Sir Thomas Lipton has spent millions trwing to capture a little piece of battered silver that cost less than $500 more than sixty years ago and would not be worth one-third of that today. But the cup still represents the supremacy of the seas and is a treasure to be prized.

The trophy was offered by the Royal Yacht squadron, not by Queen Victoria, as has been often said, for a race between boats of all nations. Commodore Stevens, of the New York Yacht club, captured the trophy and gave it to his club as a perpetual challenge cup. It has been raced for eight times, but continues to make its home in Tiffany's vaults awaiting patiently, it seems, its long-delayed return trip across the Atlantic.

The races to date were as follows, the unsuccessful challengers being named first: Genesta-Puritan, 1885; Galatea-Mayflower, 1886; Thistle-Volunteer, 1887; Valkyrie II-Vigilant, 1893; Valkyrie III-Defender, 1895; Shamrock-Columbia, 1899; Shamrock II-Columbia, 1901; Shamrock III-Reliance, 1903.

SCORES NEW IMMIGRATION BILL.

Head of B'rith Abraham Asks Wilson to Kill Proposed Measure.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 8.—Declaring that it was up to President Wilson to prevent enactment of the Burnett-Dillingham immigration bill should the senate abandon all American traditions and follow in the footsteps of the house in passing the measure, Leon Sanders, grand master of the Independent Order B'rith Abraham, assailed the legislation in his annual address before the twenty-eighth annual convention of the order here and appealed to the 1,500 delegates to "stem the tide of bigotry and prejudice."

Conditions, he said, were such in eastern Europe as to make it imperative that many Jewish people seek freedom in the United States, but the passage of the "iniquitous measure would shut the doors of America in the face of Jewish immigration."

The secretary's report showed a gain during the year of forty lodges with an aggregate of 26,000 members, making the total membership of the order more than 200,000.

ANGERED FATHER SLAYS.

Kills Physician Who Refused to Call Because of Unpaid Bill.

Duquoin, Ill., June 8.—Refused medical attention for his child because of an unpaid bill, Jesse Joplin shot Dr. D. Winter Dunn, former mayor of Duquoin, six times. The physician died yesterday in a hospital at St. Louis, where he was taken after the shooting.

Joplin had been a patient of Dr. Dunn several years ago and the latter had been unable to collect for his services. He placed his accounts in the hands of collectors, it is said, and aroused the anger of Joplin. Recently Joplin's child became ill and Dr. Dunn refused to answer the call, Joplin claims. Joplin appeared at Dr. Dunn's office with a revolver in hand and said: "I have come for the purpose of killing you."

Dr. Dunn remonstrated with Joplin, saying he was sixty years old and no match for him physically. The doctor suddenly pushed Joplin through an open door and shut it. Joplin emptied his revolver through the door, every shot striking the physician. Joplin was arrested and taken to Pickneyville, the authorities fearing violence.

STRUCK BY AN AUTOMOBILE.

Lewis Gibford, ten years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gibford, 921 Putnam street, was struck by a speeding automobile Sunday evening while he was riding his bicycle along Cass street. Although numerous people saw the automobile no one witnessed the accident. The boy lay in the street in an unconscious condition when found by George Brookhouse, night engineer at the ice plant. The lad was attended by Dr. J. F. Dinnen and it was found that his worst injury is a severe bruise on the elbow.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Acts 7:44-56.

44 Our fathers had the tabernacle of witnesses in the wilderness, as he had appointed, speaking unto Moses, that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen.

45 Which also our fathers that came after brought in with Jesus into the possession of the Gentiles, whom God drave out before the face of our fathers, unto the days of David;

46 Who found favour before God, and desired to find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

47 But Solomon built him an house.

48 Howbeit the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet,

49 Heaven is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build me? saith the Lord: or what is the place of my rest?

50 Hath not my hand made all these things?

51 Ye stiffnecked and uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye.

52 Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them which shewed before of the coming of the Just One; of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers:

53 Who have received the law by the disposition of angels, and have not kept it.

54 When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth.

55 But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God,

56 And said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God.

MONDAY, JUNE 8, 1914.

Mr. Taft in Indiana Again.

William Howard Taft, formerly of Washington, now of New Haven; once president, now professor, is paying a visit to Indiana once more, this time in the role of a distinguished private citizen. We suspect that as a matter of fact he is enjoying himself infinitely more than when during those strenuous days of campaigning he dashed furiously hither and yon across Indiana, delivering car platform addresses and undergoing the strain of political excitement. We think, too, he must be more at ease than when the burdens of the presidency bore down upon him as he made occasional trips to this great commonwealth.

The contrast must seem striking to the distinguished professor of law. He came to Indianapolis Saturday, and proceeded quietly to the home of Mr. Fairbanks, the former vice president, planted a tree in the grounds of the latter during the afternoon, and on Sunday attended church at the state capital. His visit at this time is primarily for the purpose of delivering an address at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of New Harmony, the quaint old Posey county town which was the seat of early-day American experiments in socialistic and community existence.

We are told by the newspaper accounts that Professor Taft is care-free, smaller of girth, lighter of weight, and smiling as a boy whose shoulders have yet to learn the weight of life's responsibilities. There is no lack of warmth or genuineness of the greetings he is given as he comes back to Indiana, but his coming is naturally without the popular acclaim, the curious interest and the surging throngs to which he was accustomed as president. And it is, too, without the struggles and the bitterness that are inseparable from political conflict. Instead, we are able to get a glimpse of the distinguished American as a private citizen, to know him more intimately than as president, and to judge him more fairly. And for his part, Mr. Taft, free of public cares and retired from the spotlight of publicity, is in position to better appraise Indiana citizenship and to appreciate the kindly regard it has for him. We doubt, after all, if Mr. Taft would seriously desire to get back into the presidency again if that were possible. He is plainly enjoying his position as a private citizen too much to exchange it for his old job if the trade were proposed.

Rear Admiral Fletcher, in his report on the capture and occupation at Vera Cruz, makes especial mention of eight young Indiana men as worthy of commendation for valor and efficiency. The list includes Jonas S. Ingram, Ensign Lyal A. Davidson, Walter B. Weeks, of Redkey; Harry Dean Shipman, Roy Holloway, of Syracuse, Frank S. Smalley, and James A. Anderson, of Rochester. The showing for the Indiana men in the navy is an excellent one—but, for the matter of that, the Indiana man has always shown himself dependable in every branch of the country's military service.

Assistant postmasters in Indiana are holding their convention in Fort Wayne, discussing ways and means of improving the mail service and increasing their efficiency. Incidentally, we suspect also, they are preparing to demonstrate to Uncle Sam that when he feels like making a change in the heads of Indiana postoffices, each individual assistant will be prepared to show him where he can find a mighty good man for advancement to first position.

Before the old-line politicians at Indianapolis have had time to entirely recover from the shock of the law-observance program inaugurated there, two city inspectors have been unceremoniously "fired" for loafing. They are now convinced that you can never tell to what extet radicalism in reform is going to be carried, even by those whom you thought were your friends.

OBSERVE EVENT BY GIVING A PROGRAM

Turnverein Celebrates the Purchasing of Property on Superior Street.

ARE SOLE OWNERS

The members of the Turnverein Vorwaerts celebrated the purchasing of the property on West Superior street which they have been occupying for the past eight years Sunday evening by the rendition of a program consisting of musical numbers and several addresses. The Moose band had been engaged for the occasion and they gave a program in the large back yard of the building assisted by the German singing societies of the city. The program was followed by a ball.

The president, Ottomar Stiegler, introduced Adolph Roggen, a former president of the society, who delivered the principal address of the evening in which he reviewed the history of the organization. He told how the society had grown from a small organization in the year 1884 to a society at the present time which is not only enjoying the privilege of owning its own home but also sharing the honor of being one of the largest German societies in the city.

When the society was first organized it was known as the North American Turnerbund, but in 1897 a meeting was called and it was decided to organize under the name of Turner Vorwaerts. In 1901 the organization moved into the building which is now occupied by the Shriners where they remained until 1906 when one of the members conceived the idea that the present location was a good one. Shares of $2 each were issued and in this manner the building was purchased by the Turner Hall Building association. Year after year members of the Turnverein purchased these shares until last winter when $1,500 were realized from the fair the Turnverein saw its way clear to assume the sole ownership of the building.

The officers of the first society were: First speaker, Dr. Carl Schilling; second speaker, Theodore Lange; secretary, August Hartmann; financial secretary, Rudolph Kruekemeyer; treasurer, Fritz Boehlen; first Turnwart, Adolph Puff; second Turnwart, Max Schneider; trustees, Henry Brueggeman, Otto Blombach, A. Blank.

The present presiding officials are as follows: Ottomar Stiegler, first speaker; Emil Haberkorn, second speaker; Max Stern, recording secretary; Walter Poetzsch, corresponding secretary; Herman Korte, financial secretary; Adam Reinhart, treasurer; Max Irmscher, Wm. Moench and Gustave Ludwig, trustees.

Safety Suggestions

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure,

and great prudence should be exercised by all drivers and pedestrians in crossing in front of a moving car or train.

"Except in cases of emergency, pedestrians should use only the sidewalks and cross walks, and should never cross streets except at regular crossings and at right angles."

Buy Pontiac Place Lots Now

Make $50.00 in Two Days

If you buy a lot in Pontiac Place before Thursday you will make just $50.00. WHY? About 35 unsold lots are now being sold at the prices named last fall. Next Thursday morning we will add $50.00 to every lot on the paved streets and $25.00 to those on unpaved streets.

This is the first opportunity we have ever offered where the buyer knew that the price of his lot would be $50.00 more within a few days after buying. Every lot has sewers, sidewalks and trees, most of them are on paved streets. Call phone 253 for automobile. $10.00 cash and small monthly payments.

JAIL DELIVERY AT ALBION.

Four Men Charged With Larceny Saw From Noble County Bastile.

Albion, Ind., June 8.—The history of the Noble county jail has been marked by another delivery of prisoners. Early Sunday morning Sheriff John C. Cleland discovered that some time during the night Frank Stacey, Harry Lounsberry, Fred Craven and John Byron had sawed through two sets of bars and made their escape. It is the belief of the sheriff the prisoners had help from the outside. Stacey, Lounsberry and Craven were held for grand larceny and Byron was a tramp. A reward of $25 has been offered for capture of each of the fugitives. The Noble county pail has been the scene of several deliveries during the past thirty years. Twice Marvin Kuhns, the notorious Noble county desperado, who was killed by the sheriff near Van Wert, Ohio, a few years ago, figured in sensational deliveries from this jail. Once he and an aged horse thief named John Howell sawed out and at another time Kuhns, after he had served a penitentiary sentence and was jailed here for helping to beat up the town marshal, led a break of half a dozen prisoners. Kuhns knocked the sheriff down, after enticing him into the cell corridor by a plausible excuse and the whole band tore out of the lock-up and away.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT FAILS.

Hartford City, Ind., June 8.—Miss Ella Butcher, of Montpelier, is improving following her attempt to commit suicide by drinking carbolic acid. She was found in a serious condition behind an organ in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Butcher. Despondency because of a love affair with a man named Gilbert, living in Wells county, is believed to have prompted her act. In a note left for her parents the girl said that life held no joys for her and was full of too many temptations. "I have often warned you what I would do," read a portion of the note written to Gilbert.

YOUNG SWIMMER DROWNS.

Lagrange, Ind., June 8.—While swimming in Merritt lake, near here, Sunday afternoon, Fred Aldrich, aged 16, was seized with cramps and drowned in sight of companions, who were unable to rescue him. The body was recovered.

NOBLE COUNTY MOOSE TICKET.

Progressive Party in Mass Convention Names Candidates.

Albion, Ind., June 8.—The following ticket was named by county progressives in mass convention here Saturday afternoon:

Representative, Ashton Sedgewick, Ligonier; auditor, Marion Beberick, Cromwell; treasurer, Alma Prickett, Albion; sheriff, Arthur C. Shore, Kendallville; assessor, Adolph Adams, Kendallville; surveyor, Mr. Kidd, Albion; coroner, Dr. C. A. Gardner, Kendallville; commissioner of North district, George Diggins, Kendallville; commissioner of South district, Loren Cole, Cromwell; three councilmen-at-large, John Schermerhorn, Orange township; Ellis Smith, Ligonier, and Isaac Deter, Kendallville; councilmen by districts—First, Anderson Galloway, Cromwell; Second, Curt Russell, Albion; Third, Frank Holsinger, Rome City; Fourth, George Tyler, Kendallville.

About 300 members of the progressive party attended the convention.

WOMAN HANGS HERSELF.

Mrs. Kooms, Despondent Because of Illness, Ends Life Near Avilla.

Avilla, Ind., June 8.—Mrs. William H. Kooms, residing three miles northwest of this place, ended her life Sunday evening by hanging herself with a rope from the rafters of the barn. She was aged about fifty years and had become despondent from continued ill health. Her disappearance and prolonged absence from the house caused her husband to make a search of the premises for her and she was found dead in the barn about 6:30 Sunday evening. The woman's despondent condition had caused a watch to be kept upon her, but there was o special anxiety that she might end her life. Besides her husband she leaves a daughter and three sisters.

ANNOUNCE SECRET WEDDING.

Hartford City, Ind., June 8.—Sherman Cole, a member of the senior class graduating last week, and Miss Maude Baker, of Eaton, were principals in a secret wedding at St. Joseph, Mich., March 14. The fact that Cole was married when he received his diploma was not known until today, when announcement was made. Although immediate relatives knew of the marriage, they assisted Cole in keeping it a secret until he could finish his school work. The bridegroom is a son of Oliver Cole, a farmer west of this city, and his wife is a daughter of L. N. Baker, west of Eaton.

BOLD DIAMOND ROBBERY.

Wabash, Ind., June 8.—Three diamonds, valued at $1,000, were stolen here by a stranger who entered the jewelry store owned by H. J. Welsh and asked to look at a tray of diamonds. After inspecting the stones he asked the clerk, who was alone at the time, if he had other stones of a better grade. The clerk stepped down the aisle between the counters to get another tray and, taking advantage of the moment when the clerk's back was turned, the stranger reached the sidewalk before his escape was noticed. The clerk gave pursuit, but lost track of the man in an adjacent alley.

SLANDER SUIT FAILS.

Albion, June 8.—Curtis C. Simon, of Avilla, vs. Peter Bauman, a case for slander, was tried in the Noble circuit court and after being out all night the jury found in favor of the defendant. The case, which is the first of its kind tried in the county for twenty years, first got into the courts a year ago, and after a heated argument the jury disagreed. It has been pending since. The case was the outgrowth of a lost pocketbook belonging to Bauman, containing $700. Bauman accused Simon of stealing the pocketbook.

LOSES LIFE WHILE BATHING.

Angola, Ind., June 8.—While bathing in a gravel pit that is filled with water, near Sedan, Sunday afternoon, Herber Hartman, aged 16, was drowned. A companion, Carl Meiser, was rescued after a hard struggle by Russel Morrison. The body of the drowned boy was recovered.

HOSPITAL WITHOUT MATRON.

Goshen, Ind., June 8.—Goshen hospital is without a matron. Several months ago Miss Alice Oxby, who has been in charge of the institution since its opening, tendered her resignation, which took effect last Saturday. The hospital board then engaged Miss Blanche Houston, of South Bend, to fill the vacancy. She was to take charge Monday but failed to appear, refusing to take the position. A board meeting will be held shortly to select a head for the hospital.

LADY TIGER KEEPER TO JAIL.

Wabash, Ind., June 8.—For the first time in the history of Wabash county a woman was sent to jail for violating the liquor laws when Mrs. Lillian Bingham, 35, was sentenced to sixty days in jail, to which was coupled a fine of $350 for operating a "blind tiger." Mrs. Bingham was indicted by the grand jury. She entered a plea of not guilty. Although the prosecution had a score of witnesses the defendant refused to offer any evidence. The jury was out two hours.

MASH ESCORT IS ROUGH GALLANT

Lillian Smith Permits Red Leeper to See Her Home and is Slugged.

NEWS OF THE POLICE

Lillian Smith, aged 17, daughter of Charles Smith, 1602 North Harrison street, was tripping daintily along to her home at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night. She was accosted at the corner of Harrison and Lewis streets by "Red" Leeper, an entire stranger, whose gallant air and Chesterfieldian grace immediately won her confidence and commanded her esteem. Sure he could go along, and he did. They stopped over in Bloomingdale at a drugstore, where Friend Beau got a wad of cigarettes, and at a saloon, where he purchased a bottle of beer. Then they wandered with happy aimlessness to Clinton and Fourth streets, meanwhile drinking the beer. The girl wouldn't go any further in the direction of Lawton park and her mash escort lost his temper and maced Miss Smith in the back of the head and took to his heels as she screamed bloody murder. James Dalton, a Lake Shore railway switchman, had seen the assault and he hastened to the assistance of the young lady. Dalton took the girl to her home and the police department was notified. Police Surgeon J. Frank Dinnen attended the young lady's injuries, which consisted of a long scalp wound from which the blood had poured down her back, drenching her clothing. From description given by Miss Smith and from her recollection of the name claimed by her ruffianly escort, Detectives M. A. Rundell and Joe Brennan made out that it must have been Carl ("Young") Holzhauer, a well-known local pugilist who had committed the assault. Miss Smith was quite positive it was he who had set upon her. This view prevailed until it was fully ascertained that "Young" Holzhauer is in Michigan, running the boxing feature of a carnival show. Then evidence was got hold of that it might have been Edwin ("Red") Leeper who had assaulted the young woman. He was arrested and fully identified by the Smith girl. In the city court Monday morning Leeper pleaded guilty to assault and battery. Miss Smith gave the only testimony and related the incidents of the "mash" on the street late at night, the walk homeward, the stopping for cigarettes and beer, and of drinking with her companion and of the assault. The immediate occasion of the attack made by Leeper was a point on which Miss Smith was indefinite not to say reticent. She identified some blood-drenched clothing as her own. Judge Kerr stated his dissatisfaction with the girl's testimony but said that upon Leeper's plea of guilty no course was open but to affix a sufficient penalty. He fined Leeper $25 and costs and added thirty days in jail. Leeper's attorney immediately took an appeal to the circuit court and furnished bond for the prisoner. Leeper is a machinist in the Pennsylvania shops and is an overdone follower of prize-fighting with an abnormal penchant for being "next" to the work of detectives. He has been in other trouble.

Got Back His Suit.

Oliver Wilson, colored, sold Joe Merrill, of similar hue, a suit of clothes for $4. That was eight months ago. Wilson says he wasn't able to collect and seeing the clothes airing on a line at the Merrill home decided to have them back. He wanted to do things in order and with authority. So he asked Chief of Police Lenz what to do. The chief told him if the togs were his and he could get his hands on them the process would seem to be simple enough. Wilson performed according to dope and got the clothes and took them home. Merrill came to the Wilson home to see about the predatory seizure. When Wilson got through explaining Merrill had a pair of black eyes so perfectly well done that they showed with unmistakable distinctness even against his sable complexion. Merrill had Wilson arrested for assault and battery and Judge Kerr fined him $1 and costs, which didn't seem to disturb him much. He arranged to pay.

Other City Court Cases.

Steve Jordan journeyed up from Latty, Ohio, Saturday to break a long drouth that had hung over him since his last visit to Fort Wayne. Officer Crawley found him early Sunday morning at Taylor street and the Wabash railroad trying to pick a likely route back to Latty. He was very drunk and just for that Judge Kerr sent him over for eleven days.

The case against Ed Wallmark, charged with neglecting his wife and children, was dismissed on motion of the prosecuting attorney.

KELLEY ARMY IN CLEVELAND.

"Colonel" Charles B. McLennan's detachment of "General" Kelley's army of the unemployed, detained here over Friday night by the police and entertained Saturday afternoon by the same attentive functionaries, reached Cleveland, Ohio, via Nickel Plate fast freight Sunday afternoon. The army was fed at its camp east of the city Saturday afternoon. Shortly before 3 o'clock orders to break camp were given, the command "fall in" was shouted and "forward, march," was heard above the tumult of imminent departure. "Colonel" McLennan led his troops down the Nickel Plate track to New Haven where a freight train was boarded and the ride to Cleveland was made in comparative comfort.

NO TRAGEDY FEARED.

Officer Lew Crawley found man's coat and hat and one sealed quart bottle of whisky on the bank of the St. Marys river near the Taylor street bridge Sunday morning. The coat had an empty pay envelope in it bearing the name "F. Zeigler." The coat and hat and booze are at police headquarters and there is no suspicion that the owner is in the river.

SOCIETY

Miss Genevieve Kindler is visiting relatives in Toledo, O.

The Pickwick Literature club will meet on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Pence, 731 Poplar street.

A dinner party will be given on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Huldah Keller at the Anthony hotel.

The Rest-a-While club will be entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. S. C. Evans, of Lake avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perfect and Mr. and Mrs. James B. White have returned from a southern automobile trip and a visit in Ohio.

Mrs. Lora V. Afler, who had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Smethers, of 2009 Wells street, has returned to Columbia City.

The piano pupils of Miss Lillian Lapp gave an excellent recital on Saturday afternoon before parents and friends in Emmaus hall.

Mrs. Charles Sovine, of North Calhoun street, and son, Walter, have gone to Butler to visit her mother, Mrs. Helena Barnhart.

Russell Polhamus, who has just returned from Yale university, is entertaining a classmate for a few days, Harry Storson, of Moorehead, Minn.

Eben Lane has come home from the south for a month's vacation and is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lane.

Richard Dinnen has come home from Purdue, where he has been a student, and will spend the summer with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. James M. Dinnen.

The guests were Misses Elizabeth Crow, Florence Stump, Mary Trautman, Estella Pape, Frances Lopshire, Edith Corcoran, Nettie Augsperger, Minnie Armstrong and Mrs. Peterson, of Denver, Col.

The Pythian Sisters will give a picnic at Robison park on Thursday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Mattie Shaw, who will soon leave for Minneapolis to reside. The picnic will be a basket affair and all sisters will go prepared.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Misner, of Lafayette street, gave an announcement party in honor of their daughter, Clara, whose marriage to Earl Ege will take place in September. The guests were members of the Bachelor Girls club. A merry time was enjoyed and Miss Misner received the heartiest kind of congratulations.

A lovely party was a daisy chair affair which Miss Carlye Schilling, of Union street, gave for the members of the Mary N. C. club on Sunday afternoon. Miss Schilling is president of the club. A happy time was spent. There were games, music and light refreshments for the pleasure of the guests. Chains of daisies made pretty decorations and flowers were favors for the guests.

Among the many Fort Wayne people who are going abroad this summer are the Misses Smeltzley, the Misses Shryock, Miss Sihler and a party conducted by Homer A. Davisson, which will include the Misses Pfeiffer, Mrs. Amy R. Seavey, the Misses Tinkham, Ralph Tinkham, the Misses Flick, Miss Mae R. Williams, Mrs. Fred Lambert and daughter, Violet.

The kindergarten teachers of the Hoagland, Jefferson, Nebraska and Washington schools are to have a good time in Swinney park on Wednesday afternoon beginning at 2:45 o'clock. There will be a Maypole dance, games and music. John Wessel, of the city lighting department, has furnished the pole and the Packard Piano company will loan a piano.

The pupils of Miss Leah Stogdill were delightfully entertained at a musical party on Saturday afternoon at her home at 907 West Creighton avenue. Those who enjoyed the afternoon were Myrl Hagan, Mildred Boggs, Senda Dasseler, Ella Kirn, Marie Swartz, Ruby Trevey, Saray Trevey, Helen Eickmeyer, Thelma Daily, Lucile Siebold, Marie Nieb, Laura Krudop, Ralph Meyers, Hiram Drummond, Martin Heingartner, Gearhardt Hoppe, Edward LaPointe.

A pretty party of Saturday afternoon was given by Mrs. Charles W. Boshler, of 334 West Butler street, honoring Miss Marie Springer, of Lagrange. Games were the amusement until the hour of serving refreshment which made a delightful contribution to the pleasure of the guests. Prizes in contests were won by Misses Beatrice Birely and Lucile Foellinger. Other guests who enjoyed the afternoon were Misses Grace Johnson, Mary Anders, Helen Speece, Helen Penny, Ruth Lynch, Helen McCarthy and Iona Werkman.

Friends in Fort Wayne received cards today announcing the marriage of Benjamin F. T. Thorward, of South Bend, to Miss Elisa Rebecca Candor, which took place in Evanston, Ill., on Thursday, June 4. Mr. and Mrs. Thorward are now on their wedding trip and will be at home after July 15 at 75 Noble road, East Cleveland, O. Mr. Thorward at one time lived in Fort Wayne and he was a pupil of the Fort Wayne high school. He is a Michigan university man and a member of Sigma Chi.

Mrs. George Gerhard, of West Woodland avenue, gave a party of beautiful arrangement on Friday evening in honor of Miss Lena Terry, one of the elected brides of the month. Many field daisies were used in decorating the rooms and the table and the result was charming. In the center of the table at which Miss Terry sat were daisies and bouquets of the same flower were attached to place cards so each guest had flowers to wear. A chain of daisies extended from the chandelier to the corners of the table and made the effect still prettier. The young women invited hemmed towels for Miss Terry and besides gave her a shower of gifts for her new home.

Miss Cecile Bradshaw, formerly of this city, was graduated with honors on June 5 from Mary institute, St. Louis, Mo. The commencement exercises were the fifty-first in the history of this institution of learning, which is one of the famous ones of this part of the country. Miss Bradshaw had been a student there for two years and her honors are distinctive as she is the only student on record who graduated after but two years' attendance with honors. The young lady is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradshaw, who moved to St. Louis a little over two years ago. Miss Bradshaw was a student in the Fort Wayne High and Manual Training school here.

Bolson—Goldberger.

Miss Cecelia Goldberger, one of several beautiful daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Goldberger, and Mr. Edward Bolson, of Braddock, Pa., were married on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in East Wayne street. Rabbi Meyer Lovitch officiated at the impressive wedding service. Miss Adeline Goldberger, as maid of honor; little Ruth Goldberger, who carried flowers and the wedding ring, and Mr. Ben Berk, of Braddock, who was best man, were the attendants. Only relatives were present at the marriage. The bride was handsomely gowned in a white crepe de chine made with train and trimmed with fine lace. She wore a bridal veil fashioned into a becoming cap and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The honor maid wore a pink crepe de chine gown and she held an arm bouquet of pink roses. Miss Ruth wore a pink dress trimmed with white lace. The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. C. A. Horton and Mr. Simon with harp and violin. Many pink peonies, roses and sweetpeas with smilax and ferns decorated the house. Pink roses and bows of white tulle trimmed the bride's table beautifully. Covers were laid for thirty at an elegant wedding dinner served as soon as congratulations were extended. Many friends called during the evening as an informal reception was held so that the many friends of the bride might have an opportunity to offer congratulations before she left at midnight for her new home in Braddock, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Bolson will first take a trip to Niagara Falls and other eastern points. The bride is an accomplished and attractive young woman. Mr. Bolson is proprietor of a moving picture theater in Braddock. Guests from away who were present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shatsky and daughter, Alice Elizabeth, of Terre Haute; Mrs. J. Berk, Mr. Ben Berk, of Braddock, Pa.; Mrs. Rose Joseph, of Baltimore; Miss Anne Rosenberg, of Chicago, and Miss Hazel Cohen, of Toledo.

Sprunger—Lochner.

A wedding of Sunday, June 7, was that of Miss Sylvia Lochner and Mr. Alvin A. Sprunger, which took place at the beautiful farm home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lochner, near Monroe. Mr. Sprunger, who has been for a number of years a very successful teacher in Maumee township, is now postmaster of Woodburn, which is his home. Mr. Sprunger is a prominent young man, well known as a church worker, business man and band member of the local organization. His bride is a young lady of sterling qualities and is more than ordinarily popular with the young people. Mr. and Mrs. Sprunger will be at home to their friends after July 1, in their new home already furnished in Carl street, Woodburn. A number of Fort Wayne relatives motored to Monroe on Sunday to attend the wedding.

Vining—Swallow.

Miss Hazel M. Swallow and Mr. Joseph Vining were married Saturday evening at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Vining, 1511 Fletcher avenue, by Rev. G. F. Byrer, of Calvary U. B. church.

ANNUAL DISPLAY OF CLASS WORK.

Many Visitors at Sacred Heart Academy on Sunday to View Exhibit.

The beautiful grounds of Sacred Heart academy and the airy rooms of the building were thronged with visitors on Sunday who gathered to dwitness the annual exhibit of class work, art work and plain sewing of the institution. Maps, charts, bookkeeping sets, illustrated problems in physics and exercises in typewriting, etc., spoke well for the neatness and thorough training of the pupils in the various classes. Numerous articles of lingerie daintily made and adorned with trimmings, children's dresses and other articles both useful and pretty were excellent examples of needlework. Studies from nature in oil, watercolor and charcoal and various copies in landscape and animal heads expressed attention and capability in art work. There were also various examples in embroidery in colors and in plain white that were beautifully done and a number of pieces of handwork in china bespoke the attention given to keramics. Two large flower pieces in watercolors from nature, a handsome tankard and steins, a vase in clematis and a splendid pitcher in enamel were marked "Sacred Heart Academy." This exhibit was the prelude to the commencement exercises of the academy to be held in the Majestic theater on Thursday morning at 9:15 o'clock.

Duplicate Famous "400" of New York in Chicago Now

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is president of a "400" club, the first of its kind west of New York city, which has just been organized in the elite residential section of Chicago.

Although the lid was not fastened down tight until just two more than the exact 400 were enrolled, the membership is said to correspond to the far-famed New York "400."

WILL HAVE SOCIAL EVENING.

James H. Smart School to Entertain Former Graduates from Building.

The James H. Smart school will have an out of doors social evening on Wednesday of this week. The grounds will be illuminated and the band from the State school will furnish a program of music. All graduates from the old Holton avenue school are especially invited to attend this entertainment and a cordial invitation is extended to parent-teacher club members and other parents of the district.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

LES MISERABLES AT MAJESTIC.

Hugo's Famous Masterpiece is Depicted in Motion Picture.

All this week Victor Hugo's wonderful masterpiece, Les Miserables, will be seen in motion pictures at the Majestic. This tremendously big picture feature gives to the spectator a clear idea of the wonderful progress this newest of arts theatrical has made, how important a part it assumes even today in the entertainments and even more in the education of modern civilized life. Here we see the principal chapters of one of the most famous works of the great French romancier, rendered by the best dramatic talent of the Parisian stage and perfectly reproduced by the camera. The action of the novel is worked out so smoothly and connectedly that even those who never read "Les Miserables" can follow the story with perfect understanding; that means that moving pictures like these are not only a source of entertainment, but even more the means to acquaint the great mass of the public with the masterpieces of the world's literature, without forcing the great majority whose time is occupied otherwise, to master the languages of other nations. The pictures are technically perfect, vividly posed and artistically and realistically staged, indeed often vivid enough to let the audience forget that only a dumb screen fills the stage. "Les Miserables" is worthy a visit by everyone who has an eye for beauty and a mind capable of comprehending the great in literature and histrionic art.

AT THE TEMPLE

DR. WINTERS IS HERE.

Newcastle Man and Wife Will Appear on Stage at the Temple.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Winters, of Newcastle, arrested last week charged with conspiracy to commit a felony, a charge brought about in the case of their missing daughter, Catherine Winters, for whom the whole country has searched, arrived in Fort Wayne this afternoon, and Tuesday and Wednesday evening they will appear on the stage at the Temple theater, between the acts of the Temple Theater Stock company. Dr. Winters has gone to almost every state in the union in a fruitless hunt for his missing daughter, and his experiences are well worth hearing. As he lectures he will throw interesting motion pictures on the Temple screen, showing some of the features of his search for the long missing girl.

Dowager Empress of Russia is Called "A Queen of Tears"

Queen Alexander's sister, the dowager empress of Russia, is known throughout the empire as the "queen of tears," as every important event in her life has been heralded with suffering. She was little more than a child when the czarewitch, her bethrothed, died practically in her arms.

Soon after her marriage to his brother, the present czar's father, the emperor, Alexander II, was blown almost to pieces in the streets of St. Petersburg.

At the coronation of her son, the present czar, she witnessed the awful tragedy of the Khokinsky Plain at Moscow, when 1,500 people were crushed to death.

The Temple theater company opened to a well filled house for the first production of "The Wages of Sin." This show will run tonight, Tuesday night and Wednesday, matinee and night. On Thursday the company changes bills and will stage the thrilling and educational white slave story, "Why Girls Leave Home." This show has been heralded broadcast as one of the best of the modern plays treating this question. The undesirable lines of the original production have been nicely eliminated and the show is bound to be of vital interest to everybody.

AT THE EMPRESS

Starting this afternoon and continuing until tomorrow night the feature of the Empress bill will be "The Daughter of the Tribe," and just as the name suggests it will be a western picture of great merit and the lovers of the western pictures will miss a great treat if they should miss this feature. It is in three parts.

A Keystone comedy will also be shown and those who wish to laugh will be right at home for that's what the Keystone comedies are for.

Starting Thursday afternoon the Empress will show two hundred slides of Mexico as seen during the war strife now going on. These pictures are of unusual interest here because they were all taken by a Fort Wayne man. Prof. Claud Michelon, of the Paris School of French, is as well versed on the Mexican situation as any man in Fort Wayne because he was there and took pictures of various cities and war leaders for over ten months. While there he was engaged as a war correspondent.

The pictures show Prof. Michelon while in prison—he was held on suspision by the Mexican authorities for three days—and also on the battlefield with his cook and faithful dog, Rover, which is well known to many Fort Wayne people.

FARMER KILLS INTRUDER.

Father of Victim Also was Slain Twenty-eight Years Ago.

Quincy, Ill., June 8.—William Sheehan was shot and instantly killed yesterday by James Robinson, a farmer of Marblehead, four miles south of Quincy, when Sheehan is said to have attempted to break ito Robinson's house. Robinson does not deny the shooting.

Two other men were with Sheehan and say that the three had not yet entered the farmer's yard. Robinson has been charged with first degree murder.

Twenty-eight years ago this month Sheehan's father, Henry Sheehan, a blacksmith, was killed in the same town in his shop by Robert Hunsacker. Hunsacker's son Best was present when the killing occurred yesterday.

FRIAR FROLIC A SUCCESS.

The Friar club held the first of their summer frolics Sunday at the Schroeder grove and everyone reports that the affair was a grand success. The entire body left Sunday morning and returned in the evening. Several ball games were staged during the morning which furnished a great deal of amusement and at noon a sumptuous dinner was served by the club's caterer, Oscar Cotton.

$7,500 IN LOTS SOLD

PONTIAC PLACE LOTS GOING RAPIDLY.—TEN DAYS' SALE A GREAT SUCCESS.

On June 1st Mr. Doud, sales manager of Pontiac Place, advertised that he would offer all of the unsold lots in Pontiac Place Extended, at the prices named last fall and that on June 10th, prices would be advanced from $25 to $50 on all unsold lots after that date. There has been $7,500 worth of lots sold up to today, leaving only 35 unsold lots in the entire plat. Mr. Doud confidently expects to close a number of these before Thursday morning, which will certainly be a record sale for mid-season.

BOARD TO MEET.

PRINCESS LOUISE AND HER BABY BOY.

Berlin, June 8.—The "Smiling Princess" has called down the wrath of her royal father, the kaiser, upon her again. The royal infant born to Princess Louise and the Duke of Brunswick is a boy, and the kaiser wanted it to be a girl. The birth of the hereditary Guelph princeling opens up the old feud between Brunswick and Prussia and the war lord is consequently sadly displeased.

In their castle at Gmunden, the "royal love birds" are very happy, however, and proud of the sturdy boy baby that has so provoked his grandfather.

SUNDAY SESSION A HELPFUL ONE

Marion Township Sunday Convention Held at Poe.

OFFICERS ELECTED

An interesting and helpful Sunday school convention was held Sunday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church at Poe.

The meeting was presided over by township president, A. O. Hadly, and opened by invocation by Rev. Mumma. "The Adult Bible Class" was presented by the county president, Dr. M. A. Mason, who brought out many helpful suggestions. A. D. Craig talked on the subject, "Teacher and Teacher Training," and showed how the teacher should be the dynamo of the school. E. A. K. Hackett gave a gospel talk and took for his subject, "Are You Standing on the Solid Rock?"

The Poe male quartet, composed of Marion Smith, Robert Mercer, John Rule and Charles Harkless, rendered several choice selections. These gentlemen have good voices and their singing was well received by the audience. They were accompanied by Mrs. Mary E. True on the piano.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, A. O. Hadly; vice president, J. S. Youse; secretary and treasurer, Claud Neriter; superintendent of adults, Mrs. C. Hubler; superintendent of home department, Marion Smith; missions, Mrs. Robert Mercer; teacher training, Mrs. A. K. Mumma; temperance, Mrs. Jesse Ake; secondary division, Charles True; elementary, Effie Doughert.

The following delegates were elected to the state convention to be held in Indianapolis, June 16 to 20; Antioch Sunday school, Miss Jessie Harrod and George Bobilya; Poe, A. O. Hadly and Charles True.

FESTIVAL OPENS TONIGHT.

All Preparations Are Made for Event at St. Andrew's Catholic Church.

All preparations have been made for the opening of the mammoth spring festival to be held this week at the St. Andrew's Catholic church which will begin Monday evening and continue up to and including Saturday night. No effort has been spared to make this affair a social and financial success and the receipts will be used to liquidate the parish debt.

In order to make this festival a great success all other pastors of the city have received a request from Bishop Alerding not to hold their annual festival this year. A large number of tickets have been disposed of and it is thought that the opening night tonight will be a banner night.

An attractive musical program will be given each evening and Orth's orchestra, which has been secured for the occasion, will render some special music.

Gen. Funston's Great Story, "Memories of Two Wars"

Pumping Dynamite at Enemy in Cuba

(After the great artillery duel at Jiguani, General Funston says that General Garcia's army, more ragged and hungry than ever, remained inactive for six months except to march around in search of food. Finally, in August, Garcia concentrated his scattered bands to the number of 5,800 for an attack on the town of Victoria de las Tunas, in the province of Oriente. The town was in a plain with a high ridge dominating it. The Spanish garrison numbered 800, with two Krupp guns. Their main defenses were a big brick cavalry barracks known as the Cuartel de la Caballeria, a massive stone building called the Cuartel de la Infanteria, and a two-story brick named Telegraph Fort, having a five-foot brick wall outside of it.—Editor.)

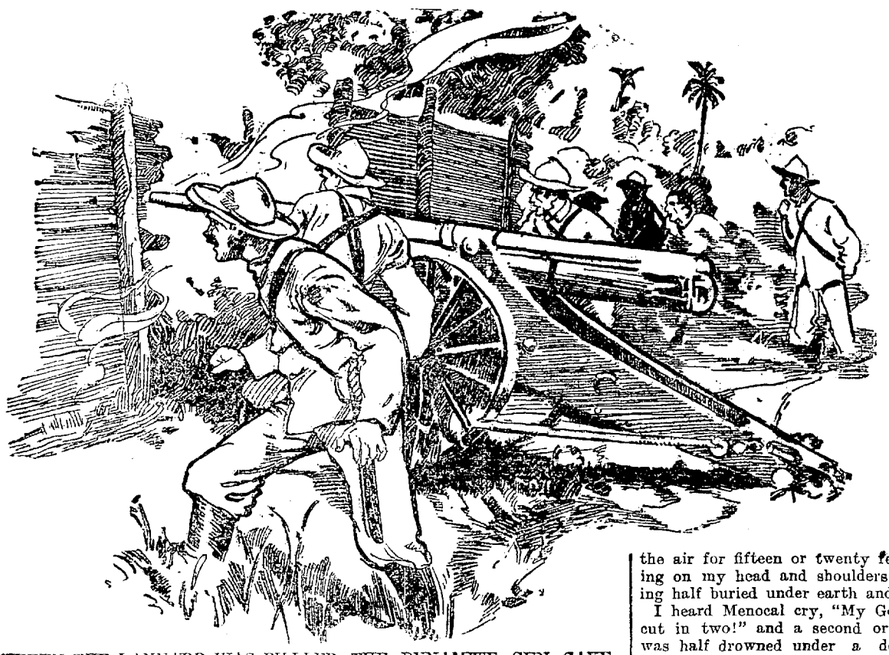
CHAPTER X.

By FREDERICK FUNSTON,
Brigadier General, United States Army.

We had six guns, as follows: One Sims-Dudley dynamite gun, our old friend Cayo Hueso, two Hotchkiss twelve-pounders and two two-pounders. On this occasion a dynamite gun was for the first time to be used in war. The projectile of this weapon consisted of a cylindrical brass case about two inches in diameter and eighteen inches long, containing a bursting charge of five pounds of nitro-gelatine. A small charge of smokeless powder was used to compress the air by means of which the projectile was expelled from the gun.

The powder charge, of course, could not act directly on this explosive, or the gun would have been blown to atoms at the first shot. The shell could easily be seen in the air, resembling a swallow in flight.

At last General Garcia gave the word to open on the Cuartel de la Caballeria. The dynamite gun was given the honor of leading the ball. There was no little uneasiness as to what would happen when this uncanny weapon was fired, and there was not much of a tendency to stand too close to it.



"WHEN THE LANYARD WAS PULLED THE DYNAMITE GUN GAVE WHAT SOUNDED LIKE A LOUD COUGH."

When the lanyard was pulled the gun gave what sounded like a loud cough and jumped a little. We were in some doubt as to whether it had gone off or not, but looking toward the Cuatrel de la Caballeria saw a most astounding spectacle. A section of the brick wall was blown in, making a hole large enough to have admitted a good-sized truck. A cloud of dust and fragments of the wall rose fifty feet in the air and descended in a shower on the roof.

Our other five guns now crashed out, making a wall of smoke in front of our position. From the various forts and blockhouses came a crackling sound that soon swelled almost to a roar, and in less than a minute a big puff of smoke rose from a gun pit beyond the Cuartel de la Caballeria and almost instantly a shrapnel burst in front of our parapet, showering it with fragments and bullets. Then came a puff of smoke and a boom from another pit near the first one, and a second shell barely cleared our heads.

While the shells from our rifled breech-loaders made very respectable holes in the walls, those from the dynamite gun created havoc, every shot blowing quantities of bricks and roofing tiles high in the air. Very wisely, the garrison had vacated the building after the first shot, and now from the trenches around it maintained on us a hot and persistent fire. The barrack having been wrecked in short order, there was nothing to be gained by further bombardment of its ruins, and we aimed at the trenches with the double purpose of throwing shells into them and of breaking up the wire entanglements immediately in front.

All of this time we were being pelted by shells as fas as two Krupp breech-loaders could be served. Shells were bursting all around us, and occasionally one would wreck a portion of our gun parapet. I hope it will not be taken as unseemly boasting, but as stating an absolute fact, when I say that far from feeling any uneasiness we were as cool as cucumbers, and considered that we were having the time of our lives. But it had taken participation in a good many stiff fights to bring us to such a state of mind.

Shortly after our fight had begun it had developed that the weeds on our front were interfering with the sighting of the guns. I considered cutting them out of the way a soldier's and not an officer's job, and called on several of the rank and file, but they were so slow in responding that Janney ran out into the open and with his machete did the work, utterly oblivious to the bullets and shells that were coming in thick and fast.

To our right front, and distant only 500 yards, was the Concepcion blockhouse, the garrison of which had with a strange fatuousness remained inside the structure instead of taking to the trenches, and were firing rapidly from the portholes of the lower story. But their time came quickly. The dynamite gun was dragged into range and careful aim taken. When it gave its characteristic cough we saw the projectile sail gracefully through the air and strike the blockhouse squarely in the center. The shell penetrated and burst inside, killing every one of the sixteen defenders. The structure was all but demolished, portions of the roof being blown a hundred feet in the air.

One of the few Americans serving with the Cuban infantry was Joseph Napoleon Chapleau, who had the rank of lieutenant colonel. As his name would indicate, Chapleau was of French descent and he had all the characteristics of his race. He was volatile and dashing, and had made a reputation for dare-devil exploits.

On this occasion he was with some infantry just to our right. When he saw the disaster to the Concepcion blockhouse he took his cue and waited for no orders. With about fifty men he rushed it under a hot fire from the tranches around the cavalry barracks. There was not room for all his men in the trenches, and so Chapleau and some of them fought on the outside. Chapleau himself, using a rifle and encouraging the men with him, received a wound that cut a blood vessel in his neck. He was brought back under fire and attended by a surgeon attached to General Garcia's headquarters.

I saw the general and his staff, standing uncovered and with bowed heads, while the blood gushed in torrents from the wounded man's throat, drenching the surgeon.

Chapleau, perfectly conscious, was muttering, "It is finished," "It is finished," "It is all over," his voice growing gradually weaker until his head sank down on his breast and another brave man had died a soldier's death.

The scene just described is such a one as we have all seen on the stage in melo-dramas and military plays, and have always thought overdone and unreal. But within a stone's throw was a batterp in action, and as Chapleau sank into the last sleep with the silent and uncovered men about him, the last sounds he heard were the booming of its guns and the crackle of the Mausers.

The fast work had heated our guns until I believe eggs could have been fried on their barrels, and it was necessary to suspend fire for a while, this being feasible, as we thought we had scared the Krupp guns out of the fight.

While we were resting, allowing the guns to cool and taking stock of the wreckage, to our great surprise the Krupps reopened on us from a new position, and we went for them in a hurry. Portuondo landed a shell from the dynamite gun squarely under one of them. The explosion killed every man serving the piece and completely wrecked it, shattering the carriage and one wheel.

After the surrender we examined this gun with the greatest interest. One peculiar fact was that the minute fragments of the thin brass case that contained the bursting charge had been blown into the steel barrel so hard that they remained there and made it look as if it had been inlaid with gold.

Immediately after sighting Cayo Hueso I had been climbing part way up on the parapet to the windward of the smoke to observe the effects of my own shots. Whenever in this position I saw the flash of the enemy's gun I would yell "Down!" and would drop into one of the short ditches with the others. Finally I took a foolish notion that this getting down with such haste looked undignified. So when the next flash came I gave the warning cry and stood my ground. A couple of seconds later I was literally hurled backward through the air for fifteen or twenty feet, landing on my head and shoulders and being half buried under earth and poles.

I heard Menocal cry, "My God, he is cut in two!" and a second or so later was half drowned under a deluge of filthy water.

Colonel Garcia had picked up a bucket containing the water in which the sponge used in swabbing out one of the guns from time to time had been dipped and had poured it over me. This having been the color and something like the consistency of printer's ink, I certainly was not a very inspiring object when helped to my feet. The shell had pierced the parapet about two feet from me, and had burst some twenty feet beyond. (Copyright by Charles Scribner's Cons.)

SAYS SULPHUR IS SURE TO RELIEVE ITCHING ECZEMA

Get an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and heal skin eruptions right up.

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and soothes and heals the Eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome.—Adv.

SAYS HE'S FOUND HAY FEVER CURE

The Remedy of a Missouri Physician is a Toxin.

MADE FROM RAGWEED

Kansas City, June 1.—A cure for hay fever?

Out of the despised ragweed, the loved and feared golden rod and the honey-bearing Spanish needle—the pollen-bearing trio that set the world to sneezing—is made the remedy that was proposed as a cure before the convention of homeopathic physicians of Missouri.

To Give it to Science.

"I am not announcing this as a cure," he said. "I certainly hope that it will prove as successful on further trials as it has so far, and if it proves the cure we have sought so long, I want the entire medical fraternity to have it.

"We have been very near this toxin for twenty years in the medical profession. There is a serum on the market now that is fairly successful for local treatment, that is made by injecting the toxin into an animal and preparing a serum. This remedy I have developed is the toxin itself, obtained directly from the plants.

"The process of preparation requires great care. The pollen must be gathered early in the morning before the sun rises, for the toxin found in the pollen in the heat of the day is a different thing from that found in early morning or late night. I shook the pollen from the ragweed, two varieties of golden rod and two varieties of Spanish needle onto a plate of glycerin and prepared and strained a toxin with water that I injected into the bodies of the patients. It carried the active poison or principles of the pollen. For a cure I used four doses two days apart.

Physicians Await Results.

"For a preventive I began before the time for the patient's hay fever to appear and used an injection each week for five weeks.

"The toxin has shown its virility by hastening the hay fever season of patients in an overdose."

The discussion of the proposed remedy was spirited and the physician agreed that if subsequent experiments proved the remedy to be a positive cure, or even a reliable preventive, the discovery would be one of the most important of the decade.

LIGHTING COMPANY PICNIC.

Employes Went to Blue Lake and Enjoyed Annual Outing.

Seventy employes of the Indiana Lighting company went to Blue lake Sunday, using four automobiles to transport themselves to the resort. The committee in charge of the "eats" consisted of Harry Kaufman, George Jamison and Jacob Edwards. On the program committee were T. Huffman, John Fox and R. Fuller, while James Kromm had charge of the transportation.

The Jefferson club drum corps will meet tonight at the club's hall on Calhoun street and will elect Jerry O'Connor as president to succeed the late Harry P. Lowry.

GET RID OF YOUR RHEUMATISM.

Now is the time to get rid of your rheumatism. You can do it if you apply Chamberlain's Liniment. W. A. Lockhard, Homer City, N. Y., writes: "Last spring I suffered from rheumatism with terrible pains in my arms and shoulders. I got a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and the first application relieved me. By using one bottle of it I was entirely cured." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

Eben Lane, who has been engaged in the real estate and general insurance business for the past six months at Phoenix, Arizona, arrived home Sunday to spend a month's vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Lane.

INDIGESTION AND CONSTIPATION.

"About five years ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets after suffering from indigestion and constipation for years without finding anything to relieve me. Chamberlain's Tablets helped me at once and by using them for several weeks I was cured of the complaint," writes Mrs. Mary E. McMullen, Phelps, N. Y. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

E. H. Merritt has gone on a business trip to Washington, D. C., and will be absent from the city for several days.

SENDS OUT CALL FOR TOM ATKINS

Harry Martin Afraid of Working Staff Too Hard at Start.

SECURED EVEN BREAK

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Terre Haute, Ind., June 8.—Manager Harry Martin, of the Billiken baseball troupe, sent out from here before the game yesterday afternoon an S. O. S. for Tommy Atkins, who is at his home in Cleveland nursing a broken rib sustained in a game on the home grounds, and whose absence from the club is forcing the manager to overwork Bill Cramer, Earl Ainsworth and Fred Bramble.

With a tie in the final game which gave the Fort Wayne club an even break in the series here, and a club intact but for the absence of Frankie Nespo and Atkins, the Fort Wayne players see prospects of working their way up in the race but another pitcher is necessary right now.

Most of the trouble is due to the fact that Grover Young is either woefully out of condition or is sulking, as he has not been able to pitch the kind of ball he is capable of, and just as soon as Atkins rounds to Mr. Young will probably get in shape at his own expense as his work has satisfied the manager and owner that something is radically wrong and that it lies entirely with the pitcher as he has been unable to win with good support.

Atkins left Fort Wayne a day or two before the club started on the trip, and at that time the broken rib was healing nicely and Martin has every reason to believe that he now is, or ought to be in a few days, able to take his turn in the box. The club is virtually working with three men as Young is such an uncertain quantity that he has had to demand rescue in most of the games except where it had been determined to take a chance on him which has resulted in losses that the club is not in position to stand.

After six innings the game was called under a time limit agreement, made necessary by the fact that Fort Wayne had to catch a train for Grand Rapids and could not play longer. Martin has heard nothing from Atkins since he left for the Cleveland visit, but he feels certain that his southpaw hurler will report as soon as he feels fit as he is a willing worker and the telegram was sent to urge a little speed because the staff is being overworked.

Later in the season, it is feared, the present strain will tell and prevent good pitching just at a time when it will be most needed. The presence of a regular outfielder is helping the cause and after a couple of days Martin is convinced that both of the men are better than Eddie Diem and he has released him.

In the last game here Brant opened the second inning with a hit and stole second, and after Smykal had been retired on a fly to the outfield Gilmore's patience was rewarded by a walk and a triple by Byers, which would have been a home run for any other man on the club, scored a pair of tallies and gave Young the margin to work on that he has had in most of his games this season.

He held this advantage until the fifth, when it was again necessary to send a rescuer to his aid and Earl Ainsworth, who is becoming the ready and handy boy in the turbulent times, went in and held the home talent to a tie.

Cantwell hit for a base as a starter for the inning and was forced at second by Gray on a hit and run play. Sheehan kicked in with a two-ply crack and scored Gray and later romped home on Kyle's bingle. He stole second but held at third on Anderson's scratch hit and then Ainsworth was called in. He hit the first batsman up but pulled through without allowing a run.

START SECOND GRIND.

Motorcyclists Off for Final Lap of Their Endurance Run.

With weather conditions that promised a second grind under a sizzling sun, motorcyclists engaged in the endurance run in connection with the Indiana convention, left Fort Wayne early this morning, having been entertained since their arrival last night by the members of the Fort Wayne Motorcycle club. C. F. Shorey was the only local rider on the run. The men expect to reach Indianapolis tonight by way of Decatur, Portland, Union City and Richmond.

YACHT EXPERTS THINK SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S NEW BOAT WILL BE EITHER AN IMMENSE SUCCESS OR DISMAL FAILURE.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton.)

American yachting experts from the entire Atlantic seaboard, studying the construction of the yachts that are to defend America's cup and the tuning up performances of Shamrock IV, believe that if America's cup is to remain on this side it will be due to American seamanship rather than to the construction of the boats.

The showing of Vanitie and Resolute in the trial races has been far from satisfactory to the sharps. They declare Vanitie faulty in rig rather than in her lines and a boat that would have to have all the luck of the weather to win. Her performances in the third race were freakish. In heavy water and a heavy, gusty blow she bucked and heeled.

Resolute, built close to the old Herreshoff lines, they claim is much better under all weather conditions. Vanitie's victory in the first clash was due, they say, more to the luck of the weather than to any sailing superiority. Besides, Resolute was faulty in rigging, and the errors were corrected after the race.

Lipton's fourth Shamrock is keeping them guessing. The English critics declare her a freak and claim she either will be an immense success or a dismal failure. She is of the skimming dish type, and the sharps declare she violates a score of the accpted rules of yacht building. The American critics, however, are quite enthusiastic over her, although declaring that under certain weather conditions she will be hopeless.

One yacht sharp writes from New York that he believes either of the last two yacht defenders could beat Resolute, and that he is pinning his hopes on Reliance, which has been delayed by changing rigging from entering the trials.

Sir Thomas and many of his friends are enthusiastic. They have built a boat to meet the conditions of the contest. Heretofore the British critics have complained of conditions, that they favored American boats. Now Sir Thomas has built a boat that is more extreme than any he ever has sailed against. It looks as if he will have better than even on measurements and allowances.

WONDERFUL RACE IS ANTICIPATED

BUILD CLUB HOUSE

Indianapolis, June 8.—Five hundred miles at 100 miles an hour, without a stop or tire change, on one gallon of oil and twenty-five gallons of gasoline, is the difficult target the management of the Indianapolis motor speedway has set for the motor industry of the world to shoot at during the next three years. Nineteen-fifteen is already expected to show a distinct step in the right direction.

First, to reduce fuel consumption, the cubic inch piston displacement or the next Hoosier contest has been cut to 300, the minimum weight, however, remaining the same, at 1,600 pounds. These specifications are expected to stay in force at least three seasons, or until every branch of the science in this class of competition has been thoroughly probed. When there is no more to learn, a further reduction will be effected, less than 161 cubic inches being the final goal.

Regulations of this character naturally put automobile racing into the experimental division of the industry, where, properly, it belongs. The day when makers can take stock or semi-stock models and compete with them successfully is past, as the last 500 mile sweepstakes race, won by foreigners in specially built cars, amply testifies. Europe has for some time regarded gas contests as a laboratory, not a proving ground, which explains in a large measure her success.

In line with this idea it is thought a number of American factories will enter the game from business if not patriotic motives. Special racing departments, having no connection whatsoever with the ordinary branches of production, except to lead the way, will be instituted, and a determined effort to put the United States once more on a footing with her foreign competitors begun.

This movement, naturally, will see the finish of the "barn-built" car, which has been so prominent in American racing of late. With the finest engineering skill and the best of materials required to win success, it is not thought likely that the heterogeneously assembled freak will have a chance. The only thing left to do is quit.

In advancing the art, of course, the speedway proposes to do its material as well as moral share. To render high speed work more safe the surface of the track will be widened fifteen feet on the inside and retaining walls built all around. Additional comfort will be provided for drivers and mechanicians in the shape of a clubhouse inside the grounds, with a swimming pool and every other imaginable convenience. In short, if the gasoline efficiency of the present era is not raised wonderfully during the next few seasons, it will not be the speedway's fault.

USING WAGER AS REGULAR ON JOB

Shaughnessy Playing Him in Outfield on the Ottowa Team.

NILL HITTING HARD

Frank Shaughnessy, who secured Eddie Wager from the Fort Wayne team on an option agreement, is using him in left field and the pitching on that circuit seems to be to his liking as he is batting at the rate of .376.

George Nill, who secured his release from Seattle and signed with Ottawa, is apparently going along at a good gait as recent averages show he is fielding .972 and hitting .341, with four doubles, a triple and a home run in his collection.

Ollie Welch is showing good form with the Peterboro club, in charge of Curley Blount, and is maintaining a mark of .344 in the list of batters, which is a dandy showing in a class C league where he has some pretty stiff pitching to go against.

Manager Blount, however, has apparently hit the rocks as his showing with the bat is woefully bad and the figures show him with an average of .164. When he was in the Central league he hit around the .300 mark and the records indicate that he has either gone back or has not hit his stride.

Harry Corns, at one time a very reliable left-hander on the Fort Wayne pitching staff, is located at Hamilton, Ont., and his batting shows a remarkable falling off. In 1913 he hit for .342 for the season and this year he is going along at the rate of .150.

Manager Shaughnessy is also having a hard time getting his batting eye and he is nearly a hundred points below his mark of last season, and is batting only .250. However, he starts badly most every year and does his best hitting after the middle of June. Ed "Lefty" Rogers is also having his troubles in the start and had reached only .250 when the last official figures were given out. He is playing the outfield and pitching whenever he is called upon.

"Mollie" Kustus, bought by Cincinnati, and afterward with Brooklyn and a member of Evansville's only pennant winning combination, is the real batting leader of the league with an average of .429. Shocker, farmed by the Fort Wayne team to Ottawa, and a most promising pitching prospect, had been in eight games when the averages were computed and was hitting the ball at .278, while Garnett William Craven, of Central league fame, and the manager of the St. Thomas club, was breezing along at .258.

Kubat, who joined the Fort Wayne team a couple of years ago, and was sent to the Ottawa club, afterward brought back here and later drafted, has been sent back to the Shaughnessy club and is showing some speed with the bat, having reached a level of .364.

WAILING IS NOT WORRYING PREXY

IS AFTER PUBLICITY

Down at Springfield the Daily News is out with a story that President Louis Heilbroner is on the eve of taking over the Reaper baseball troupe and operaing it on behalf of the Central league because it is losing its games, losing money for the owner and is not strong enough for the company in which it is making a race.

With the exception that the president has no such idea, has never contemplated such action and does not think it will be necessary, the story is all true.

As a matter of fact that team belongs to Sol Myer, of Indianapolis, and he has $2,000 of good money in the hands of the president as a guarantee that he will finish the season or sell his club to new owners satisfactory to the other directors. Mr. Meyer has a bank and is generally accredited with being the possessor of some money, and if he wants to lose it at Springfield on a baseball team he is the one who should worry.

"It's all right to talk about strengthening ball teams," said the president, "but where are you going to get the players? They are awfully scarce nowadays and I would be ashamed to say just how many I could place if I had them."

There was talk some time ago of turning over the club to Springfield owners and they entertained the proposition seriously but somehow the project fell through.

President Heilbroner is convinced that the task of persuading his club owners to get more publicity is an almost hopeless task and feels sure that every one of them could get more newspaper notices if they would just turn their attention to it.

He argues that there are hundreds of good little stories that get away every year because the owners and secretaries do not recognize their news value. These same stories, he is sure, would be found interesting to the public and would be eagerly sought by the newspapers if the baseball people had the proper instinct and could be persauded to divulge when divulgence would mean dollars and cents to them.

For instance he cites the fact that after having been crippled for a month and tobogganning from the second place in the column to nearly the bottom, the Fort Wayne team secured two new outfielders and both were ordered to and did report at Terre Haute.

This would have been interesting and would probably have led some patron who was not sure about going to the opening game, to go out and look over the newcomers.

Fort Wayne is no more remiss in this particular than the other clubs, and many opportunities of the kind are offered and overlooked during a season.

Mr. Heilbroner gets all the general publicity that his office affords because he watches closely all that is going on, issues bulletins and averages, but he has not the proper support from the team owners.

One of the suggestions to boost the game along is boys day at all of the parks in the league. This matter is being taken up with the owners and if it can be worked out there will be at least one day when the juvenile fans can be converted into real boosters.

If it is finally agreed upon all boys under 16 will be admitted free and, and if the date is set before the closing of the school term, Saturday will be selected because the management does not want to hold out any inducements for playing "hookey."

READY FOR POLO MATCH.

Captain Cheape Has Sore Nose but Believes He Can Play In First Game.

New York, June 8.—Weather permitting, the teams of England and America will line up at Meadowbrook, L. I., tomorrow afternoon for the first of the polo matches for the international cup now held by this country. The Englishmen had their final practice yesterday.

Though his nose was still sore today after being struck by a ball in Sunday's match, it was said today that Capt. Leslie Cheape, of the challengers, would undoubtedly be able to play tomorrow. He was up and about this forenoon with his face bandaged.

Neither team practiced today. Finishing touches were put on the turf and everything was got in readiness for the great crowd which will attend. The contest will be decided by the best two out of three games.

SUB GETS INTO CLASH.

Capt Vivian N. Lockett

That it pays to be a first-class sub is shown in the case of Capt. Vivian Locket. In the preliminary practice for the international polo matches John Traill found it impossible to manage the strange ponies; so Locket was called on, and has been playing a fine game.

FISHERMEN LOSE LIFE.

Forty Schooners Wrecked in Gale; News Comes Slowly.

Quebec, June 8.—Some forty schooners were wrecked and twenty or more fishermen lost their lives in the storm that swept the coast of Northern New Brunswick and Chaleurs bay last Friday night. Nearly all the boats were blown ashore on Miscou and Shippegan islands, remote points from which the news came slowly. Eight bodies were recovered and taken to Caraquet, N. B. today. All were bodies of French Canadians fishermen.

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

Bluffton Preparing to Entertain Twenty-five Companies and Ten Bands.

B. L. E. AND LADIES' MEMORIAL SERVICE

Four Divisions Will Have Annual Event at Plymouth Church Sunday.

G. F. Rogge and F. G. Duryee, of the Fort Wayne Electric works, members of the executive board of the Northeastern Indiana Volunteer Firemen's association, met with other members of the excutive board and the officers at Bluffton yesterday and discussed the coming convention and tournament of the association, which will be held in that city Thursday, June 25. Some of the city officials and business men of Bluffton were at the meeting and assured the executive board that Bluffton is prepared to handle a big crowd and proposes to "give the firemen and other visitors on that occasion a good time." The executive board decided to have only two companies in the water battle, which will be one of the exciting events of the meeting. The participants will be selected by lot. It was also decided to eliminate the band contest feature and instead have a continuous concert during the day and evening, each band present taking turns in playing. At the meeting yesterday it was announced that of the twenty-five companies who are members of the association, nineteen have given notice that they will be present to take part in the exercises and it was stated that all of the others will be there also. So far eight bands have given notice of their intention of attending the tournament and among them are the leading musical organizations of this part of the state. Union City had representatives at the meeting to make a bid for the 1915 tournament. The Bluffton people have arranged for a grand fireworks display, to close the day's entertainment. There are two Fort Wayne volunteer fire companies members of the association—the Fort Wayne Electric Works and the General Electric Lamp Works—and after this year there will be three, the third one being the Packard Piano company's firemen, who were recently organized and are now awaiting the arrival of the fire fighting equipment. Other cities represented in the association are Montpelier, Dunkirk, Parker City, Hartford City, Portland, Winchester, Butler, Berne, Bluffton, Garrett, Eaton, Decatur, Columbia City, Albany, Farmland, Auburn, Markle, North Manchester, Middletown, Matthews, Union City, Fountain City and Waterloo. The two companies from this city will go to Bluffton on chartered interurban cars and will be accompanied by the Moose band.

ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICES.

B. L. E. and Auxiliaries Will Join in Commemorating the Dead.

Division No. 12 and Division No. 537, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Firendship division, No. 18, and Nickel Plate division, No. 513, of the Grand International Auxiliary to the B. L. E., will have joint memorial services at the Plymouth Congregational church, Rev. Folsom officiating, next Sunday evening. The beautiful flower ceremony will be employed in announcing the names and paying tribute to the departed and each division will have two members to perform the ceremony for its lodge. Engineers M. F. Flagle and E. Blanchard will represent Division 12, Engineers Robert John and Joseph Harber will represent Division 537, Mrs. U. G. Rhodes and Mrs. E. Blanchard will represent Friendship division, No. 18, and Mrs. C. F. Merritt and Mrs. M. J. Maroney will represent Nickel Plate division, No. 513. These divisions have a total membership of about 600 and the church will be well filled on that occasion.

MAKES WRINKLES GO "AS IF BY MAGIC."

Want to banish every wrinkle—from face, neck, hands—easily, quickly, completely? Try the famous saxolite formula. Nothing else so nearly meets every requirement. Why? Because it is correct in principle and really, truly assists nature. Possessing remarkable astringent and tonic properties, it both tightens the skin—thus naturally smoothing out the lines—and improves capillary circulation and nerve tone—tending to strengthen loose tissue and bring about a healthy condition. Yet, powerful as the saxolite lotion is, it won't harm your skin in the least. And it's so easy to get the inexpensive ingredients at your druggists and so easy to mix them.

Just dissolve 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel—that's all. Bathe your face in this—immediately every wrinkle and crease are affected, even the deepest. You are perfectly astonished and delighted with the result. You look like you've lost years from your age!

DISCUSSING EXPENSES.

Pennsylvania Officials Gathered at Pittsburg Today.

The motive power and the division officials of the Pennsylvania are at Pittsburg today, where a meeting is being held to discuss affairs connected with operating expenses. Those in attendance from Fort Wayne are Motive Power Supt. T. W. Demarest, Division Supt. W. M. Wardrop, Assistant Master Mechanic E. E. Griest and Road Foreman of Engines C. R. Colmey. With the exception of Mr. Demaret, who will go to Atlantic City to attend the annual convention of the Master Car Builders, the officials will return to Fort Wayne tomorrow.

WILL GO TO BOWSERS.

William Bonnell, for several years employed as assistant time clerk at the office of the Bass Foundry and Machine works, will resign this week and next Monday will take a position in the office of S. F. Bowser & Co. This change will be followed by the transfer of Frank Zachshefski from the foundry office to the main office to succeed Mr. Bonnell. Last week Bernard Mohl, a clerk at the main office of the Bass works, resigned to go to the International Harvester company's office, and this change was followed by the promotion of Herald Lipes from the telephone exchange and letter file department and the employing of Dee Ward, of Decatur, as telephone boy.

A VERY BUSY PLANT.

The Wayne Oil Tank and Pump company has finished the installation of a big oil plant for the Independent Oil company, of LaPorte, Ind. It was one of the largest contracts of its kind in Northern Indiana this season. The Wayne company is again so busy that the plant is running overtime, particularly the heavy boiler work department.

TOOK HIS WIFE TO HOSPITAL.

Blacksmith H. B. Krall, of the Pennsylvania shops, and Mrs. Krall left Saturday for Philadelphia, where she will enter a hospital for a surgical operation. Mrs. Krall has been ailing for some months, but it was only recently that it was decided to submit to surgery for relief.

TRAFFIC MANAGER COMING.

William Hodgdon, freight traffic manager of the Pennsylvania, is making a trip over the lines west of Pittsburg. He will arrive in Fort Wayne tomorrow morning and remain until 4 o'clock, when he will start upon a trip over the Vandalia.

JAKE BACHES VERY SICK.

Jacob Baches, gang foreman in the Pennsylvania boiler shop, is sick and will not be able to work for some time. He was taken suddenly ill last Friday with symptoms of heat prostration and has been in a bad way since.

HAD HIS THUMB MANGLED.

Arthur Ulmer, an apprentice at the Fort Wayne Electric works, had the end of his right thumb torn and bruised this morning, when it was caught in a milling machine. Dr. F. Schulz was called to attend the young man.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will have a meeting this evening.

Blacksmith H. Hibbler, who had been sick several days, resumed work in the Wabash shops this morning.

A. J. Pauser, of the Pennsylvania plaining mills, and J. Rost, of the blacksmith shop, are sick and off duty.

Machinist M. P. Zeisig, of the Pennsylvania shops, will visit relatives in Lafayette, Ind., the latter part of the week.

Machinist H. A. Christen, of the Pennsylvania shops, has taken a three months' leave of absence. A portion of the time will be spent at the lakes.

Thursday night Machinist and Mrs. J. H. Doyle, the former of the Pennsylvania shops, will leave for El Paso, Tex., to spend two weeks with friends and relatives.

Machinist E. C. DesPrez, who fell in an engine pit and cut a gash in his cheek, resumed work in the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning, after an absence of three or four days.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown have returned from a honey moon trip and he reported for duty in the Pennsylvania master mechanic's drafting room this morning.

Scott Strawn has returned from St. Louis, where he spent a month with his uncle, Scott Cooper. The young man is a son of Machinist Byron Strawn, of the Wabash shops.

A. L. Ringle, machinist in the Pennsylvania shops, severely injured his abdomen last Thursday when he slipped as he was handling a heavy piece of metal at his lathe.

Machinist Fred Romary, of the Pennsylvania shops, played ball with the Peru team at Warsaw Sunday. The Peru team was victorious, the score standing 11 to 5.

Night Yardmaster John J. Miller and Bill Clerk R. Helmke, of the Wabash, left this morning for New Orleans, where they will spend two weeks in taking in the sights.

The Pennsylvania has just issued an illustrated pamphlet of summer tours for the season of 1914. In addition to a good map of the Atlantic coast country and the New England states, this pamphlet has many attractive pictures of scenes at Atlantic City, Washington, Baltimore, New York city, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and other cities.

Assistant General Foreman A. S. Courtney, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, failed to show up this morning, but he telephoned the news of the arrival of an eight-pound boy at his home. This is the first child in the Courtney family.

Twenty-fifive men, comprising the night force at the Pennsylvania round house, were the guests of E. C. Keese, also employed there, Saturday. He resides on a farm out on the New Haven road and the party went there over the interurban, had breakast and dinner and returned home at 3 o'clock.

A committee has in hand the preparations for a picnic by the Textile Workers on Sunday, June 21. It is proposed to make the affair open to all and with that end in view tickets are now being prepared to be placed on sale. The committee will select the picnic grounds this week.

George Wilson is doing some proselyting among the colored cooks and restaurant attendants with a view of organizing them into a union, affiliated with the Federation of Labor. It is estimated that there are about 100 people in the city who are eligible to membership to cooks' and waiters' union.

Machinist W. G. Dressell, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, has taken a two week's leave of absence and secured transportation to Philadelphia and Washington for self and wife. The wedding will probably take place tomorrow and this will be the first notice of it Mr. Dressell's friends will receive.

Gus Van Dissen and Clyde Campbell, Pennsylvania switchmen, resumed work this morning. For three or four days they were at the lakes at Atwood and say that all that prevented new fishing records was the law and the presence of the game warden. They had to quit fishing just when the fish were biting the best.

PROF. TAFT AT NEW HARMONY

because we would have it at hand. Until men are perfect beings of this kind, socialism must either constitute a tyranny so rigid as to destroy not only the right of liberty and to interfere with the pursuit of happiness, or it must be a failure."

Thronged With Visitors.

The dawn of today found this little city crowded with visitors and with participants in the Rappite observance, the centennial celebration of the foundation of New Harmony. Fitting tribute was paid to Robert Owen, the principal in one of the most discussed experiments in the history of socialism.

The feature of the program was an address by former President William H. Taft, who discussed various phases of Rappite life and of Robert Owen's experiment and pointed out the significance of the foundation of the colony. Mr. Taft and Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president, motored to New Harmony this morning from Evansville, where they spent the night. Mr. Fairbanks is to speak tomorrow.

Visitors found many things of interest to claim their attention today. There are exhibits of many historical objects in show places of the city. One of the most interesting is in the public school building where historical relics brought here from Economy, Pa., where the Rappites made their last stand for community life, are on display. A speaking trumpet used by Father Rapp in addressing his followers is in the collection. The centennial celebration closes Saturday.

Rappite Morning Call Given.

It was 3 o'clock in the morning—dawn was just breaking over the Wabash river bottoms—when New Harmony folk, and the vanguard of centennial visitors were awakened by two voices calling out in the gray light:

Again a night is past. The morning is come. Our time runs away. The joys of heaven are our reward. Awake!

Times have changed in a hundred years when, through these same streets, the Rappites' night watchman made the rounds and gave this call. The Rappites arose. And so some did this morning, possibly to see the two night watchmen clad in quaint Rappite period styles, who, with old perforated tin lanterns and candles for illumination within, were making the rounds. The major part of New Harmony, however, rolled over and slept on.

A Modern Proclamation.

Some even were able to ignore at 4 o'clock the booming of cannon, the ringing of bells and the blowing of the electric light power house whistle, which in a more modern manner proclaimed:

Behold! A century has passed since the Rappites founded Harmonie, one of the most picturesque and peculiar communal colonies this country has ever known; which, in its time, was supplanted by the brilliant colony of the noted Owens. Arise, put on your tango shirts and modern skirts, for the lambs and the sheep and the goats have come home, and people are coming and New Harmony is to celebrate—a whole week—its first century of glorious memories, and to hold all Indiana's attention. Arise!

Center of Experiments.

New Harmony, as Prof. Taft described, was the center of two experiments in socialism of very different types. The first of these, started a hundred years ago by George Rapp, a German mechanic, was in motive primarily religious. "The Rappites" were classed by the speaker with the Shakers, the Zoarites, the Communes of Amana, the Communes of Bethel and Aurora and the Oneida community. "They were all successful for years," he said, "in the simple methods of manufacture and agriculture to which their members devoted themselves. They are not examples useful for the sociological student in considering present day socialism, because their members had not before them the working out of a new plan for society and social progress, but rather a method of living a satisfactory religious community existence. In the intensity of their religious motive was found a spur to industry and self-sacrifice and a substitute for the institution of private property which such communities abolished. Until other forms of socialism find such a substitute, they are likely to prove futile, as the history of several instances of practical trials has demonstrated."

Rappites and Owenites.

The Rappites of New Harmony sold out their land to Robert Owen and his partners in 1825. The community Rapp founded was a heterogeneous collection of many different elements. Confusion finally resulted; the various factions asked Owen to exercise his powers as a dictator until they could reach a satisfactory adjustment. Five or six different constituions were adopted within two years. Then Owen had an open breach with one of his principal partners over the adoption of the Pestalozzi method of school teaching. The community disintegrated, but the Owenses remained in New Harmony and the family became leaders in the political and social life of the state.

"The Owenite community at New Harmony," said Mr. Taft, "was only one of a number of similar communities inaugurated to carry out the principles of one social philosopher or another. Into them entered many noble men and women with high purpose and with the conviction that the secret of the regeneration of society and the world had been committed to them and was about to be revealed in convincing realization. There were other Owenite experiments—one at Yellow Springs, Ohio; another at Nashoba, in Memphis; another at Haverstraw, in New York; another at Coxsackie, in the same state, and a third at Canton, Ohio, the Kendal community. Then followed the disciples of Charles Fourier. His theory was not purely socialistic, but a kind of a compromise of a scheme of harmony between capital and labor in which he gave to all laborers a choice and variety of occupations, short hours and sought to make labor attractive. The various communities were called phalanxes. The famous Brook farm at West Roxbury, Mass., was one of these. There were many others, but in ten years or less they were no more. Another Frenchman, Ettienne Cabot, described what he called a voyage in Icaria, which gave his ideal of a community on a communistic and socialistic basis. This led to the attempt to establish a settlement in Texas, another one in Illinois and a third in Iowa, called Icarian communities, but they, too, faded out.

Fails in Small Communities.

"Mr. Morris Hillquit, a leading socialist in this country, reviews this history and gives as his conclusion that the socialistic principle is not adapted at all to small communities, that it can not be the result of legislation, but that it must come through economic necessity and through the demand of one class, the labor class. By acquiring the political power they can and should vest all productive agencies in the government and then will follow a regulation of wages, prices and all economic conditions with a view to securing community happiness.

"I shall not stop to discuss socialism in general or what it means, for it might be difficult to give an accurate definition, so varying are the views of persons who call themselves socialists. But no one can read the history of these isolated efforts in the direction of a regeneration of society on the socialistic principle and the abolition of the institution of private property, without a most wholesome lesson. They teach the danger of destroying what we have that is good in society and that has been tested by time, in order to seek a millennium which must rest for its successful achievement on the elimination of all the elements of human nature as we know it and reforming of it that is possible only after hundreds of centuries.

"But while the new Harmony experiment in socialism was a failure, the leading intellectual men and women who were associated with it, many of whom remained in New Harmony, preserved their high purpose of serving mankind and gave their attention to reform, less ambitious but more useful."

BREAKFAST AT EVANSVILLE.

Mr. Taft and Party Reach New Harmony by Special Train.

Evansville, Ind., June 8.—Former President William H. Taft accompanied by former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, his son, Richard Fairbanks and Merrill Moores, of Indianapolis, went to New Harmony on a special train this morning after being entertained at breakfast by friends. Prof. Taft will speak at the New Harmony centennial today. This afternoon Prof. Taft, Richards Fairbanks and Mr. Moores plan to motor to Poseyville, Ind., where they will catch a train for Indianapolis. Prof. Taft plans to remain in Indianapolis tonight and return east Tuesday.

OFFERS LAND FOR TUBERCULAR HOME

Mrs. George Flick to Aid in Battling Terrible Disease.

FLOWER DAY PROFITS

A tract of land on South Broadway, opposite the old Flick homestead, is to be given to the Fort Wayne Anti-Tuberculosis society by Mrs. George Flick. The land is just over the Broadway bridge on the road leading to the county orphanage, and according to preliminary plans a modern hospital for the care of sufferers of tuberculosis is to be erected on the ground.

Mrs. Flick will first deed one acre of ground to the society and later plans to make larger endowments. As soon as the land is turned over to the society the Allen county board of commissioners will be petitioned to erect the hospital.

Officials of the society are grateful to Mrs. Flick for the donation, and it is likely that the hospital will be built this summer. The site is ideal for such an institution, located on high ground and surrounded by deep woods, within a stone's throw of the beautiful St. Mary's river and easily reached by the Bluffton interurban.

"Flower Day" Saturday netted the society the sum of $125 and in addition to generous donations on the outside, the fund swelled to $167.27. The money is to be added to the anti-tuberculosis fund.

RAISING BUGS TO EAT; PROLONG LIFE

Young Man in California Laboratories Deep in the Work.

MILLIONS OF GERMS

Berkeley, Cal., June 8.—Little germs—millions of 'em—that keep people young when they eat 'em, are being hatched out by C. M. Twining, a young assistant in the Cutter laboratories here.

The little bugs of long life are called "Balillus Bulgaricus," named after the Bulgarians, who eat them in curdled goats' milk and many of whom are said to live to be 150 years old.

Eli Metchnikoff, the famous bacteriologist of Pasteur institute in Paris, first discovered that it was these germs that caused the longevity in the people of Bulgaria. He broached the theory that old age is caused by certain gas-producing germs in the big intestine, which absorb moisture and cause hardening of the arteries. He further found that B. Bulgaiicus, introduced into the intestines drove out "B. Coli" and other harmful germs, but did no harm themselves. Twining is not only commercializing Metchnikoff's theory, but is seeking to raise germs that will live longer and which will produce no disagreeable taste.

C. M. TWINING.

He raises them in an incubator in beef broth, and sends them by the millions to patients who put them in boiled milk.

The acid by-product of the germs curdles the milk and the curds are taken daily for a week.

"The idea that all germs are harmful is a mistaken one," said Twining. "Some are beneficial. Lactic acid germs are harmless and the most beneficent of the lactic acid germs are the B. Bulgaricus, as proven by experiments and the long life of the Bulgarians."

NO KIN APPEARS TO CLAIM RICHES

LIVED IN TENEMENT

New York, June 8.—Carl Schmidt, the Bowery recluse in whose clothing were found bills and deposit receipts amounting to $25,000, lay unconscious all day in Bellevue hospital, and a fact which marked an annal in the institution was that throughout the whole day no friend or relative appeared who might lay claim to the poor rich man's hoard of money after his death.

How he managed to amass his fortune is a mystery which can not be solved until the old man recovers his reason, or until some one who has been in his confidence appears.

"He was a queer one to us all," said Anthony Niechel, day clerk at the lodging house at No. 262 Bowery, where Schmidt has lived for years. "We none of us could understand him, and not for a moment did we believe that he could be rich.

"He would leave the house about 9 o'clock in the morning, and after that he was lost to us until he returned at dinner time. He was always shabby; always seemed a bit hungry; we all liked him because he never annoyed any one. When he would come in in the evening he would sometimes chat for a few minutes with some of the older lodgers, and then he would go up to bed—lost again until the following morning.

"I believe he was a captain on the northern side during the war. He received a good pension, and surely did not spend above $250 a year for his living expenses. We have never known him to have a real friend or a relative. His only mail was from the pension department."

At Bellevue hospital it was learned that Schmidt had been judicious in the distribution of his hoard and had placed it in half a dozen different banks.

WILL TAKE ASHES TO SAMOA.

Remains of Mrs. Stevenson to Rest Beside Those of Husband.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 8.—In fulfillment of her last wishes, the ashes of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson will repose beside the body of her husband on the summit of Mount Vaca, Samoa. This was made public here today on the authority of Mrs. Isobel Strong, daughter of Mrs. Stevenson. Before the door of the tomb will be inscribed the last stanza of Stevenson's verse to his wife.

To this tomb there will be no means of access except a rough mountain path. When the will of Mrs. Stevenson, who died in Santa Barbara several months ago, is settled her childrene, Mrs. Strong and Lloyd Osborne, will take her ashes to Samoa.

OPENS AT BAY CITY.

National Camp Review of Knights of Modern Maccabees Begins.

Bay City, Mich., June 8.—The national camp review of the Knights of Modern Maccabees began here today with more than a thousand delegates in attendance. Several hundred women delegates to the great hive meeting of the Knights also are holding their annual convention. It is expected the proposed amalgamation with the Maccabees of the World will be endorsed. Officials of the order say little opposition to the merger is expected as 75 per cent of the delegates have been instructed for it.

BABIES SHOWING BETTER HEALTH

NEW ONE EXAMINED

The first three infants taken to the milk station clinic at the First Presbyterian church, a week ago, were brought back to the depot again Monday morning, and each of the babies, much to the delight of the anxious mothers, showed marked improvement, as a result of the treatment of modified milk, prescribed upon the occasion of the first examination.

One of the first babies had picked up a marvelous amount of flesh in the short period of time, and when in only its infant clothes it was placed upon the scales, the dial registered a gain of twelve ounces in six days.

One new baby was prescribed for Monday morning. Like the fourteen others, it was suffering principally from mal-nutrition and modified milk, according to age and weight of the infant, was prescribed and the mother was told to report in a week. Nearly fifty bottles of milk were sent out Monday morning for the use of babies already examined and prescribed for.

The exceptionally hot weather, it is thought, cut down the attendance at the free milk depot. Mothers were cautious against taking their babies out of doors in the hot sun, but thus far, the station has at least proved a vast benefit to more than a dozen infants, who were in serious need of expert medical diagnosis and prescription.

200 SNAKES MAKE VOYAGE A HORROR

ABOARD BRILLIANT

New York, June 8.—Two hundred deadly East Indian snakes overrunning the ship, five heat crazed yaks doing everything but climb aloft and a crew of thirty-five Lascars, Hindus and Chinese threatening every minute to cut one another's throats—such was the combination which added ten years to the age of Captain Grant, of the Brilliant, a four-masted British bark.

The Brilliant is now in New York harbor after a voyage of 115 days from Hong Kong. Life began to be just one strenuous minute after another almost before Victoria Island had faded over the horizon, the excitement continuing unabated until the Jersey coast was sighted. With the Brilliant safely secured to her pier in New York, Captain Grant and his officers heaved a sigh of relief which might have been heard a mile away. The captain's hair had turned gray and his weather-beaten features had several more wrinkles as a result of his experience.

The Brilliant, carrying Standard Oil stores, had an uneventful voyage outward bound to Hong Kong and Kobe. She carried an able crew of Swedes and Norwegians, but they tired of the long grind and deserted the ship between watches a few hours after the vessel dropped anchor in Kobe harbor. With the holds filled with Japanese merchandise, Captain Grant was compelled to sign a nondescript crew composed of no less than ten nationalities in order to man his vessel for the homeward-bound trip to New York. He cleared at Kobe, stopped at Hiogo until December 18, and made Hong Kong in two weeks. The entire crew deserted at this port and the seamen signed in their place represented, said Captain Grant, the scum of the far eastern ports.

No Sleep for Officers.

Squared away to the southward with the Straits of Sundae as the objective, the Brilliant became the theater for a series of events which made sleep a matter of three winks at a time for the officers. First of all it was found that most of the "able seamen" had never seen any more experience than would be necessary to handle a rowboat. When most of the men were suffering from seasickness and lying in their bunks a big Lascar deserted his post at the wheel and made for the forward hatchway like a streak of brown. Two seconds elapsed and he came up from below with the entire crew at his heels. Ill or well, they were in the rigging at one leap and all gesticulated wildly as they directed the attention of Captain Grant to several squirming objects on the deck.

Four boxes filled with cobras and other poisonous reptiles had broken loose from their fastenings. Two hundred snakes had been given the liberty of the Brilliant. The orientals would not go near the snakes, and Captain Grant and his officers were compelled to kill them with clubs. Snakes appeared from hiding places, however, for three weeks after the boxes had been broken, and until the crew was sure that the last had been done away with they persisted in sleeping in the rigging. They had to make themselves fast with ropes during rough weather, but it was better than sleeping below, with the possibility of waking up and finding a full-grown cobra as a bedfellow.

Yaks Go Crazy.

After passing through the Straits of Sundae the five yaks on board began showing signs of suffering from the heat. As the Brilliant hovered near the "line" they went crazy one by one.

"They couldn't do it in a bunch," said Captain Grant. "They had to do it one at a time in order to prolong our agony."

The snakes and the heat-crazed yaks had practically scared the crew out of their wits before the "line" was well to the stern. About the time the last yak had been killed and cast overboard the Lascars and Chinese engaged in a pitched battle.

The Hindus and others took sides in the argument. Their fights were a daily feature until long after the cape had been rounded. Instead of trying to prevent trouble, knowing that any interference on his part would only complicate matters, Captain Grant allowed them to fight it out among themselves. At times, however, the friction assumed a serious turn when some of the men displayed knives. Although they never actually carried out their threats to cut each other's throats, the situation continued to be tense and called for the utmost diplomacy on the part of the officers.

When the Brilliant made fast in New York harbor Captain Grant withdrew his surveillance with the remark that they could go as far as they liked in marring each other's countenances, but that he would tie each man hand and foot and cast him overboard if they so much as made adent in the polished deck of the Brilliant.

Champion Runner to Teach Boys in Camp

Geo. V. Bonhag

George V. Bonehag, who was formerly America's premier distance runner, a point winner for the Stars and Stripes at Athens in 1906, at London in 1908 and at Stockholm in 1912, has changed his vocation.

He is going into the business of bettering the physical and mental condition of the American boy.

Bonhag has associated himself with Hamilton institute, of New York, and in the summer he will conduct a camp for boys at Lake Annabessacook, Me.

Bonhag proposes to teach boys how to lose as well as how to win a game in the right spirit.

PLAN FOR ANNUAL CONCERT.

Boy Scouts Will Give Their Ice Cream Social at Swinney Park Saturday, July 12.

The Boy Scouts of the city are busy planning their activities for the summer months and it was announced that the annual ice cream social and band concert will be given at Swinney park on Saturday evening, July 12. The Boy Scout band will furnish the music for the occasion. This is a new feature as the boys have as yet never played at their own concert.

The Scouts will give away to the most popular little girl between the ages of four and twelve, a large handsome doll. This contest will be decided by the girl receiving the most votes during the time of the contest, which will be previous to the social.

The scoutmaster is also offering to any boy, scout or no scout, who sells the largest number of tickets for this event, a bicycle donated by Brosius & Brosius. Any boy in the city may enter this contest and those who wish to enter are asked to be present at the meeting of the scouts to be held Monday evening of this week at the Jefferson school.

ENJOY ANNUAL PICNIC.

Members of the Concordia Singing society and members of their families enjoyed an outing Sunday afternoon at Centlivre park. The picnuic was well attended and a program consisting of musical numbers given by members of the organization was rendered and enjoyed by all.

FOREIGNER ENDS LIFE BY HANGING

Stranger Working for Louis Brudi Shuffles Off in New Haven.

HIS NAME UNKNOWN

A foreigner, known only by the name of "John," aged 32 years, and for the past week employed by Louis Brudi at New Haven, committed suicide by hanging himself in the Brudi stable at some time between 11:45 and 12:15 Monday.

When it came time for the other employes about the place to go to dinner "John" said he was not feeling well and would eat nothing.

Half an hour later when the men returned to the barn they found the man hanging and dead.

The man came to Brudi's a week ago an dasked for employment. He gave no other name than John, said he came from Minneapolis and that he had a wife and children in the old world.

Coroner E. . Kruse went out Monday afternoon and viewed the remains.

Washington, June 8.—The supreme court today affirmed the decree of the Missouri supreme court ousting the International Harvester of America from the state, and fining it $25,000 for violation of the state anti-trust law.

THE DEATHS.

COLLINS.

Loretta Morris Collins, aged twenty-four years, died at 4:45 o'clock Monday morning at the home of her uncle, Peter Collins, 801 West Washington boulevard after a prolonged illness from complications.

She was a daughter of Mr. James Morris, of 223 West Butler street but had been making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Collins. She was born and reared in Fort Wayne and was a member of the 1907 graduating class at St. Augustine's academy. Surviving she leaves her father and the following brothers and sisters: James, Mollie, Thomas, Patrick, Kathryn and Anna Morris.

STEINAU.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Steinau, 207 Fifth street, died at an early hour Sunday morning at the age of two days. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the residence. Interment at Lindenwood.

Warren Vaughn, an aged man residing at 1636 Short street, stepped on a banana peeling at the corner of Superior and Harrison streets Saturday night and fell to the pavement, sustaining a fractured knee.

A Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction car crashed into a herd of horses at 9 o'clock Sunday night near the Bash farm southwest of the city and three of the animals were killed. The front trucks of the car left the rails and it was necessary to dispatch the wrecking crew to make repairs.

GIRL PRISONER IN AUTOMOBILE

Screams and Tries to Leap Out as Car Dashes at Mad Speed.

CHASED BY POLICE

People in the Empress theater and crowds on Wayne street were startled about 9:30 Sunday night when a light colored automobile of high power dashed west at mad speed carrying a driver and a young woman, the girl screaming shrilly and making frenzied attempts to leap from the car, and the man swearing at her and trying at once to guide his machine and restrain the shrieking female.

At Washington and Ewing streets, Officer Ward Hall, a night patrolman, saw the car dash past. The girl was still trying to leap out and the man, swearing at her in a tone loud enough to be heard by the officer said, "—— you, you shall not jump out."

As soon as another automobile came along Officer Hall commandeered it and started in pursuit. By that time the car with the screaming girl in it had reached Broadway and turned south. Officer Hall, in the borrowed car, kept up the pursuit to the corner of Taylor street and Broadway, where all trace was lost.

As the car passed the Empress the girl threw open the fore-door of the car and tried to leap out. The driver abandoned his steering wheel and grabbed her with both hands and forced her into a seat. The police are trying to identify the car.

GIRL IN MEXICO LED MERRY CHASE

SHE WAVED A FLAG

Kansas City, June 8.—Horace G. Whittlesey, formerly of Emporia, Kan., was a dentist in the City of Mexico. He has drilled, jerked, bored and otherwise tortured Mexican jaws, with great pleasure, as he admits, for the past eight years.

Now Mr. Whittlesey's patriotic proclivities not only led him to visit upon certain Mexican molars slyly added twinges of pain, but during his residence in the Mexican capital he studiously grounded his children, Mariana, 9 years old, and Horace 6½ years old, in the principles of patriotism—particularly reverence for the flag.

Besieged His Home.

Maybe this is why Mr. Whittlesey is doing his refugeeing a little earlier than he intended. At any rate he confessed that the patriotic fervor of his children caused him about the most ticklish half hour of his life shortly before he fled with his family.

The excitement started when the coachman of a neighbor drove up and down the street before the dentist's home in the City of Mexico shortly after the occupation of Vera Cruz, and heaped maledictions upon the heads of the "gringo" Whittleseys and said disrespectful things about the "gringo's" ancestors for several generations back. He intimated, further, that the "gringo" was afraid to leave his house. He dared him to come out.

All Frightened But the Children.

Astonishing to relate the "gringo" left his home and acted in a way that so pointedly indicated that bodily harm might result to the coachman that the latter drove off his ancient coach in ludicrious haste. This incident was the spark which set off the magazine of patriotism in Mariana and Horace.

There were anti-American demonstrations and mobs all over the City of Mexico. Houses were being searched for arms. In the midst of all this Mr. and Mrs. Whittlesey were astounded to see the two children parading through the house and out onto the porch, wildly waving two American flags.

Furling the Flag.

Probably Mr. Whittlesey would have preferred at that moment to have seen his children waving a red flag in the path of an Andalusian bull. The parent gave chase—the children ducked and dodged, pleading for the retention of the precious flags. Mr. Whittlesey mopped perspiration, pursued and argued. Finally, aided by a flank movement executed by other members of the household, the children were captured and their flags hidden securely.

"Why don't you speak Spanish for the man?" asked Mr. Whittlesley of Horace.

"Don't want to," replied Horace. "When I'm in the United States I only speak American."

HATS IS HATS

The Calf, the Crate and the Millinery.

By ELLIS PARKER BUTLER.

(Copyright, 1914, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

For five minutes the telephone bell had been ringing as hard as it could ring in the office of the Interurban Express company at Westcote, and every minute Mike Flannery was getting madder.

"Number 76 don't answer," said the telephone girl sweetly to the party on the other end of the wire. "Shall I ring 'em again?"

Mrs. Madden straightened up and her face hardened.

"You ring until he does answer!" she snapped.

When the bell again began its irritating, maddening jingle, Mike Flannery was out on the platform welcoming the 4:08 train from the city, and the expressman in the car was dumping packages on to the big truck. He shoved two trunks and a laundry hamper off the car and chucked a coil of lead pipe after them, and handed Mike Flannery carefuly a cylindrical pasteboard box with its six "Handle With Great Care" labels on it.

"Got a calf here for you, Mike," he said.

Calves may be sent in two ways, and this one had been sent in the uncrated way. It costs more to send a calf uncrated, but some folks are fond of sending them that way.

"Shove th' crate awnto th' truck," said Flannery.

"It ain't crated," said the expressman; "it's loose. Climb in and give a hand to him."

When they put hand to him the calf yelled for mother and braced her feet, and the conductor came to the car door and urged haste. It is a bad job getting a good-sized calf to setp out of a side door on to a truck, and a truck is a bad thing for a calf to stand on, anyway, so when the calf refused to go out of the side door they thought it would be better to lead him out of the back door and down the steps. It was that kind of a car, half smoking car and half express car, and so, after the expressman and Flannery and the conductor could not lead the calf down the back steps the smokers came out of the smoking car and helped. They led him down by pushing from behind, and he landed on the platform with a sawed-off wail that sounded like "Ma-a-a-wawk!"

And all the time the telephone bell was ringing.

Flannery tied the calf's halter to the rear end of the truck and went to the front end and took hold of the iron tongue, and pulled. Back of him was the full passenger list of the 4:08, grinning; and ahead of him was the telephone bell, ringing. Was he mad? He was so mad that when he gave the truck a jerk the calf made the trip across the platform into the express office in two leaps! Two leaps, and then stood dazed and astonished. He was so dazed he didn't even know the halter had broken. He just stood there like a silly calf. But Flannery didn't!

Flannery did not even look at the calf. He slammed the waybills on his desk and made one jump for the telephone. It was then that the calf looked down to see what was the matter with his feet. He was hobbled. Through the lid of the cylindrical box that bore the labels, "Handle With Great Care," both forefeet of the calf had gone.

"Mother! Mother! Mother!" called the calf, in its soul-stirring voice.

"Hello!" yelled Flannery into the telephone. "An' phwat th' divil be ye mekkin' such a- Shure Oi know 'tis Saturday afthernoon, an' did ye call up Mike Flannery fer to' tell him th' day av th' week? 'Is they a package come fer Missus Mary Maria Madden?'" he mimicked angrily. "Well, if ye w'u'd be given' me a minute t' look t'roo th' way bills—How th' divil kin Oi look is they a package, ma'am, whim ye kape me here wid me eye fastened awnto th' tellyphone? —Gat away from there, ye big beast, ye!"

Mike Flannery slammed the receiver on the hook and made one jump for the calf. He put his shoulder under the chest of the calf and encircled its legs with one arm, and hefted up. With the other hand he pushed the hatbox off the calf's feet. The telephone bell was ringing, but Flannery paid no more attention to it than if it had been a swarm of bees. He was used to telephones, and he had never known one to get down off the wall and bite him. He set his teeth and pushed the twine off the crushed pasteboard box and took off the lid. There were two holes in the lid where the calf's feet had gone through.

It was a hat. Flannery took it carefully from the box and laid it on the end of the truck, and stood back and looked at it.

"An' tomorry—an' tomorry—" he said with compressed anger—"tomorry do be Sunday! Shut up!" he said to the telephone bell. "An' you shut up, too!" he said to the calf. "An look at ut! Look at th' hat now, will ye?"

It was—it had been—a tall hat, a fashionable hat, built on the general plan of an inverted coal hod. It was a pale, molasses-candy yellow of dreamy soft straw, the plaits of which began at the ground floor and went up and up in graceful spirals until they reached the plateau at the top. It was a new hat, and a spring hat. For a minute Flannery could not believe it was a hat, he had become so used to the low, turtle-shell shape, and then, just as he had decided that it was a hat, he realized that it was a hat no longer. A calf has dainty feet, with two toes on each foot, but they are out of place standing on top of a new style three-story-and-basement hat. The hat was badly dished. The bunches of spirea multiflora and astilbe japonica were jammed into the moire, and telescoped with the yellow haircloth belly-band. There were three punctures and a compound fracture and a whole crowd of contusions in that hat. No one ever saw a sicker-looking hat than that one.

Flannery, very soberly, bent over and picked up the box. The hat had been expressed by "Ernestine, Artistic Millinery," but as Flannery read the address of the consignee he straightened up and gazed at the telephone with anger. The consignee was Mrs. Martha Mary Madden. And the telephone bell was still ringing.

"Hello!" he said, when he had taken the receiver down, and his voice was gentle. "Hello! Are you there, Missus?"

"W'u'd ye mind sayin' th' worrds a bit slower, mum?" said Flannery. "Well, ain't Oi just tellin' ye—? If ye'll but give men wan worrd, mum—Sure, Oi know me business! Well, th' same t' ye! Hat! Aain't Oi been tellin' ye for th' last half hour that th' hat has come? Oi say th' hat has came! CAME! TH'—Hat—HAS—CAME!"

Flannery slapped up the receiver. He was mad now.

"Phwy don't Oi bring th' hat up?" he snapped. "Will Oi mek haste, fer they may be a few changes in th' trimmin' she'll be wantin' t' mek? They'll be changes, all roight! Mabby th' leddy'll be disappointed whin she gits th' hat!"

He looked at the telephone doubtfully. It was his duty to deliver the hat, and he would deliver the hat, but perhaps it would be well to just mention over the phone that a little accident had happened to the hat. The shock would not be so great to Mrs. Madden. He picked up the telephone directory and turned the pages.

"M," he said; "K, L. M. Ma, Mac, Mad, Madden, John C. Madden, 1—3—5 Westcote."

He put up his hand for the receiver and glanced back at the hat. His hand remained motionless in the air. The hat was gone! The last bit of astible japonica was just disapeparing into the calf's mouth! Flannery let his hand fall.

"Th' rule applyin' t' th' case," said Flannery, slowly, to himself; "th' rule that applies t' th' prisint case—th' rule—" He put up his hand and scratched the red thatch on top of his head. "Now, phwat w'u'd th' rule be, annyway?" he said. "Hats w'u'd be hats, an' calves w'u'd be calves, but then th' hat is aten by th' calf, is ut a hat or a calf? I wonder w'u'd Oi report th' hat in bad condition, or absint entoirely? Oi dunno."

"There be no doubt th' hat is in bad condition," said Flannery, with worried brows. "Ut stands t' reason that a hat phwat has been aten by a calf sh'u'd be in bad condition, an' th' rules says t' so report whin goods is received in bad condition. But th' other wan—rule twenty-six—says: 'Whin goods be lost in transit or in th' ixpriss office they shall be so reported by th' agint.' An' t' Flannery ut looks like whin a calf ates a hat th' hat is lost. Shure' tis lost! But is ut? Some w'u'd say' twas lost, but Mike Flannery knows moighty well where th' hat is this blissid minute! 'Tis in th' calf. So 'tis not lost."

He sighed. He knew there was trouble ahead for Flannery, whether he reported the hat lost or in bad condition. He turned to his desk.

"They be but wan hat in th' worrld thot will suit aich woman, an' th' hat thot suits Missus Madden is at prisint in th' stomach av th' red an' whoite calf yonder. Calves is nawthin' but livestock, but hats is hats."

Flannery looked at his way bills. "One calf, uncrated, value $18," he read, and then, turning to the next way bill, he stopped with a gasp. It said: "One hat, boxed, value $54."

As he started, the telephone bell began to ring again, and he let it ring.

"Fifty-four dollars!" said Flannery, in an awe-struck whisper. "Fifty-four—!"

He loked up at the calf reproachfully.

"Fifty-four dollars! An' aten by a cheap, inixpensive eighteen-dollar calf! Why, ye ain't no more value than th' crate av sich a hat sh'u'd be!"

He stopped short. Now he knew the rule that covered hats eaten by calves. Rule 25 said: "When the agent be in doubt which rate to charge, he shall charge the higher," and when an agent is in doubt what to do about a hat that has been eaten by a calf, what should he do but deliver the higher-priced? Flannery dipped his pen into the purple ink and scrawled across the one word "Lost." Then he wrote carefully in his receipt book: "From New York. Consignee, Mrs. M. M. Madden. One hat, packed in a calf. Bad condition."

He stopped a moment to answer the ringing telephone.

"Shure! shure!" he shouted. "Oi'll be there in five minutes!"

Then he took the halter of the calf in his left hand and tucked his receipt book under his right arm, and went out.

Four minutes later Mrs. Madden was standing at her front door, her lips set, her eyes blazing, and a threaded needle all ready in her hand. Her eyes were set steadily toward the village and they did not move to right nor to left. She was waiting for her hat, and she did not look at the man coming up the road with a red and white calf in tether. She did not see him until he turned into the yard, and it was only when he stopped at her feet and held out his receipt book that she looked at him.

"Sign here," said Flannery, pointing to the blank spot.

"What—!" said Mrs. Madden.

"Sign here," repeated Flannery firmly. "Ain't ye th' lady thot's been tellephonin' all day fer her Aister hat? I brung it up mesilf," he said soothingly. "'Tis in th' calf here."

"What!" gasped Mrs. Madden.

"Well, ma'am," said Flanney. "Oi'm not askin' ye t' do nothin' more than Oi'd do mesilf. Th' receipt mentions thot th' hat is in bad condition. Th' receipt mentions that th' hat is in th' calf. An' Mike Flannery guarantees it is. An' usually, ma'am, whin th' company does repackin' ut makes a charge fer ut, but sein' as it's you ma'am, we'll say nawthin' about it."

(THE END.)

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Make Your Home A Comfort Spot

Put the Three-Machines-in-One

SWEEPER-VAC

In your home, and enjoy house-cleaning. Made to run easy, practical, efficient and economical for HOUSE USE.

The name "SWEEPER-VAC" tells what the machine is: A combination of carpet sweeper and vacuum cleaner. The SWEEPER-VAC COMBINATION includes two machines, each complete in itself.

Although the carpet sweeper and the vacuum cleaner can each be used independently, they will generally be used in combination.

The carpet sweeper is small enough to rest under the vacuum cleaner so that both glide along at the same time, each doing its own throuogh work. The vacuum cleaner, by its suction, will remove from a cupful to a quart of solid dirt from any large rug in two minutes, after it has been beaten or otherwise cleaned. The little carpet sweeper at the same time, with its especially constructed brush, will pick up all threads, lint and hair.

This combination SWEEPER-VAC costs the price of several brooms, but forever releases you from their drudgery.

THE MARKETS

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Watermelons Arrive in the City and Are Selling at a High Price.

Watermelons, the first of the season, arrived in this city this morning and are selling at the handsome price of 90c to $1.25. Local dealers, however, states that they are having no trouble of disposing of them. These melons come from the southern part of Florida, and it is said that they are of the choice kind.

Fruit dealers reported an expected heavy business on home grown strawberries this morning. A few were brought in last week, and it is thought that there will be heavy trade in that line all this week. The prices dropped this morning and they are now retailing at 13c to 16c a quart.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, June 8.—Prospects that the government crop report this afternoon would be bearish tended today to pull down the price of wheat. Heavy world's shipments counted also against the bulls. The market, which opened ⅛c off to ⅛c up, gradually underwent a material setback all around.

The close, however, was easy at ⅛@¼c net decline.

Corn rose as a result of consignments being lighter than had been generally expected. Prices started unchanged to ½c higher, and seemed disposed to hold at the top side of the race.

The close was steady, ⅝@½c to ⅝@¾c net higher.

Shorts covered oats. The incentive was a commission house demand which seemed to be in course of development.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, June 8.—Sentiment was less cheerful and prices were lower at the opening of the stock market today. Fears of failure of Mexican mediation owing to the Tampico situation exerted a depressing influence. The firm tone which prevailed most of the time last week was no longer evident. No efforts were made, however, to bring severe pressure to bear and selling was in small volume. Early losses ranged from a small fraction in Reading to a point in New Haven.

Suspension of the Tampico blockade by the Mexican government changed the course of speculation. Traders who had sold in the belief that a serious crisis was imminent bought back their stocks and the list quickly overcome the initial depression. Engagement of $4,500,000 more gold for export was without adverse influence in view of the favorable bank statement of Saturday and the accumulation of idle funds here. Bonds were steady.

Themarket closed easy. Outside news had little influence on values today, although there were important developments which the street had long been awaiting. The supreme court decision in the Shreveport rate case, favoring the railroads, and the bullish government crop figures failed to stir the market. Realizing and short selling forced back prices all around toward the end, Reading reacting a point.

DAILY MARKET LETTER.

(Furnished by J. S. Phillips, North American Building, Fort Wayne, Ind.)

Chicago, June 8.—Trend of Tuesday's turns on the government report figures. wheat shipments from primary points are huge and the United States visible of 27,000,000 bushels may decrease to 17,000,000 bushels or so. Corn visible increase of 1,150,000 bushels is small on the receipts of past week and private consumers must be absorbing corn. There have been large covering by July corn shorts. About 35 per cent. of the new corn crop territory is dry and oats complaints from the drouth territory are steady. Locals continue bearish on wheat. World's wheat shipments of 17,000,000 for week are a record and mean an easier situation abroad during July. Old corn months should see new tops but purchasers should now await recessions. Oats are in a bull position. July pork ran up about 50 points on attention from shorts. Large number of reports in today of cutting new wheat this week from Missouri and one or two from Illinois. Government figures on winter wheat, 92.7; spring wheat, 95.5; oats condition, 85.5. Repoft indicates winter wheat crop of 638,000,000 bushels; spring, 262,000,000; total crop of 900,000,000 bushels.

For Indiana: Generally fair and continued warm tonight and Tuesday.
For Ohio: Fair and continued warm tonight and Tuesday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Some of the highest temperatures of the season were recorded yesterday over the central states, temperatures from 90 to 94 degrees being generally over Iowa, Missouri, Illinois and Kansas, 94 degrees being reported from St. Louis. At Fort Wayne the highest was 91 degrees, which is the highest temperature yet reached this summer. West of the Rockies unusually low temperatures have continued for the last three or four days, 36 degrees being reported this morning from Winnemucca, Nev., and 32 degrees from Yellowstone park.

No showers have occurred over the central and southern sections of the country, although showers have occurred over New York and New England, and from the Lake Superior region westward to Montana and the Dakotas. At Huron, S. D., unusually heavy rains have occurred, more than eight inches having been recorded since Thursday.

With an area of high pressure covering the southeastern states, and a low pressure area in the northwest, conditions favor continued fair and warm weather in this section for the next two or three days.

Local Forecaster.

BODY GROUND UNDER TRAIN

and was walking west along the company's right of way and evidently did not hear the sound of the whistle blown for the crossing. The crossing was unguarded at that time because of the fact that the watchman does not report for duty until 7 o'clock.

The man's body was horribly mangled, and it was several hours before he was identified. Coroner E. H. Kruse was summoned and among other things leading to his identity was a watch bearing his name and a waterworks meter receipt in a pocket of his coat. Nobody witnessed the accident, and among the first to find the man's remains were H. Wolf, of 1513 Walton avenue, and Clark Dinnius, who resides on Winter street.

Mr. Rockstroh was a native of Germany and came to this country twenty-five years ago, locating immediately in Fort Wayne. He was a member of the Concordia Lutheran church and was well known among the German residents of the city. His wife died four years ago and surviving he leaves eight children—Mrs. Minnie Frederick, Mrs. Alvina Wolf, Mrs. Margaret Reiter, Frederick R., Hedwig, Carl, Elsie and Marie Rockstroh.

RAPP AS READY LETTER WRITER

Heink. She testified she roomed with Mrs. Dean from time to time during 1913 and intercepted a considerable number of Rapp's letters.

It was said that ten more letters would be introduced and identified and that this probably would conclude the presentation of testimony of the complainant.

Ben M. Smith, chief counsel for the defendant, declared that he would center his defense on the allegation that the singer was not a resident of Illinois and therefore not entitled to sue for divorce in the Illinois courts. He added that he would prove Rapp's counter-charge of infidelity against the songstress. If successful in this, he said, there would be no necessity for controverting the letters placed in evidence by the prima donna.

She Was "the One and Only."

In the letter of Aug. 1, 1913, Mrs. Dean is addressed as "My darling, wonderful girl." It went on: "Without you it is awful. Just now when I require that quick wit of yours the most I must forego it. That is honest, girlie, and you know that my unbounded admiration for your ability is true. You are the one and only little woman for me who can keep me true and straight and who can bring out the best in me."

The epistle mentions a Mrs. Despoth, whom the writer says gave him the idea "of coming to Chicago and confronting the madam direct. She gave me considerable information about her." The letter was signed "Your Billie" and concludes with the statement that what money the writer has "is yours."

Mme. Schumann-Heink garbed in a tailored suit and wearing a motherly little black hat, listened intently to the reading of the letters.

Letters written Aug. 6 and 8 were read. a missive dated Sept. 5 was sent in care of Mark Harrison, the actor, who roomed at Mrs. Dean's apartment, to avoid interception.

The singer said that she would have to miss most of the rehearsals of the Wagner festival at Beyreuth but could reach the scene in time to participate in the principal event in July.

PUBLIC ANGER NOW MOUNTING

successful attempt was made, under the leadership of a woman, to upset the wagon from which the suffragettes were speaking. The orators escaped into the residence of the local leader of militant society and the crowd afterward pelted the house with stones and broke every window.

Another Demonstration.

Another demonstration by a militant suffragette in the presence of King George and Queen Mary was carried out at the International Horse show at Olympic this afternoon. Their majesties had hardly taken their seats when a young woman rose in the stalls opposite and in a shrill voice screamed denunciations of the forcible feeding of suffragette prisoners. The police pounced upon her immediately, but the woman fought wildly and her ejection from the building was effected only after a struggle.

"No peace for King George or Queen Mary" is the latest orders given out by the headquarters staff of the militant suffragettes and their followers now allow few appearances of their majesties in public to pass without some kind of demonstration.

The guardians of ancient structures in all parts of the country have adopted the most stringent precautions to protect the buildings against the vandalism of the militant suffragettes. Guns and dogs have been requisitioned for this service.

Two men armed with rifles and accompanied by two bull dogs have been placed on guard in the grounds of the historic Priory at Christ church, Hampshire, which dates from the twelfth century. This plan is also being adopted at other places.

American Goes to Jail.

Mrs. May Fausten, the American woman arrested with several others after a disturbance at the Brompton oratory yesterday, was arraigned today at Westminster police court. The magistrate told her she would have to give a bond of $50 to guarantee her good behavior for six months or go to Holloway jail for fourteen days. Mrs. Fausten unhesitatingly chose the jail sentence and announced her intention of at once beginning a "hunger strike." Oscar Fausten, her husband, who was present in court, acquiesced in his wife's decision. He informed the magistrate that he was a suffragist, but that when he accompanied his wife to the oratory he did not know there was to be an "unseemly demonstration."

"My wife was unjustly and brutally treated by the police and she did not participate in the disorders at the oratory," was Fausten's declaration later in the day. The Fausten's formerly lived in New York but have resided in Berlin and London for the past 14 years. Mrs. Fausten is from Philadelphia.

Pike Was Merely Drunk.

Harry Pike, who yesterday startled the authorities and the public by invading Buckingham palace, is not a suffragette agent, according to the attorney for the prosecution who appeared against him at Bow street police court today.

The man who clambered over the ten foot spiked wall which surrounds the palace grounds and eluded sentinels, police guards and servants, did so while under the influence of drink and without any ulterior object, said the lawyer. After overcoming all the obstacles and evading the watchers Pike strolled about for a long time in the interior of the palace, which he explored from basement to sixth floor. It was only when he entered an occupied room that he was discovered and arrested. He had changed his clothing in one of the chambers for a suit belonging to a servant, as he had torn and soiled his own clothes in climbing the wall and crawling across the grounds.

The magistrate remanded the prisoner for a week for further inquiries.

Pike today issued a long written statement giving details of his wanderings and adventures in the palace. He mentioned that his wife was in America and that he had been drinking ever since she left England. He is an automobile mechanic.

JAIL TERM FOR DIVORCED MAN

Judge Yaple Sends Henry Williams Over for Contempt.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

Henry Williams wondered how long Judge Yaple's patience could be stretched before it would snap. He knows and will spend the next ninety days in the Allen county jail thinking it over. Some weeks ago Alice Williams was given a divorce from Henry Williams in the superior court. The decree gave her custody of two children and an allowance of $16 monthly, to be in equal bi-monthly installments, for their support. Repeatedly the wife has complained to the court of the delinquency of her ex-husband in the matter of the allowance for the children. Finally Williams was cited for contempt, and when he appeared before Judge Yaple Monday gave no reason worth while why he should not be punished and the judge ordered him to jail for three months.

Home Six Nights in Two Years.

Clarisa Wiseman, in her divorce complaint to the superior court, says that during the past two years her husband, Willis Wiseman, has spent not more than six evenings at their home, 1217 Calhoun street. He is charged with openly admitting association with divers bad women and with failing for two years to provide. The couple were married in December, 1898, and have two small children of which the plaintiff asks the custody.

Suit to Replevin Valuable Horse.

Ethan B. and Artemas O. Souers have begun suit in the circuit court against George Waldrop to replevin a gray Percheron stallion of the alleged value of $1,500. The complaint sets out that the animal is not held for taxes, assessments or judgment of court and that it is believed to be unlawfully held somewhere in Allen county. The plaintiffs are widely known dealers in imported horses.

Both Worked to Keep Husbands.

There is striking similarity in the divorce complaints of Orena Gray against George Gray and of Eve G. Bonfiglio against Frank Bonfiglio, both filed in the superior court. Mrs. Gray says she was married to George in July, 1908, and that in the following December he deserted her after having made her go out to work to earn money to support her. Other cruel and inhuman treatment is charged. Mrs. Bonfiglio says she and Frank were made one in April, 1907, and that he played a cruel joke on her April 1, this year, when he packed up his duds and fled, she knows not where. Bonfiglio likewise refused to work and made his wife go out to hard labor to get means to support herself and him.

Sues for Theft of His Wife.

In a complaint filed in the superior court, Joseph J. Hartman sues Forrest Johnson for $5,000 for alienating the affection of Mrs. Clementina Hartman. The plaintiff says he and Clementina were married in 1905 and that on July 23, 1913, she left him, going to Columbus with Johnson and taking the children with her. He charges that the absconding pair have been living in adultery. Hartman was given a divorce and custody of his children some time ago.

Notes of the Courts.

The Farmers' and Traders' bank of Markle, Ind., has brought suit in the circuit court against James Hamilton on a note, demanding $236.

In the superior court the suit of the City Trucking company vs. the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, has been dismissed.

Before Judge Eggeman and a jury the suit to break the will of the late Joseph Oppelt is on trial in the circuit court.

The will of the late Frederick Thiele, of Washington township, has been ordered probated. The property goes to a son who is directed to always provide a home and support for his mother and to make certain provisions for his sisters.

IS DECLARED INSANE.

Walter Romanofski, a foreigner resident on Wallace street, has been declared insane by a commission that sat in the court of Justice A. C. Nierman. Romanofski was taken into custody by the police last week while he was going about town armed with a big revolver and hunting for enemies he said were conspiring against him. The man had threatened his family and one or two physicians who had attended him.

that as legislation in no way waives treaty rights he may accept the measure although he desired passage of the repeal without limitation.

In answer to questions concerning the Colombian treaty the president today said Secretary Bryan still has that and the Nicarauguan treaty under consideration and no definite decision has been made as to when they will be submitted to the senate.

Troops will not be withdrawn from the Colorado coal fields immediately. The white house has reason to believe that a conference will soon come about between the warring forces which will doubtless end in a settlement of differences and make possible the withdrawal of federal troops without danger of further conflict.

The president believes the prospect for the passage of the conservation program in the house is good and expressed the hope that the measures desired by the west may be reached, also by the senate, before the end of the session.

QUEEN CONTEST GROWING WARM

A SUMMER FESTIVAL

Twenty or more of Fort Wayne's beautiful young ladies are engaged in a strenuous rivalry for the sovereign honors of the Summer Festival, June 22-27, for the benefit of the Children's Playgrounds association and from among these will be chosen the queen and her maids to preside over the festival. Although candidates were not nominated until the end of the week the competition has assumed the liveliest interest already. From the way the race has started it is indicated that this will be altogether the greatest contest of the sort Fort Wayne has ever witnessed.

It costs 1 cent for each vote given to a candidate for queen. Votes may be deposited in the ballot boxes distributed in a dozen or more down town business places. The method of voting is simple. Place the amount you wish to vote in one of the envelopes that can be found at all voting stations, write upon the outside the name of your candidate, seal it and drop in the box. Quite easy, indeed. Candidates will aid you to vote by calling on you personally, collecting your votes and depositing them. You are not likely to altogether escape attention of the score or more of pretty young ladies who are contesting for the honors and for the rich and beautiful prizes. A diamond ring, valued at $175, a solid gold diamond-studded watch worth $60 and a gold la valliere worth $40 are the three prizes offered. They are on exhibition at Trenkley & Koerber's jewelry store, 816 Calhoun street.

RESCINDS ORDER FOR BLOCKADE AT TAMPICO

Washington, June 8.—Huerta has decided, after all, not to blockade Tampico and force the hand of the United States with the possibility of disrupting the mediation proceedings at Niagara Falls. Mr. Riano, the Spanish ambassador notified Secretary Bryan officially to that effect today.

Thus the latest crisis in the Mexican situation, fraught with possibilities of renewed hostilities between Huerta and the United States passed over. What actuated Huerta in backing down does not appear in the brief advices which reached Washington.

News Reaches Washington.

Unofficial reports that the dictator had decided at the last moment to rescind his order of blockade had reached unofficial sources which have been in very close touch with the situation about the same time Mr. Rinno was notifying Secretary Bryan. Instantly there was an evidence of relief of the tension of the last three days along the line in officials circles.

There were broad intimations here that the influence which had caused Huerta to rescind his order had gone to Mexico City all the way from Niagara Falls where it was said, the mediators and the Mexican delegates had been urging him in the strongest possible terms to withdraw his position and let the mediation proceed.

It did not appear here that Huerta's change of position had been contingent upon any change of plans for the cargo of the steamer Antilla, steaming for Tampico with arms for the constitutionalists. It had been suggested that possible pressure upon the owners of the ship might cause them to divert her.

Wilson Was Determined.

One thing, however, was plain, President Wilson was determined that Tampico should be kept open to the commerce of the world and the American ships under Rear Admiral Mayo were in evident readiness to enforce it Whether the Antilla's war cargo would have been considered as commerce had the situation come to the point of a break, all officials here declined to say.

The gunboats Zaragosa and Bravo should have arrived at Tampico about 5 o'clock this morning Followed by the U. S. S. Sacramento and Tacoma, they passed Vera Cruz yesterday. In the absence of any new report today, Secretary Daniels wirelessed Rear Admiral Badger for a report of their position. The possibility that Huerta's decision not to blockade the port may have diverted them was taken into the reckoning here.

Gen. Huerta's Dispatch.

Gen. Huerta's dispatch announcing the suspension of the blockade was received at the Spanish embassy early today and its purport was immediately communicated to Secretary Bryan at his home. Later a fuller report was made to the secretary after the translation.

The dispatch requested the Spanish ambassador to inform the American government that the suspension of the blockade had been decreed by Gen. Huerta, that official notification would be published in the official paper tomorrow and that orders had been given to the Mexican gunboats to return to Puerto Mexico. Gen. Huerta's action in calling off the blockade was inspired, it was stated, by a sincere desire not to jeopardize the success of mediation.

Evidence of Sincerity.

In diplomatic circles Huerta's action was regarded as conclusive evidence of sincerity that he has placed the fate of

FIX MOLARS AS CURE

New York, June 8.—Bad teeth make bad boys in the opinion of Charles D. Hilles, formerly private secretary to President Taft, but now president of the New York juvenile asylum at Dobbs' Ferry. Mr. Hilles made public his discovery in an announcement today. He declares that by patching up the teeth of delinquent boys he is able to send them back to their homes 90 per cent. good, instead of 90 per cent. bad.

Acting upon the premise that the bad boy is generally an ill boy, Mr. Hilles said, "We determined to maintain a thorough physical study of all boys sent up here, all of whom are under fifteen years of age. Sixty-five per cent. of them were anaemic.

"Then we sought for the physical cause of the anaemic condition. We found that more than 90 per cent. of the boys came to us with bad teeth. They were dragged down in a physical manner and through no fault of their own became degenerates and moral delinquents.

"We have been able to trace, at least to our satisfaction, most of the troubles from which the boys suffer to their mouths. In other words, their teeth were bad and the dentist has been a thorough upbuilder.

Tell New York Policemen of Unusual Case of Poverty and Privation.

New York, June 8.—An unusual case of poverty and privation has come to the notice of the authorities. Two girls, Pearl Schwartz, 20, and Dinah Meyers, 18, step sisters, appealed to a policeman for aid Sunday, saying they were starving.

In court they told the magistrate that they were orphans and friendless and that for two weeks they had been sleeping in the parks at night walking the streets by day vainly looking for work. The girls came to this country several years ago. Their mother died two years ago and until several months ago they were employed in a factory. Two weeks ago their savings became exhausted and they were forced to give up their furnished room.

To avoid the insults of the streets, they said, was the reason they took up quarters under bushes in Central park. They did not know that the city would care for them and appealed to the policeman only when they were weak from hunger and exposure and did not know where to turn. Magistrate Krotel sent the girls to a refuge home where they will be cared for.

RIVER GIVES UP BODY OF WOMAN

MYSTERY IN DEATH

Baltimore, Md., June 8.—The body of Miss Ella Winter, 1228 East Preston street, this city, who had been missing from her home since last Thursday, was found floating in the Patapsco river, near Curtis, today. Miss Winter was said to have left her home Thursday evening and to have gone to Curtis Bay to go aboard the house boat of D. Meredith Reese, jr., which she had visited on numerous occasions, accompanied by the parents of Mr. Reese.

Reese said he met the young woman Thursday evening and after a motor boat ride had landed her at their starting point to enable her to catch a car for Baltimore. He said that was the last time he saw her, and that he had been looking for her ever since the next day, when he learned she hadn't appeared at her place of employment. Miss Winter was thirty years old and a stenographer.

Chicago, June 8.—More impassioned letters addressed to Mrs. Catherine Dean and alleged to have been written by Wm. Rapp, who is being sued for divorce by Mme. Schumann-Heink, the famous contralto, were introduced in Judge Sullivan's court today.

There was a bit of comedy between the lines. Under date of August 1, 1913, the writer said:

"I wrote you Friday, Saturday, Sunday. Monday I did not write as I had conferences all day until late at night Tuesday, and Wednesday I write again. Yesterday I waited all day for a letter from you and I was discouraged at not hearing from you."

The reason the writer did not hear from Mrs. Dean was that she was in court in the person of Miss Frances J. Ashton, a nurse, employed as a detective by counsel for Mme. Schumann-

The operation passed off without any incident, the time required being about one hour and a half each way. A large crowd of spectators witnessed the vessel's passage.

DROWNS HERSELF IN SHALLOW POND

Despondent Over Domestic Trouble Mrs. Charles Lahrman Ends Life.

FILED A DIVORCE SUIT

Presumably despondent because of family difficulties, Mrs. Charles Lahrman, aged forty-eight years, rushed from her home on the Illinois road, six miles west of the city, at 10 o'clock Monday morning, and threw herself into a shallow pond at the rear of her home, drowning before the other members of the family discovered her absence from the house.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Lahrman applied for a divorce from her husband and the two had not been living together. She had been in a very nervous frame of mind since and it is said that for several days she refused to eat. Just a short time before members of her family missed her she had been sitting in the living room of the handsome country home, where she had lived ever since her marriage, twenty-eight years ago.

She had not been away from the house but a few moment when a small daughter, Marie, strolling to the pond, about 300 feet from the house, saw her mother's skirts floating on the water. Help was called and Mrs. Lahrman's body was dragged from the water, but life was extinct and medical aid, summoned later, was fruitless.

Mrs. Lahrman was the mother of a family of eight children. She was widely known in the western part of the county and news of her suicide will come as a sorrowful shock to hundreds of acquaintances.

TODAY HOTTEST DAY OF SEASON

No break is in sight for the heat wave that engulfs Fort Wayne and vicinity, and today is the hottest day of the year here. Fort Wayne is sweltering under a temperature in the neighborhood of 94 degrees and unlimited suffering is reported from all parts of the city because of the unseasonable heat.

According to Forecaster W. S. Palmer today's temperature is about three degrees above that of Sunday. At 10:30 o'cloc Monday morning the government thermometer stood at 87 degrees, compared with 85 degrees at the same hour of the day previous.

The entire city is seeking relief from the excessive heat and as a result of the torpid climate, business has been slightly affected. During the midday the business streets were practically deserted, except for the few whose duties compelled them to brave the sun's piercing rays.

It is estimated that 12,000 persons sought the parks Sunday as a relief and more than 5,000 people passed through the gates at Robison park, while in fact every bit of wooded land in the city and vicinity held record breaking crowds for the season. A municipal concert was rendered at Lawton park during the afternoon and it is estimated that fully 1,000 people attended.

Tippite Village Celebrates Century of Notable History.

New Harmony, Ind., June 8.—Reasons for the failure of experiments in socialism were discussed by William H. Taft today in an address delivered at the centennial celebration of the founding of New Harmony. This town probably is the most famous place in the United States where the exponents of socialistic and community ideas tried to prove the practical value of their theories. The former president outlined the history of these experiments here and drew his conclusions.

"The most notable experiments at New Harmony," he said, "that of Robert Owen failed, as all socialism must fail, because it found no substitute for the motive essential to arouse and make constant human effort that is furnished by the institution of private property and the shaping of reward by competition and natural economic adjustment. The plan was based on the assumption that man was a different being from what he is. If he were so perfect that his love of human kind would banish from every one in human form selfishness and retain in him the same energy, self-sacrifice and industry in behalf of others that he now manifests in behalf of himself and those near to him, then there would be no need for the organization of a socialistic community

Total of 346 Men Killed in United States During Month of April.

2,785 DURING YEAR 1913

Washington, June 8.—Men killed in and about coal mines in the United States during April numbered 346, as compared with 285 in April, 1913, according to the bureau of mine statistics announced today. The large increase during April was due to an explosion at Eccles, W. Va., which resulted in the death of 180 men.

For the four months ending with April this year's total was 917 men killed, compared with 918 men killed last year during the first four months. The principal increases were: Explosions of gas and coal dust, 91; falling down shafts or slopes, 111; the principal decreases were: Falls off roofs and coal, 79; mine cars and locomotives, 27.

During the year 1913 there were 2,785 men killed in and about mines in the country. This is at the rate of 38.82 per 1,000 employed, and 4.88 per 1,000,000 short tons of coal mined, or a production of 204,688 short tons of coal for every life lost.

CURBS RULE OF STATE BOARDS

MUCH INTEREST IN IT

Washington, June 8.—The supreme court today upheld the inter-state commerce commission's orders in the Shreveport rate case, thus placing inter-state railroads more under the commission and less under state commissions.

Justice Hughes announced the court's decision. He spoke of the unrestricted power of the inter-state commerce commission over inter-state commerce, saying the commission was expressly created to prevent conflicting state legislation.

Justice Hughes pointed out that congress and not the states had the power to prevent the instruments of inter-state commerce from being used so as to injure inter-state commerce. He quoted the cases under the safety appliance law and the second federal employers liability law supporting the power of congress to keep the channels of inter-state commerce clear.

Referring to the noted Minnesota rate case Justice Hughes said that decision was expressly reserved in those cases as to what the outcome would have been had the inter-state commerce commission found that the Minnesota rate discriminated against inter-state commerce.

History of the Case.

The fight for better rates for Shreveport jobbers into Texas promised from the start to establish a precedent governing the future trade of cities along states boundaries. So important was the matter deemed to be that the Louisiana railroad commission itself initiated the contest before the interstate commerce commission in behalf of the jobbers along the Louisiana-Texas border.

The Louisiana commission complained to the interstate commerce commission in March, 1911, that the class rates charged by the railroads for transportation in a westerly direction from Shreveport to points in Texas were unjustly discriminatory in that they were much greater than the rates contemporaneously charged for the transportation of like traffic from Dallas and Houston, in Texas, to the same points. They complained, in substance, that a trade wall had been erected around Texas and that outside jobbers were not permitted to enter into the enclosed field.

The Houston, East and West Railway company and the Texas and Pacific Railway company did not deny the discrimination, but answered that the Shreveport rates were reasonable in themselves, and that the Texas rates were not voluntary but were prescribed by the Texas railroad commission. The interstate commerce commission issued an order holding that an unjust discrimination existed and directed the railways either to lower the interests rate from Shreveport to Texas points or to increase the Texas rates from Dallas and Houston to other Texas points so as to remove this discrimination. The railways vainly endeavored to induce the commerce court to enjoin the enforcement of this order.

his government and the settlement of the Mexican problem fully in the hands of the South American mediators and his representatives at Niagara Falls. The wires between Washington, Niagara Falls and Mexico City have been hot with official dispatches since the receipt Saturday afternoon of the dispatch announcing the proclamation of the blockade. epresentations of the serious nature of the crisis precipitated by his action and the decision of the American government to keep Tampico open were made to Gen. Huerta from several quarters with appeals to sacrifice a possible momentary advantage for his government in order to prevent the collapse of the peace conference at Niagara Falls.

Will Receive Carranza?

In official circles here the rescinding of the Tampico blockade order was regarded as an indication that Gen. Carranza will be received into the Niagara conference. Carranza's answer to the mediators, it generally was expected, will be forwarded from Saltillo tonight or tomorrow. Upon what terms the constitutionalist leaders representative may agree to enter the negotiations were not definitely known here, but there was a feeling that conferences at Niagara Falls yesterday and negotiations resulting from these conferences with the Washington government and Gen. Huerta had worked out an understanding by which the scope of mediation was to be broadened.

Though unconfirmed here reports were persistent that the mediators had induced Gen. Huerta to rescind the blockade order, only after there had been some assurance from the United States as to the disposition of the Antilla. One report had it that the steamer would be diverted to some other port, probably Havana, pending further mediation negotiations. Secretary Bryan's face was illumined with a smile broader than usual. He was asked if the Spanish ambassador in announcing the suspension of the blockade had made any protest to the United States on behalf of Huerta relating to the landing of the Antilla's cargo or if there had been any negotiations on the part of this government and the owners of the steamer Antilla with a view to diverting the shipment. "I cannot discuss further than to state that the blockade has been suspended," was Mr. Bryan's reply.

Rear Admiral Badger reported that the Mexican gun boats Zaragosa and Bravo arrived off Tampico at 8 a. m. today. He did not say whether their commanders knew of the suspension of the blockade.

SAFELY OVER SHOALS.

Devision of Huerta Sases Minds of the Mediatorsd.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 8.—Mediation passed safely today over the shoals of threatened disruption. Gen. Huerta came to the rescue rescinding the order he had issued for a blockade at Tampico, a circumstance that imperiled mediation and produced the gravest apprehension since the conference began. "The blockade incident has been satisfactorily adjusted," was the announcement of Justice Lamar as the American delegates entered their conference with the mediators. "We have received word from Secretary Bryan that the Spanish ambassador had been advised by Gen. Huerta of the raising of the blockade." Justice Lamar said he was uninformed as to the reasons which had actuated Huerta. The Mexican delegates, however, announced that they would issue a statement of explanation.

The blockade incident was only briefly discussed at the conference between the American delegates and the mediators. It was regarded as a past issue. Then the American commissioners presented the peace plan which they had drafted. In many respects it is the same as was suggested by the Mexican delegates and the mediators. The points of difference are in matters of detail. Justice Lamar dictated the following statement after the conference: "The mediators have heretofore submitted to us a complete plan and we have now submitted to them our plan. Our counter proposition contains a number of points on which we have agreed and also propositions on which there has been neither an agreement nor disagreement. The mediators are now taking under consideration the points on which there has been no disagreement."

Justice Lamar spoke hopefully of the general situation, saying that the adjustment of the blockade incident gave faith in the ultimate success of the mediation board.

No word has been received from Carranza according to Justice Lamar though the reply to the last communication is being anxiously awaited. It became known too, that the American government was exerting pressure to have the way for the constitutionalist representation and it was generally understood that final approval of all peace plans would be upheld until the question of constitutionalist acceptance of the plans has been settled.

FORTY DESERTERS SHOT.

Activities of Firing Squad at Chihuahua Are Explained.

Juarez, Mex., June 8.—Persistent rumors that many federals had been executed recently at Chihuahua City, were explained here today to the effect that those who faced the firing squad were without exception deserters from the constitutionalist army and "reds," or former Madero irregular troops, who had joined the Huerta soldiery. These men, after their dispersal at Torreon last April, had penetrated the mountains of western Chihuahua, engaging in brigandage. Of the twenty-six shot last Wednesday at Santo Rosa, a suburb of the state capital, seven were former officers of the rebel army. Since then a few others have been executed, it was said, but all of them met death after proper identification and a review of their cases had made the infliction of the death penalty purely a course sanctioned by the civil and military laws of Mexico. It was estimated that at least forty had been shot.

THE MUNICIPAL NEWS

Tuesday night first business of the city council will be to settle the hot three-cornered fight for membership on the Fort Wayne board of school trustees. The candidates are Ernest W. Cook, who is now concluding his third term; A. L. Randall, the automobile dealers, and E. H. Trier, head of the accounting department in the C. C. Schlatter hardware store. Mr. Cook's friends, both in the council and outside are urging his candidacy upon his record of nine years in the office and point to the progress made in the Fort Wayne public schools in that period. Mr. Trier's candidacy has a strong backing from the German Alliance, which organization believes that a German should be a member of the board both by reason of the large number of German patrons of the public schools and because of the importance of the study of German in the schools. Mr. Randall is urged by many friends as a highly fit and competent man who has always been a citizen of the city and devoted supporter of public educations. Friends of all express confidence but the supporters of Mr. Cook's candidacy for re-election are more positive than any.

INQUIRE ABOUT THE DAIRIES.

Women Want to Know Where Clean Milk Can Be Assured.

Dr. J. H. Gilpin, secretary of the board of health, states that there is a constantly increasing number of inquiries at the city health office for information relating to dairies. Most of these inquiries come from women and presumably from such as have infants to feed. The inquiries for the most part bear upon the point of cleanliness and information is asked as to which dairies are shown by the milk inspection division to have the best records. Dr. Gilpin says the health department welcomes these inquiries and in all cases will furnish the information. Those dairies that have been graded highest under inspection are those recommended to inquirers. The health department's inspection of dairies discloses that city depots whose business is confined to the purchase and distribution of milk are in need of close inspection. The country dairies grade higher.

"American City Magazine" Asks for Local Pictures.

Secretary C. J. Steiss, of the park board, has a letter from Harold S. Buttenheim, editor of the "American City," a monthly magazine devoted to municipal government and city development, praising the annual report of the Fort Wayne board of park commissioners and requesting the loan of two halftone illustrations showing Reservoir park in winter and summer. The editor likewise requests that the plate for the cartoon, "Lessons from the Park Board's Annual Report," be sent him. It was reproduced in the board's 1913 report. Editor Buttenheim wishes to reprint the illustrations and the cartoon in his magazine. They will be sent to him.

WILL OPEN BIDS WEDNESDAY.

The park board will open bids at its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon for the construction of the new bandstand in Swinney park and for the comfort station in Webster park. Contractors are now consulting the plans and specifications for these two park improvements.

VISIT PROPOSED TERRITORY.

As Committee of the Whole Council Views Part Up for Annexation.

As a committee of the whole President William A. Bayer and other members of the city council paid a visit Sunday afternoon to the territory east of Alexander street and south of Pontiac street to look over the tract which it is proposed to annex to the city. An ordinance introduced by Councilman Korte, of the Tenth ward, at the last regular meeting was referred until the committee of the whole could visit the territory. Annexation has been petitioned for by eight persons resident in the territory. A counter petition has been filed. There is a division in the council as to the advisability of annexing this territory at present, but so far as can be ascertained a majority of the council seems to be in favor of the addition to the city. The proposal will be threshed out in the council Tuesday night after the committee of the whole has reported. Councilman Korte briefly addressed the people of the district Sunday, urging that the annexation should be made.

You are safe in dealing with a firm that has a reputation for Quality Merchandise, for such a reputation takes a long time to build and is a very precious asset and, like most precious things, is easily destroyed.
We have spent years of time and thousands of dollars in building our business reputation as Value Givers in Clothing, Hats and Furnishing Goods. And because we know that the slightest misstatement would bring that reputation down like a house of cards, you may rest assured that when we say our Clothes, our Hats, our Haberdashery offer the greatest values in Fort Wayne, at their prices, we say it advisedly and only after careful investigation. So if you want the best clothes your money can buy at $25, or $18, or $10, or any other price up to $40—or if value in Hats or Furnishings means anything to you, come here to do your trading.

WHEAT YIELD TO SMASH RECORDS

June Crop Report Puts 1914 Total at 900,000,000 Bushels.

OTHERS ALSO LARGE

Washington, June 8.—Nine hundred million bushels of wheat, almost half of the acreage of the world's wheat production, and a new record for the United States, is the prospective total yield of the farms of the country this year, the department of agriculture announced today in its June crop report.

The enormous crop will be 137,000,000 bushels more than ever was grown before in the United States in any one year. Excellent weather for the growing crop and an increase of 0.4 per cent in the acreage planted to wheat are reported. There also will be large yields of oats and barley, probably second in size in the history of the nation.

The June crop report shows: Spring wheat: Area, 17,990,000 acres; condition, 95.5 per cent; indicated yield, 14.6 bushels per acre; estimated production, 262,000,000 bushels.

Winter wheat: Condition, 92.7; yield, 18.1; production, 638,000,000 bushels.

Oats: Area, 38,383,000 acres; yield, 31.7; production, 1,216,000,000 bushels.

Rye: Condition, 93.6; yield, 17.2.

No Unfriendly Feeling for Roosevelt is Shown at Madrid.

COL. T. R. ARRIVES

Madrid, June 8.—Col. Roosevelt arrived at Madrid this afternoon on his first trip to Spain, completing his journey to attend the wedding of his son, Kermit Roosevelt, and Miss Belle Wyatt Willard, daughter of the American ambassador to Spain.

There was a small crowd gathered at the station, including a number of police in plain clothes who were distributed about the station as a result of the publication of several newspaper articles antagonistic to Col. Roosevelt. The chief of police had feared the possibility of some evidence of an unfriendly feeling being displayed against the former president, but none whatever was shown. There was an affectionate greeting between Col. Roosevelt, his son, Kermit, and his daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth.

Col. Joseph Willard, the American ambassador, and the members of the embassy staff, and Senor Menez, the Spanish undersecretary of state, also were at the station to meet Col. Roosevelt. He was driven to the American embassy.

King Alfonso traveled on the same train for some distance with Col. Roosevelt, but as each was unaware of the presence of the other there was no meeting. King Alfonso had been to Biarritz to see his doctor and it was merely a coincidence that his car was attached to the train in which Col. Roosevelt was traveling.

When the king left the train the former president was an interested spectator when his majesty passed through a cordon of troops. His majesty got into an automobile which he himself drove. The king will not be present at the wedding ceremony, but it is said he will probably meet Col. Roosevelt on Wednesday.

FLEMING NOT ON ROME CITY LAKE

RUMOR OF ARRESTS

A man who said he was Capt. Rodney D. Fleming, in charge of the Northern Indiana district for the state fish and game department, examined the fish in the live boxes of a number of Fort Wayne fishermen at Rome City Sunday and is said to have made three arrests, or rather to have notified three to appear in court for having in possession fish shorter than the Indiana law permits to be caught.

The fact that Capt. Fleming arrived in Fort Wayne at noon Monday after having spent Sunday at Long lake, indicates that somebody was either "kidding" the fishermen or one of the deputies was misunderstood when he made the examination. There were two deputies on duty there yesterday, but a report does not include any arrests and Capt. Fleming is pretty sure none was made.

During the forenoon L. A. Randall caught a fish and after an argument with Marion Black decided to keep it to ascertain whether it was a bass or a perch. If it was a perch there was no law against keeping it, but if a bass it should have been thrown in the lake at once.

This fish was gobbled upon by the man, who said he was Fleming and for a time it looked like trouble ahead for Black, but as the head was that of a perch, while the body resembled a bass it was finally decided that no offense had been committed.

Mr. Fleming will make an investigation and ascertain whether or not one of his deputies made the examination or whether some fellow thought he would have a little fun with the fishermen, and is he finds the latter to be the case he will have something to say about it.

RUSHVILLE MAN IS PRESIDENT

Will Sir Thomas Lipton Take America's Cup With New Mascot?

SIR THOMAS LIPTON ON BOARD HIS STEAM YACHT ERIN. THIS IS HIS LATEST PHOTOGRAPH.

(By Sir Thomas Lipton.)

The strangest mascot that has ever been seen in the world will be aboard the Shamrock IV when she competes this fall for the America's cup—a mascot that I fully expect will break at last the hoodoo that has defeated my former cup challengers.

I am not a strong believer in mascots.

The Erin in 1903 was full of them. I think I had twenty-four horseshoes, one of these having been made by Fitzsimmons, the champion American boxer, who was a blacksmith. In the way of religious and other emblems I had everything one could possibly think of.

I had also tigers' whiskers sent me, likewise a green hen which came from Pittsburg (I presume its feathers had been dyed), also pedigree rabbits, pedigree black cats, lady birds, green frogs, baskets full of babies' cauls and chicken wishbones—some of the latter mounted in gold and silver—grasshoppers from Kansas with legs like dromedaries, Irish terriers, and, last but not least, I had a magnificent American eagle sent me. In fact, the Erin was like a traveling menagerie.

One lady wrote to me suggesting that I should take her son on board with me as a mascot. She said that he was young and red-headed and that he brought luck everywhere he went, and that if I had him on board I should be sure to win. I also had a young Jumbo pet elephant offered me, and this I was reluctantly compelled to decline for lack of space.

I do not think, taking things overhead, that there was anything wanting or that my friends missed anything that could be thought of as a mascot, but, of course, the readers of The Sentinel know the result. They might let me know which of the above-mentioned collection was the hoodoo.

Still, I have never had a baboon before, and the one which Sir Thomas Dewar has brought me from Nairobi, East Africa, can, I understand, do everything but talk, including shaking hands in the most approved fashion.

Sir Thomas, when he sent it to me, had it dressed in his kilts. He, being a Highlander himself, thought the baboon ought to be dressed in his own native costume, but I consider his manners are not yet good enough for this costume. I am sure his conduct will be better if I give him a Shamrock sailor's outfit of clothes.

Yours sincerely,

THOMAS LIPTON.

SPENDS MILLIONS TO WIN CUP WORTH $500.

Sir Thomas Lipton has spent millions trying to capture a little piece of battered silver that cost less than $500 more than sixty years ago and would not be worth one-third of that today. But the cup still represents the supremacy of the seas and is a treasure to be prized.

The trophy was offered by the Royal Yacht squadron, not by Queen Victoria, as has been often said, for a race between boats of all nations. Commodore Stevens, of the New York Yacht club, captured the trophy and gave it to his club as a perpetual challenge cup. It has been raced for eight times, but continues to make its home in Tiffany's vaults awaiting patiently, it seems, its long-delayed return trip across the Atlantic.

The races to date were as follows, the unsuccessful challengers being named first: Genesta-Puritan, 1885; Galatea-Mayflower, 1886; Thistle-Volunteer, 1887; Valkyrie II-Vigilant, 1893; Valkyrie III-Defender, 1895; Shamrock-Columbia, 1899; Shamrock II-Columbia, 1901; Shamrock III-Reliance, 1903.

SCORES NEW IMMIGRATION BILL.

Head of B'rith Abraham Asks Wilson to Kill Proposed Measure.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 8.—Declaring that it was up to President Wilson to prevent enactment of the Burnett-Dillingham immigration bill should the senate abandon all American traditions and follow in the footsteps of the house in passing the measure, Leon Sanders, grand master of the Independent Order B'rith Abraham, assailed the legislation in his annual address before the twenty-eighth annual convention of the order here and appealed to the 1,500 delegates to "stem the tide of bigotry and prejudice."

Conditions, he said, were such in eastern Europe as to make it imperative that many Jewish people seek freedom in the United States, but the passage of the "iniquitous measure would shut the doors of America in the face of Jewish immigration."

The secretary's report showed a gain during the year of forty lodges with an aggregate of 26,000 members, making the total membership of the order more than 200,000.

ANGERED FATHER SLAYS.

Kills Physician Who Refused to Call Because of Unpaid Bill.

Duquoin, Ill., June 8.—Refused medical attention for his child because of an unpaid bill, Jesse Joplin shot Dr. D. Winter Dunn, former mayor of Duquoin, six times. The physician died yesterday in a hospital at St. Louis, where he was taken after the shooting.

Joplin had been a patient of Dr. Dunn several years ago and the latter had been unable to collect for his services. He placed his accounts in the hands of collectors, it is said, and aroused the anger of Joplin. Recently Joplin's child became ill and Dr. Dunn refused to answer the call, Joplin claims. Joplin appeared at Dr. Dunn's office with a revolver in hand and said: "I have come for the purpose of killing you."

Dr. Dunn remonstrated with Joplin, saying he was sixty years old and no match for him physically. The doctor suddenly pushed Joplin through an open door and shut it. Joplin emptied his revolver through the door, every shot striking the physician. Joplin was arrested and taken to Pickneyville, the authorities fearing violence.

STRUCK BY AN AUTOMOBILE.

Lewis Gibford, ten years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gibford, 921 Putnam street, was struck by a speeding automobile Sunday evening while he was riding his bicycle along Cass street. Although numerous people saw the automobile no one witnessed the accident. The boy lay in the street in an unconscious condition when found by George Brookhouse, night engineer at the ice plant. The lad was attended by Dr. J. F. Dinnen and it was found that his worst injury is a severe bruise on the elbow.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Acts 7:44-56.

44 Our fathers had the tabernacle of witnesses in the wilderness, as he had appointed, speaking unto Moses, that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen.

45 Which also our fathers that came after brought in with Jesus into the possession of the Gentiles, whom God drave out before the face of our fathers, unto the days of David;

46 Who found favour before God, and desired to find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

47 But Solomon built him an house.

48 Howbeit the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet,

49 Heaven is my throu, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build me? saith the Lord: or what is the place of my rest?

50 Hath not my hand made all these things?

51 Ye stiffnecked and uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye.

52 Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them which shewed before of the coming of the Just One; of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers:

53 Who have received the law by the disposition of angels, and have not kept it.

54 When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth.

55 But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God,

56 And said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God.

MONDAY, JUNE 8, 1914.

Mr. Taft in Indiana Again.

William Howard Taft, formerly of Washington, now of New Haven; once president, now professor, is paying a visit to Indiana once more, this time in the role of a distinguished private citizen. We suspect that as a matter of fact he is enjoying himself infinitely more than when during those strenuous days of campaigning he dashed furiously hither and yon across Indiana, delivering car platform addresses and undergoing the strain of political excitement. We think, too, he must be more at ease than when the burdens of the presidency bore down upon him as he made occasional trips to this great commonwealth.

The contrast must seem striking to the distinguished professor of law. He came to Indianapolis Saturday, and proceeded quietly to the home of Mr. Fairbanks, the former vice president, planted a tree in the grounds of the latter during the afternoon, and on Sunday attended church at the state capital. His visit at this time is primarily for the purpose of delivering an address at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of New Harmony, the quaint old Posey county town which was the seat of early-day American experiments in socialistic and community existence.

We are told by the newspaper accounts that Professor Taft is care-free, smaller of girth, lighter of weight, and smiling as a boy whose shoulders have yet to learn the weight of life's responsibilities. There is no lack of warmth or genuineness of the greetings he is given as he comes back to Indiana, but his coming is naturally without the popular acclaim, the curious interest and the surging throngs to which he was accustomed as president. And it is, too, without the struggles and the bitterness that are inseparable from political conflict. Instead, we are able to get a glimpse of the distinguished American as a private citizen, to know him more intimately than as president, and to judge him more fairly. And for his part, Mr. Taft, free of public cares and retired from the spotlight of publicity, is in position to better appraise Indiana citizenship and to appreciate the kindly regard it has for him. We doubt, after all, if Mr. Taft would seriously desire to get back into the presidency again if that were possible. He is plainly enjoying his position as a private citizen too much to exchange it for his old job if the trade were proposed.

Rear Admiral Fletcher, in his report on the capture and occupation at Vera Cruz, makes especial mention of eight young Indiana men as worthy of commendation for valor and efficiency. The list includes Jonas S. Ingram, Ensign Lyal A. Davidson, Walter B. Weeks, of Redkey; Harry Dean Shipman, Roy Holloway, of Syracuse, Frank S. Smalley, and James A. Anderson, of Rochester. The showing for the Indiana men in the navy is an excellent one—but, for the matter of that, the Indiana man has always shown himself dependable in every branch of the country's military service.

Assistant postmasters in Indiana are holding their convention in Fort Wayne, discussing ways and means of improving the mail service and increasing their efficiency. Incidentally, we suspect also, they are preparing to demonstrate to Uncle Sam that when he feels like making a change in the heads of Indiana postoffices, each individual assistant will be prepared to show him where he can find a mighty good man for advancement to first position.

Before the old-line politicians at Indianapolis have had time to entirely recover from the shock of the law-observance program inaugurated there, two city inspectors have been unceremoniously "fired" for loafing. They are now convinced that you can never tell to what extet radicalism in reform is going to be carried, even by those whom you thought were your friends.

The Way of the World

Turnverein Celebrates the Purchasing of Property on Superior Street.

ARE SOLE OWNERS

The members of the Turnverein Vorwaerts celebrated the purchasing of the property on West Superior street which they have been occupying for the past eight years Sunday evening by the rendition of a program consisting of musical numbers and several addresses. The Moose band had been engaged for the occasion and they gave a program in the large back yard of the building assisted by the German singing societies of the city. The program was followed by a ball.

The president, Ottomar Stiegler, introduced Adolph Roggen, a former president of the society, who delivered the principal address of the evening in which he reviewed the history of the organization. He told how the society had grown from a small organization in the year 1884 to a society at the present time which is not only enjoying the privilege of owning its own home but also sharing the honor of being one of the largest German societies in the city.

When the society was first organized it was known as the North American Turnerbund, but in 1897 a meeting was called and it was decided to organize under the name of Turner Vorwaerts. In 1901 the organization moved into the building which is now occupied by the Shriners where they remained until 1906 when one of the members conceived the idea that the present location was a good one. Shares of $2 each were issued and in this manner the building was purchased by the Turner Hall Building association. Year after year members of the Turnverein purchased these shares until last winter when $1,500 were realized from the fair the Turnverein saw its way clear to assume the sole ownership of the building.

The officers of the first society were: First speaker, Dr. Carl Schilling; second speaker, Theodore Lange; secretary, August Hartmann; financial secretary, Rudolph Kruskemeyer; treasurer, Fritz Boehlen; first Turnwart, Adolph Puff; second Turnwart, Max Schneider; trustees, Henry Brueggeman, Otto Blombach, A. Blank.

ROAD TRIES NEW TESTS.

Pennsylvania May Adopt Psychological Standards.

Philadelphia, June 8.—The Pennsylvania railroad has completed a series of psychological tests to be applied to all applicants for positions in place of the time-honored written and physical examinations, and the management now is seriously considering the universal adoption of the idea and avoiding the expense of training men who later are found unqualified. The new psychological tests are founded on principles laid down by Professor Hugo Munsterberg.

WILD PITCH COSTS LIFE.

Boy Hurls Rock Into Dynamite and Kills Himself.

Kansas City, June 8.—An ambition to be a baseball pitcher cost one boy his life and caused injury to three more when a rock, thrown in a test of skill, exploded a box of dynamite here Saturday. Roy Branson, who was killed, accidentally threw a rock into some dynamite and the explosion resulted.

Safety Suggestions

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

and great prudence should be exercised by all drivers and pedestrians in crossing in front of a moving car or train.

WHY TAKE THE CHANCE? THE GAIN IS NOT WORTH THE RISK.

JAIL DELIVERY AT ALBION.

Four Men Charged With Larceny Saw From Noble County Bastile.

Albion, Ind., June 8.—The history of the Noble county jail has been marked by another delivery of prisoners. Early Sunday morning Sheriff John C. Cleland discovered that some time during the night Frank Stacey, Harry Lounsberry, Fred Craven and John Byron had sawed through two sets of bars and made their escape. It is the belief of the sheriff the prisoners had help from the outside. Stacey, Lounsberry and Craven were held for grand larceny and Byron was a tramp. A reward of $25 has been offered for capture of each of the fugitives. The Noble county pail has been the scene of several deliveries during the past thirty years. Twice Marvin Kuhns, the notorious Noble county desperado, who was killed by the sheriff near Van Wert, Ohio, a few years ago, figured in sensational deliveries from this jail. Once he and an aged horse thief named John Howell sawed out and at another time Kuhns, after he had served a penitentiary sentence and was jailed here for helping to beat up the town marshal, led a break of half a dozen prisoners. Kuhns knocked the sheriff down, after enticing him into the cell corridor by a plausible excuse and the whole band tore out of the lock-up and away.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT FAILS.

Hartford City, Ind., June 8.—Miss Ella Butcher, of Montpelier, is improving following her attempt to commit suicide by drinking carbolic acid. She was found in a serious condition behind an organ in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Butcher. Despondency because of a love affair with a man named Gilbert, living in Wells county, is believed to have prompted her act. In a note left for her parents the girl said that life held no joys for her and was full of too many temptations. "I have often warned you what I would do," read a portion of the note written to Gilbert.

YOUNG SWIMMER DROWNS.

Lagrange, Ind., June 8.—While swimming in Merritt lake, near here, Sunday afternoon, Fred Aldrich, aged 16, was seized with cramps and drowned in sight of companions, who were unable to rescue him. The body was recovered.

Shore, Kendallville; assessor, Adolph Adams, Kendallville; surveyor, Mr. Kidd, Albion; coroner, Dr. C. A. Gardner, Kendallville; commissioner of North district, George Diggins, Kendallville; commissioner of South district, Loren Cole, Cromwell; three councilmen-at-large, John Schermerhorn, Orange township; Ellis Smith, Ligonier, and Isaac Deter, Kendallville; councilmen by districts—First, Anderson Galloway, Cromwell; Second, Curt Russell, Albion; Third, Frank Holsinger, Rome City; Fourth, George Tyler, Kendallville.

About 300 members of the progressive party attended the convention.

Mrs. Kooms, Despondent Because of Illness, Ends Life Near Avilla.

Avilla, Ind., June 8.—Mrs. William H. Kooms, residing three miles northwest of this place, ended her life Sunday evening by hanging herself with a rope from the rafters of the barn. She was aged about fifty years and had become despondent from continued ill health. Her disappearance and prolonged absence from the house caused her husband to make a search of the premises for her and she was found dead in the barn about 6:30 Sunday evening. The woman's despondent condition had caused a watch to be kept upon her, but there was o special anxiety that she might end her life. Besides her husband she leaves a daughter and three sisters.

ANNOUNCE SECRET WEDDING.

Hartford City, Ind., June 8.—Sherman Cole, a member of the senior class graduating last week, and Miss Maude Baker, of Eaton, were principals in a secret wedding at St. Joseph, Mich., March 14. The fact that Cole was married when he received his diploma was not known until today, when announcement was made. Although immediate relatives knew of the marriage, they assisted Cole in keeping it a secret until he could finish his school work. The bridegroom is a son of Oliver Cole, a farmer west of this city, and his wife is a daughter of L. N. Baker, west of Eaton.

BOLD DIAMOND ROBBERY.

Wabash, Ind., June 8.—Three diamonds, valued at $1,000, were stolen here by a stranger who entered the jewelry store owned by H. J. Welsh and asked to look at a tray of diamonds. After inspecting the stones he asked the clerk, who was alone at the time, if he had other stones of a better grade. The clerk stepped down the aisle between the counters to get another tray and, taking advantage of the moment when the clerk's back was turned, the stranger reached the sidewalk before his escape was noticed. The clerk gave pursuit, but lost track of the man in an adjacent alley.

SLANDER SUIT FAILS.

Albion, June 8.—Curtis C. Simon, of Avilla, vs. Peter Bauman, a case for slander, was tried in the Noble circuit court and after being out all night the jury found in favor of the defendant. The case, which is the first of its kind tried in the county for twenty years, first got into the courts a year ago, and after a heated argument the jury disagreed. It has been pending since. The case was the outgrowth of a lost pocketbook belonging to Bauman, containing $700. Bauman accused Simon of stealing the pocketbook.

LOSES LIFE WHILE BATHING.

Angola, Ind., June 8.—While bathing in a gravel pit that is filled with water, near Sedan, Sunday afternoon, Herber Hartman, aged 16, was drowned. A companion, Carl Meiser, was rescued after a hard struggle by Russel Morrison. The body of the drowned boy was recovered.

HOSPITAL WITHOUT MATRON.

Goshen, Ind., June 8.—Goshen hospital is without a matron. Several months ago Miss Alice Oxby, who has been in charge of the institution since its opening, tendered her resignation, which took effect last Saturday. The hospital board then engaged Miss Blanche Houston, of South Bend, to fill the vacancy. She was to take charge Monday but failed to appear, refusing to take the position. A board meeting will be held shortly to select a head for the hospital."

LADY TIGER KEEPER TO JAIL.

Wabash, Ind., June 8.—For the first time in the history of Wabash county a woman was sent to jail for violating the liquor laws when Mrs. Lillian Bingham, 35, was sentenced to sixty days in jail, to which was coupled a fine of $350 for operating a "blind tiger." Mrs. Bingham was indicted by the grand jury. She entered a plea of not guilty. Although the prosecution had a score of witnesses the defendant refused to offer any evidence. The jury was out two hours.

MASH ESCORT IS ROUGH GALLANT

Lillian Smith Permits Red Leeper to See Her Home and is Slugged.

NEWS OF THE POLICE

Lillian Smith, aged 17, daughter of Charles Smith, 1602 North Harrison street, was tripping daintily along to her home at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night. She was accosted at the corner of Harrison and Lewis streets by "Red" Leeper, an entire stranger, whose gallant air and Chesterfieldian grace immediately won her confidence and commanded her esteem. Sure he could go along, and he did. They stopped over in Bloomingdale at a drugstore, where Friend Bean got a wad of cigarettes, and at a saloon, where he purchased a bottle of beer. Then they wandered with happy aimlessness to Clinton and Fourth streets, meanwhile drinking the beer. The girl wouldn't go any further in the direction of Lawton park and her mash escort lost his temper and maced Miss Smith in the back of the head and took to his heels as she screamed bloody murder. James Dalton, a Lake Shore railway switchman, had seen the assault and he hastened to the assistance of the young lady. Dalton took the girl to her home and the police department was notified. Police Surgeon J. Frank Dinnen attended the young lady's injuries, which consisted of a long scalp wound from which the blood had poured down her back, drenching her clothing. From description given by Miss Smith and from her recollection of the name claimed by her ruffianly escort, Detectives M. A. Rundell and Joe Brennan made out that it must have been Carl ("Young") Holzhauer, a well-known local pugilist who had committed the assault. Miss Smith was quite positive it was he who had set upon her. This view prevailed until it was fully ascertained that "Young" Holzhauer is in Michigan, running the boxing feature of a carnival show. Then evidence was got hold of that it might have been Edwin ("Red") Leeper who had assaulted the young woman. He was arrested and fully identified by the Smith girl. In the city court Monday morning Leeper pleaded guilty to assault and battery. Miss Smith gave the only testimony and related the incidents of the "mash" on the street late at night, the walk homeward, the stopping for cigarettes and beer, and of drinking with her companion and of the assault. The immediate occasion of the attack made by Leeper was a point on which Miss Smith was indefinite not to say reticent. She identified some blood-drenched clothing as her own. Judge Kerr stated his dissatisfaction with the girl's testimony but said that upon Leeper's plea of guilty no course was open but to affix a sufficient penalty. He fined Leeper $25 and costs and added thirty days in jail. Leeper's attorney immediately took an appeal to the circuit court and furnished bond for the prisoner. Leeper is a machinist in the Pennsylvania shops and is an overdone follower of prize-fighting with an abnormal penchant for being "next" to the work of detectives. He has been in other trouble.

Got Back His Suit.

Oliver Wilson, colored, sold Joe Merrill, of similar hue, a suit of clothes for $1. That was eight months ago. Wilson says he wasn't able to collect and seeing the clothes airing on a line at the Merrill home decided to have them back. He wanted to do things in order and with authority. So he asked Chief of Police Lenz what to do. The chief told him if the togs were his and he could get his hands on them the process would seem to be simple enough. Wilson performed according to dope and got the clothes and took them home. Merrill came to the Wilson home to see about the predatory seizure. When Wilson got through explaining Merrill had a pair of black eyes so perfectly well done that they showed with unmistakable distinctness even against his sable complexion. Merrill had Wilson arrested for assault and battery and Judge Kerr fined him $1 and costs, which didn't seem to disturb him much. He arranged to pay.

Other City Court Cases.

Steve Jordan journeyed up from Latty, Ohio, Saturday to break a long drouth that had hung over him since his last visit to Fort Wayne. Officer Crawley found him early Sunday morning at Taylor street and the Wabash railroad trying to pick a likely route back to Latty. He was very drunk and just for that Judge Kerr sent him over for eleven days.

The case against Ed Wallmark, charged with neglecting his wife and children, was dismissed on motion of the prosecuting attorney.

KELLEY ARMY IN CLEVELAND.

"Colonel" Charles B. McLennan's detachment of "General" Kelley's army of the unemployed, detained here over Friday night by the police and entertained Saturday afternoon by the same attentive functionaries, reached Cleveland, Ohio, via Nickel Plate fast freight Sunday afternoon. The army was fed at its camp east of the city Saturday afternoon. Shortly before 3 o'clock orders to break camp were given, the command "fall in" was shouted and "forward, march," was heard above the tumult of imminent departure. "Colonel" McLennan led his troops down the Nickel Plate track to New Haven where a freight train was boarded and the ride to Cleveland was made in comparative comfort.

NO TRAGEDY FEARED.

Officer Lew Crawley found man's coat and hat and one sealed quart bottle of whisky on the bank of the St. Marys river near the Taylor street bridge Sunday morning. The coat had an empty pay envelope in it bearing the name "F. Zeigler." The coat and hat and booze are at police headquarters and there is no suspicion that the owner is in the river.

A SQUEAK FROM JOHNNY MOUSE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Misner, of Lafayette street, gave an announcement party in honor of their daughter, Clara, whose marriage to Earl Ege will take place in September. The guests were members of the Bachelor Girls club. A merry time was enjoyed and Miss Misner received the heartiest kind of congratulations.

A lovely party was a daisy chair affair which Miss Carlye Schilling, of Union street, gave for the members of the Mary N. C. club on Sunday afternoon. Miss Schilling is president of the club. A happy time was spent. There were games, music and light refreshments for the pleasure of the guests. Chains of daisies made pretty decorations and flowers were favors for the guests.

Among the many Fort Wayne people who are going abroad this summer are the Misses Smeltzley, the Misses Shryock, Miss Sihler and a party conducted by Homer A. Davisson, which will include the Misses Pfeiffer, Mrs. Amy R. Seavey, the Misses Tinkham, Ralph Tinkham, the Misses Flick, Miss Mae R. Williams, Mrs. Fred Lambert and daughter, Violet.

The kindergarten teachers of the Hoagland, Jefferson, Nebraska and Washington schools are to have a good time in Swinney park on Wednesday afternoon beginning at 2:45 o'clock. There will be a Maypole dance, games and music. John Vessel, of the city lighting department, has furnished the pole and the Packard Piano company will loan a piano.

The pupils of Miss Leah Stogdill were delightfully entertained at a musical party on Saturday afternoon at her home at 907 West Creighton avenue. Those who enjoyed the afternoon were Myrl Hagan, Mildred Boggs, Senda Dasseler, Ella Kirn, Marie Swartz, Ruby Trevey, Saray Trevey, Helen Eickmeyer, Thelma Daily, Lucile Siebold, Marie Nieb, Laura Krudop, Ralph Meyers, Hiram Drummond, Martin Heingartner, Gearhardt Hoppe, Edward LaPointe.

A pretty party of Saturday afternoon was given by Mrs. Charles W. Boshler, of 334 West Butler street, honoring Miss Marie Springer, of Lagrange. Games were the amusement until the hour of serving refreshment which made a delightful contribution to the pleasure of the guests. Prizes in contests were won by Misses Beatrice Bisely and Lucile Foellinger. Other guests who enjoyed the afternoon were Misses Grace Johnson, Mary Anders, Helen Speece, Helen Penny, Ruth Lynch, Helen McCarthy and Iona Werkman.

Friends in Fort Wayne received cards today announcing the marriage of Benjamin F. T. Thorward, of South Bend, to Miss Elisa Rebecca Candor, which took place in Evanston, Ill., on Thursday, June 4. Mr. and Mrs. Thorward are now on their wedding trip and will be at home after July 15 at 75 Noble road, East Cleveland, O. Mr. Thorward at one time lived in Fort Wayne and he was a pupil of the Fort Wayne high school. He is a Michigan university man and a member of Sigma Chi.

Mrs. George Gerhard, of West Woodland avenue, gave a party of beautiful arrangement on Friday evening in honor of Miss [illegible] Terry, one of the elected brides of the month. Many field daisies were used in decorating the rooms and the table and the result was charming. In the center of the table at which Miss Terry sat were daisies and bouquets of the same flower were attached to place cards so each guest had flowers to wear. A chain of daisies extended from the chandelier to the corners of the table and made the effort still prettier. The young women invited hemmed towels for Miss Terry and besides gave her a shower of gifts for her new home.

Miss Cecile Bradshaw, formerly of this city, was graduated with honors on June 5 from Mary institute, St. Louis, Mo. The commencement exercises were the fifty-first in the history of this institution of learning, which is one of the famous ones of this part of the country. Miss Bradshaw had been a student there for two years and her honors are distinctive as she is the only student on record who graduated after but two years' attendance with honors. The young lady is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradshaw, who moved to St. Louis a little over two years ago. Miss Bradshaw was a student in the Fort Wayne High and Manual Training school here.

Bolson—Goldberger.

Miss Cecelia Goldberger, one of several beautiful daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Goldberger, and Mr. Edward Bolson, of Braddock, Pa., were married on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in East Wayne street. Rabbi Meyer Lovitch officiated at the impressive wedding service. Miss Adeline Goldberger, as maid of honor; little Ruth Goldberger, who carried flowers and the wedding ring, and Mr. Ben Berk, of Braddock, who was best man, were the attendants. Only relatives were present at the marriage. The bride was handsomely gowned in a white crepe de chine made with train and trimmed with fine lace. She wore a bridal veil fashioned into a becoming cap and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The honor maid wore a pink crepe de chine gown and she held an arm bouquet of pink roses. Miss Ruth wore a pink dress trimmed with white lace. The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. C. A. Horton and Mr. Simon with harp and violin. Many pink peonies, roses and sweetpeas with smilax and ferns decorated the house. Pink roses and bows of white tulle trimmed the bride's table beautifully. Covers were laid for thirty at an elegant wedding dinner served as soon as congratulations were extended. Many friends called during the evening as an informal reception was held so that the many friends of the bride might have an opportunity to offer congratulations before she left at midnight for her new home in Braddock, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. Bolson will first take a trip to Niagara Falls and other eastern points. The bride is an accomplished and attractive young woman. Mr. Bolson is proprietor of a moving picture theater in Braddock. Guests from away who were present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shatsky and daughter, Alice Elizabeth, of Terre Haute; Mrs. J. Berk, Mr. Ben Berk, of Braddock, Pa.; Mrs. Rose Joseph, of Baltimore; Miss Anne Rosenberg, of Chicago, and Miss Hazel Cohen, of Toledo.

Sprunger—Lochner.

A wedding of Sunday, June 7, was that of Miss Sylvia Lochner and Mr. Alvin A. Sprunger, which took place at the beautiful farm home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lochner, near Monroe. Mr. Sprunger, who has been for a number of years a very successful teacher in Maumee township, is now postmaster of Woodburn, which is his home. Mr. Sprunger is a prominent young man, well known as a church worker, business man and band member of the local organization. His bride is a young lady of sterling qualities and is more than ordinarily popular with the young people. Mr. and Mrs. Sprunger will be at home to their friends after July 1, in their new home already furnished in Carl street, Woodburn. A number of Fort Wayne relatives motored to Monroe on Sunday to attend the wedding.

Vining—Swallow.

Miss Hazel M. Swallow and Mr. Joseph Vining were married Saturday evening at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Vining, 1511 Fletcher avenue, by Rev. G. F. Byrer, of Calvary U. B. church.

Duplicate Famous "400" of New York in Chicago Now

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is president of a "400" club, the first of its kind west of New York city, which has just been organized in the elite residential section of Chicago.

Although the lid was not fastened down tight until just two more than the exact 400 were enrolled, the membership is said to correspond to the far-famed New York "400."

ANNUAL DISPLAY OF CLASS WORK.

Many Visitors at Sacred Heart Academy on Sunday to View Exhibit.

The beautiful grounds of Sacred Heart academy and the airy rooms of the building were thronged with visitors on Sunday who gathered to dwitness the annual exhibit of class work, art work and plain sewing of the institution. Maps, charts, bookkeeping sets, illustrated problems in physics and exercises in typewriting, etc., spoke well for the neatness and thorough training of the pupils in the various classes. Numerous articles of lingerie daintily made and adorned with trimmings, children's dresses and other articles both useful and pretty were excellent examples of needlework. Studies from nature in oil, watercolor and charcoal and various copies in landscape and animal heads expressed attention and capability in art work. There were also various examples in embroidery in colors and in plain white that were beautifully done and a number of pieces of handwork in china bespoke the attention given to keramics. Two large flower pieces in watercolors from nature, a handsome tankard and steins, a vase in clematis and a splendid pitcher in enamel were marked "Sacred Heart Academy." This exhibit was the prelude to the commencement exercises of the academy to be held in the Majestic theater on Thursday morning at 9:15 o'clock.

WILL HAVE SOCIAL EVENING.

James H. Smart School to Entertain Former Graduates from Building.

The James H. Smart school will have an out of doors social evening on Wednesday of this week. The grounds will be illuminated and the band from the State school will furnish a program of music. All graduates from the old Holton avenue school are especially invited to attend this entertainment and a cordial invitation is extended to parent-teacher club members and other parents of the district.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

LES MISERABLES AT MAJESTIC.

Hugo's Famous Masterpiece is Depicted in Motion Picture.

All this week Victor Hugo's wonderful masterpiece, Les Miserables, will be seen in motion pictures at the Majestic. This tremendously big picture feature gives to the spectator a clear idea of the wonderful progress this newest of arts theatrical has made, how important a part it assumes even today in the entertainments and even more in the education of modern civilized life. Here we see the principal chapters of one of the most famous works of the great French romancier, rendered by the best dramatic talent of the Parisian stage and perfectly reproduced by the camera. The action of the novel is worked out so smoothly and connectedly that even those who never read "Les Miserables" can follow the story with perfect understanding; that means that moving pictures like these are not only a source of entertainment, but even more the means to acquaint the great mass of the public with the masterpieces of the world's literature, without forcing the great majority whose time is occupied otherwise, to master the languages of other nations. The pictures are technically perfect, vividly posed and artistically and realistically staged, indeed often vivid enough to let the audience forget that only a dumb screen fills the stage. "Les Miserables" is worthy a visit by everyone who has an eye for beauty and a mind capable of comprehending the great in literature and histrionic art.

DR. WINTERS IS HERE.

Newcastle Man and Wife Will Appear on Stage at the Temple.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Winters, of Newcastle, arrested last week charged with conspiracy to commit a felony, a charge brought about in the case of their missing daughter, Catherine Winters, for whom the whole country has searched, arrived in Fort Wayne this afternoon, and Tuesday and Wednesday evening they will appear on the stage at the Temple theater, between the acts of the Temple Theater Stock company. Dr. Winters has gone to almost every state in the union in a fruitless hunt for his missing daughter, and his experiences are well worth hearing. As he lectures he will throw interesting motion pictures on the Temple screen, showing some of the features of his search for the long missing girl.

Dowager Empress of Russia is Called "A Queen of Tears"

Queen Alexander's sister, the dowager empress of Russia, is known throughout the empire as the "queen of tears," as every important event in her life has been heralded with suffering. She was little more than a child when the czarewitch, her bethrothed, died practically in her arms.

Soon after her marriage to his brother, the present czar's father, the emperor, Alexander II, was blown almost to pieces in the streets of St. Petersburg.

At the coronation of her son, the present czar, she witnessed the awful tragedy of the Khokinsky Plain at Moscow, when 1,500 people were crushed to death.

The Temple theater company opened to a well filled house for the first production of "The Wages of Sin." This show will run tonight, Tuesday night and Wednesday, matinee and night. On Thursday the company changes bills and will stage the thrilling and educational white slave story, "Why Girls Leave Home." This show has been heralded broadcast as one of the best of the modern plays treating this question. The undesirable lines of the original production have been nicely eliminated and the show is bound to be of vital interest to everybody.

AT THE EMPRESS

Starting this afternoon and continuing until tomorrow night the feature of the Empress bill will be "The Daughter of the Tribe," and just as the name suggests it will be a western picture of great merit and the lovers of the western pictures will miss a great treat if they should miss this feature. It is in three parts.

A Keystone comedy will also be shown and those who wish to laugh will be right at home for that's what the Keystone comedies are for.

Starting Thursday afternoon the Empress will show two hundred slides of Mexico as seen during the war strife now going on. These pictures are of unusual interest here because they were all taken by a Fort Wayne man. Prof. Claud Michelon, of the Paris School of French, is as well versed on the Mexican situation as any man in Fort Wayne because he was there and took pictures of various cities and war leaders for over ten months. While there he was engaged as a war correspondent.

The pictures show Prof. Michelon while in prison—he was held on suspision by the Mexican authorities for three days—and also on the battlefield with his cook and faithful dog, Rover, which is well known to many Fort Wayne people.

FARMER KILLS INTRUDER.

Father of Victim Also was Slain Twenty-eight Years Ago.

Quincy, Ill., June 8.—William Sheehan was shot and instantly killed yesterday by James Robinson, a farmer of Marblehead, four miles south of Quincy, when Sheehan is said to have attempted to break to Robinson's house. Robinson does not deny the shooting.

Two other men were with Sheehan and say that the three had not yet entered the farmer's yard. Robinson has been charged with first degree murder.

Twenty-eight years ago this month Sheehan's father, Henry Sheehan, a blacksmith, was killed in the same town in his shop by Robert Hunsacker. Hunsacker's son Best was present when the killing occurred yesterday.

FRIAR FROLIC A SUCCESS.

The Friar club held the first of their summer frolics Sunday at the Schroeder grove and everyone reports that the affair was a grand success. The entire body left Sunday morning and returned in the evening. Several ball games were staged during the morning which furnished a great deal of amusement and at noon a sumptuous dinner was served by the club's caterer, Oscar Cotton.

$7,500 IN LOTS SOLD

PONTIAC PLACE LOTS GOING RAPIDLY.—TEN DAYS' SALE A GREAT SUCCESS.

On June 1st Mr. Doud, sales manager of Pontiac Place, advertised that he would offer all of the unsold lots in Pontiac Place Extended, at the prices named last fall and that on June 10th, prices would be advanced from $25 to $50 on all unsold lots after that date. There has been $7,500 worth of lots sold up to today, leaving only 35 unsold lots in the entire plat. Mr. Doud confidently expects to close a number of these before Thursday morning, which will certainly be a record sale for midsummer.

BOARD TO MEET.

Marion Township Sunday Convention Held at Poe.

OFFICERS ELECTED

An interesting and helpful Sunday school convention was held Sunday afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church at Poe.

The meeting was presided over by township president, A. O. Hadly, and opened by invocation by Rev. Mumma. "The Adult Bible Class" was presented by the county president, Dr. M. A. Mason, who brought out many helpful suggestions. A. D. Craig talked on the subject, "Teacher and Teacher Training," and showed how the teacher should be the dynamo of the school. E. A. K. Hackett gave a gospel talk and took for his subject, "Are You Standing on the Solid Rock?"

The Poe male quartet, composed of Marion Smith, Robert Mercer, John Rule and Charles Harkless, rendered several choice selections. These gentlemen have good voices and their singing was well received by the audience. They were accompanied by Mrs. Mary E. True on the piano.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, A. O. Hadly; vice president, J. S. Youse; secretary and treasurer, Claud Neriter; superintendent of adults, Mrs. C. Bubler; superintendent of home department, Marion Smith; missions, Mrs. Robert Mercer; teacher training, Mrs. A. K. Mumma; temperance, Mrs. Jesse Ake; secondary division, Charles True; elementary, Effie Donghert.

The following delegates were elected to the state convention to be held in Indianapolis, June 16 to 20; Antioch Sunday school, Miss Jessie Harrod and George Bobilya; Poe, A. O. Hadly and Charles True.

FESTIVAL OPENS TONIGHT.

All Preparations Are Made for Event at St. Andrew's Catholic Church.

All preparations have been made for the opening of the mammoth spring festival to be held this week at the St. Andrew's Catholic church which will begin Monday evening and continue up to and including Saturday night. No effort has been spared to make this affair a social and financial success and the receipts will be used to liquidate the parish debt.

In order to make this festival a great success all other pastors of the city have received a request from Bishop Alerding not to hold their annual festival this year. A large number of tickets have been disposed of and it is thought that the opening night tonight will be a banner night.

An attractive musical program will be given each evening and Orth's orchestra, which has been secured for the occasion, will render some special music.

PRINCESS LOUISE AND HER BABY BOY.

Berlin, June 8.—The "Smiling Princess" has called down the wrath of her royal father, the kaiser, upon her again. The royal infant born to Princess Louise and the Duke of Brunswick is a boy, and the kaiser wanted it to be a girl. The birth of the hereditary Guelph princeling opens up the old feud between Brunswick and Prussia and the war lord is consequently sadly displeased.

In their castle at Gmunden, the "royal love birds" are very happy, however, and proud of the sturdy boy baby that has so provoked his grandfather.

Gen. Funston's Great Story, "Memories of Two Wars"

Pumping Dynamite at Enemy in Cuba

(After the great artillery duel at Jiguani, General Funston says that General Garcia's army, more ragged and hungry than ever, remained inactive for six months except to march around in search of food. Finally, in August, Garcia concentrated his scattered bands to the number of 5,800 for an attack on the town of Victoria de las Tunas, in the province of Oriente. The town was in a plain with a high ridge dominating it. The Spanish garrison numbered 800, with two Krupp guns. Their main defenses were a big brick cavalry barracks known as the Cuartel de la Caballeria, a massive stone building called the Cuartel de la Infanteria, and a two-story brick named Telegraph Fort, having a five-foot brick wall outside of it.—Editor.)

CHAPTER X.

By FREDERICK FUNSTON,
Brigadier General, United States Army.

We had six guns, as follows: One Sims-Dudley dynamite gun, our old friend Cayo Hueso, two Hotchkiss twelve-pounders and two two-pounders. On this occasion a dynamite gun was for the first time to be used in war. The projectile of this weapon consisted of a cylindrical brass case about two inches in diameter and eighteen inches long, containing a bursting charge of five pounds of nitro-gelatine. A small charge of smokeless powder was used to compress the air by means of which the projectile was expelled from the gun.

The powder charge, of course, could not act directly on this explosive, or the gun would have been blown to atoms at the first shot. The shell could easily be seen in the air, resembling a swallow in flight.

At last General Garcia gave the word to open on the Cuartel de la Caballeria. The dynamite gun was given the honor of leading the ball. There was no little uneasiness as to what would happen when this uncanny weapon was fired, and there was not much of a tendency to stand too close to it.

When the lanyard was pulled the gun gave what sounded like a loud cough, and jumped a little. We were in some doubt as to whether it had gone off or not, but looking toward the Cuartel de la Caballeria saw a most astounding spectacle. A section of the brick wall was blown in, making a hole large enough to have admitted a good-sized truck. A cloud of dust and fragments of the wall rose fifty feet in the air and descended in a shower on the roof.

Our other five guns now crashed out, making a wall of smoke in front of our position. From the various forts and blockhouses came a crackling sound that soon swelled almost to a roar, and in less than a minute a big puff of smoke rose from a gun pit beyond the Cuartel de la Caballeria and almost instantly a shrapnel burst in front of our parapet, showering it with fragments and bullets. Then came a puff of smoke and a boom from another pit near the first one, and a second shell barely cleared our heads.

While the shells from our rifled breech-loaders made very respectable holes in the walls, those from the dynamite gun created havoc, every shot blowing quantities of bricks and roofing tiles high in the air. Very wisely, the garrison had vacated the building after the first shot, and now from the trenches around it maintained on us a hot and persistent fire. The barrack having been wrecked in short order, there was nothing to be gained by further bombardment of its ruins, and we aimed at the trenches with the double purpose of throwing shells into them and of breaking up the wire entanglements immediately in front.

All of this time we were being pelted by shells as fas as two Krupp breech-loaders could be served. Shells were bursting all around us, and occasionally one would wreck a portion of our gun parapet. I hope it will not be taken as unseemly boasting, but as stating an absolute fact, when I say that far from feeling any uneasiness we were as cool as cucumbers, and considered that we were having the time of our lives. But it had taken participation in a good many stiff fights to bring us to such a state of mind.

Shortly after our fight had begun it had developed that the weeds on our front were interfering with the sighting of the guns. I considered cutting them out of the way a soldier's and not an officer's job, and called on several of the rank and file, but they were so slow in responding that Janney ran out into the open and with his machete did the work, utterly oblivious to the bullets and shells that were coming in thick and fast.

To our right front, and distant only 500 yards, was the Concepcion blockhouse, the garrison of which had with a strange fatuousness remained inside the structure instead of taking to the trenches, and were firing rapidly from the portholes of the lower story. But their time came quickly. The dynamite gun was dragged into range and careful aim taken. When it gave its characteristic cough we saw the projectile sail gracefully through the air and strike the blockhouse squarely in the center. The shell penetrated and burst inside, killing every one of the sixteen defenders. The structure was all but demolished, portions of the roof being blown a hundred feet in the air.

One of the few Americans serving with the Cuban infantry was Joseph Napoleon Chapleau, who had the rank of lieutenant colonel. As his name would indicate, Chapleau was of French descent and he had all the characteristics of his race. He was volatile and dashing, and had made a reputation for dare-devil exploits.

On this occasion he was with some infantry just to our right. When he saw the disaster to the Concepcion blockhouse he took his cue and waited for no orders. With about fifty men he rushed it under a hot fire from the tranches around the cavalry barracks. There was not room for all his men in the trenches, and so Chapleau and some of them fought on the outside. Chapleau himself, using a rifle and encouraging the men with him, received a wound that cut a blood vessel in his neck. He was brought back under fire and attended by a surgeon attached to General Garcia's headquarters.

I saw the general and his staff, standing uncovered and with bowed heads, while the blood gushed in torrents from the wounded man's throat, drenching the surgeon.

Chapleau, perfectly conscious, was muttering, "It is finished." "It is finished." "It is all over," his voice growing gradually weaker until his head sank down on his breast and another brave man had died a soldier's death.

The scene just described is such a one as we have all seen on the stage in melo-dramas and military plays, and have always thought overdone and unreal. But within a stone's throw was a battery in action, and as Chapleau sank into the last sleep with the silent and uncovered men about him, the last sounds he heard were the booming of its guns and the crackle of the Mausers.

The fast work had heated our guns until I believe eggs could have been fried on their barrels, and it was necessary to suspend fire for a while, this being feasible, as we thought we had scared the Krupp guns out of the fight.

While we were resting, allowing the guns to cool and taking stock of the wreckage, to our great surprise the Krupps reopened on us from a new position, and we went for them in a hurry. Portuondo landed a shell from the dynamite gun squarely under one of them. The explosion killed every man serving the piece and completely wrecked it, shattering the carriage and one wheel.

After the surrender we examined this gun with the greatest interest. One peculiar fact was that the minute fragments of the thin brass case that contained the bursting charge had been blown into the steel barrel so hard that they remained there and made it look as if it had been inlaid with gold.

Immediately after sighting Cayo Hueso I had been climbing part way up on the parapet to the windward of the smoke to observe the effects of my own shots. Whenever in this position I saw the flash of the enemy's gun I would yell "Down!" and would drop into one of the short ditches with the others. Finally I took a foolish notion that this getting down with such haste looked undignified. So when the next flash came I gave the warning cry and stood my ground. A couple of seconds later I was literally hurled backward through the air for fifteen or twenty feet, landing on my head and shoulders and being half buried under earth and poles.

I heard Menocal cry, "My God, he is cut in two!" and a second or so later was half drowned under a deluge of filthy water.

Colonel Garcia had picked up a bucket containing the water in which the sponge used in swabbing out one of the guns from time to time had been dipped and had poured it over me. This having been the color and something like the consistency of printer's ink, I certainly was not a very inspiring object when helped to my feet. The shell had pierced the parapet about two feet from me, and had burst some twenty feet beyond. (Copyright by Charles Scribner's Cons.)

Get an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and heal skin eruptions right up.

Any breaking out or irritation on the face, arms, legs or body when accompanied by itching, or when the skin is dry and feverish, can be readily overcome by applying a little bold-sulphur cream, says a noted dermatologist.

He informs us that bold-sulphur instantly allays the angry itching and irritation and, soothes and heals the Eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position for many years in the treatment of cutaneous disorders because of its parasite-destroying property. Nothing has ever been found to take its place in treating the irritable and inflammatory skin affections. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to subdue the itching irritation and drive the Eczema away and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

Those troubled should obtain at any pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream which is applied to the affected parts in the same manner as an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded, particularly in itching Eczema, proves very welcome.—Adv.

SAYS HE'S FOUND HAY FEVER CURE

The Remedy of a Missouri Physician is a Toxin.

MADE FROM RAGWEED

Kansas City, June 1.—A cure for hay fever?

Out of the despised ragweed, the loved and feared golden rod and the honey-bearing Spanish needle the pollen-bearing trio that set the world to sneezing—is made the remedy that was proposed as a cure before the convention of homeopathic physicians of Missouri.

To Give it to Science.

"I am not announcing this as a cure," he said. "I certainly hope that it will prove as successful on further trials as it has so far, and if it proves the cure we have sought so long, I want the entire medical fraternity to have it.

"We have been very near this toxin for twenty years in the medical profession. There is a serum on the market now that is fairly successful for local treatment, that is made by injecting the toxin into an animal and preparing a serum. This remedy I have developed is the toxin itself, obtained directly from the plants.

"The process of preparation requires great care. The pollen must be gathered early in the morning before the sun rises, for the toxin found in the pollen in the heat of the day is a different thing from that found in early morning or late night. I shook the pollen from the ragweed, two varieties of golden rod and two varieties of Spanish needle onto a plate of glycerin and prepared and strained a toxin with water that I injected into the bodies of the patients. It carried the active poison or principles of the pollen. For a cure I used four doses two days apart.

Physicians Await Results.

"For a preventive I began before the time for the patient's hay fever to appear and used an injection each week for five weeks.

"The toxin has shown its virility by hastening the hay fever season of patients in an overdose."

The discussion of the proposed remedy was spirited and the physician agreed that if subsequent experiments proved the remedy to be a positive cure, or even a reliable preventive, the discovery would be one of the most important of the decade.

GET RID OF YOUR RHEUMATISM.

Now is the time to get rid of your rheumatism. You can do it if you apply Chamberlain's Liniment. W. A. Lockhard, Homer City, N. SENDS OUT CALL FOR TOM ATKINS

Harry Martin Afraid of Working Staff Too Hard at Start.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 8.—Manager Harry Martin, of the Billiken baseball troupe, sent out from here before the game yesterday afternoon an S. O. S. for Tommy Atkins, who is at his home in Cleveland nursing a broken rib sustained in a game on the home grounds, and whose absence from the club is forcing the manager to overwork Bill Cramer, Earl Ainsworth and Fred Bramble.

With a tie in the final game which gave the Fort Wayne club an even break in the series here, and a club intact but for the absence of Frankie Nespo and Atkins, the Fort Wayne players see prospects of working their way up in the race but another pitcher is necessary right now.

Most of the trouble is due to the fact that Grover Young is either woefully out of condition or is sulking, as he has not been able to pitch the kind of ball he is capable of, and just as soon as Atkins rounds to Mr. Young will probably get in shape at his own expense as his work has satisfied the manager and owner that something is radically wrong and that it lies entirely with the pitcher as he has been unable to win with good support.

Atkins left Fort Wayne a day or two before the club started on the trip, and at that time the broken rib was healing nicely and Martin has every reason to believe that he now is, or ought to be in a few days, able to take his turn in the box. The club is virtually working with three men as Young is such an uncertain quantity that he has had to demand rescue in most of the games except where it had been determined to take a chance on him which has resulted in losses that the club is not in position to stand.

After six innings the game was called under a time limit agreement, made necessary by the fact that Fort Wayne had to catch a train for Grand Rapids and could not play longer. Martin has heard nothing from Atkins since he left for the Cleveland visit, but he feels certain that his southpaw hurler will report as soon as he feels fit as he is a willing worker and the telegram was sent to urge a little speed because the staff is being overworked.

Later in the season, it is feared, the present strain will tell and prevent good pitching just at a time when it will be most needed. The presence of a regular outfielder is helping the cause and after a couple of days Martin is convinced that both of the men are better than Eddie Idem and he has released him.

In the last game here Brant opened the second inning with a hit and stole second, and after Smykal had been retired on a fly to the outfield Gilmore's patience was rewarded by a walk and a triple by Byers, which would have been a home run for any other man on the club, scored a pair of tallies and gave Young the margin to work on that he has had in most of his games this season.

He held this advantage until the fifth, when it was again necessary to send a rescuer to his aid and Earl Ainsworth, who is becoming the ready and handy boy in the turbulent times, went in and held the home talent to a tie.

Cantwell hit for a base as a starter for the inning and was forced at second by Gray on a hit and run play. Sheehan kicked in with a two-ply crack and scored Gray and later romped home on Kyle's single. He stole second but held at third on Anderson's scratch hit and then Ainsworth was called in. He hit the first batsman up but pulled through without allowing a run.

YACHT EXPERTS THINK SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S NEW BOAT WILL BE EITHER AN IMMENSE SUCCESS OR DISMAL FAILURE.

American yachting experts from the entire Atlantic seaboard, studying the construction of the yachts that are to defend America's cup and the tuning up performances of Shamrock IV, believe that if America's cup is to remain on this side it will be due to American seamanship rather than to the construction of the boats.

The showing of Vanitie and Resolute in the trial races has been far from satisfactory to the sharps. They declare Vanitie faulty in rig rather than in her lines and a boat that would have to have all the luck of the weather to win. Her performances in the third race were freakish. In heavy water and a heavy, gusty blow she bucked and heeled.

Resolute, built close to the old Herreshoff lines, they claim is much better under all weather conditions. Vanitie's victory in the first clash was due, they say, more to the luck of the weather than to any sailing superiority. Besides, Resolute was faulty in rigging, and the errors were corrected after the race.

Lipton's fourth Shamrock is keeping them guessing. The English critics declare her a freak and claim she either will be an immense success or a dismal failure. She is of the skimming dish type, and the sharps declare she violates a score of the accepted rules of yacht building. The American critics, however, are quite enthusiastic over her, although declaring that under certain weather conditions she will be hopeless.

One yacht sharp writes from New York that he believes either of the last two yacht defenders could beat Resolute, and that he is pinning his hopes on Reliance, which has been delayed by changing rigging from entering the trials.

Sir Thomas and many of his friends are enthusiastic. They have built a boat to meet the conditions of the contest. Heretofore the British critics have complained of conditions, that they favored American boats. Now Sir Thomas has built a boat that is more extreme than any he ever has sailed against. It looks as if he will have better than even on measurements and allowances.

WONDERFUL RACE IS ANTICIPATED

BUILD CLUB HOUSE

Indianapolis, June 8.—Five hundred miles at 100 miles an hour, without a stop or tire change, on one gallon of oil and twenty-five gallons of gasoline, is the difficult target the management of the Indianapolis motor speedway has set for the motor industry of the world to shoot at during the next three years. Nineteen-fifteen is already expected to show a distinct step in the right direction.

First, to reduce fuel consumption, the cubic inch piston displacement of the next Hoosier contest has been cut to 300, the minimum weight, however, remaining the same, at 1,600 pounds. These specifications are expected to stay in force at least three seasons, or until every branch of the science in this class of competition has been thoroughly probed. When there is no more to learn, a further reduction will be effected, less than 161 cubic inches being the final goal.

Regulations of this character naturally put automobile racing into the experimental division of the industry, where, properly, it belongs. The day when makers can take stock or semi-stock models and compete with them successfully is past, as the last 500 mile sweepstakes race, won by foreigners in specially built cars, amply testifies. Europe has for some time regarded gas contests as a laboratory, not a proving ground, which explains in a large measure her success.

In line with this idea it is thought a number of American factories will enter the game from business if not patriotic motives. Special racing departments, having no connection whatsoever with the ordinary branches of production, except to lead the way, will be instituted, and a determined effort to put the United States once more on a footing with her foreign competitors begun.

This movement, naturally, will see the finish of the "barn-built" car, which has been so prominent in American racing of late. With the finest engineering skill and the best of materials required to win success, it is not thought likely that the heterogeneously assembled freak will have a chance. The only thing left to do is quit.

In advancing the art, of course, the speedway proposes to do its material as well as moral share. To render high speed work more safe the surface of the track will be widened fifteen feet on the inside and retaining walls built all around. Additional comfort will be provided for drivers and mechanicians in the shape of a clubhouse inside the grounds, with a swimming pool and every other imaginable convenience. In short, if the gasoline efficiency of the present era is not raised wonderfully during the next few seasons, it will not be the speedway's fault.

START SECOND GRIND.

Motorcyclists Off for Final Lap of Their Endurance Run.

With weather conditions that promised a second grind under a sizzling sun, motorcyclists engaged in the endurance run in connection with the Indiana convention, left Fort Wayne early this morning, having been entertained since their arrival last night by the members of the Fort Wayne Motorcycle club. C. F. Shorey was the only local rider on the run. The men expect to reach Indianapolis tonight by way of Decatur, Portland, Union City and Richmond.

NILL HITTING HARD

Frank Shaughnessy, who secured Eddie Wager from the Fort Wayne team on an option agreement, is using him in left field and the pitching on that circuit seems to be to his liking as he is batting at the rate of .876.

George Nill, who secured his release from Seattle and signed with Ottawa, is apparently going along at a good gait as recent averages show he is fielding .972 and hitting .341, with four doubles, a triple and a home run in his collection.

Ollie Welch is showing good form with the Peterboro club, in charge of Curley Blount, and is maintaining a mark of .344 in the list of batters, which is a dandy showing in a class C league where he has some pretty stiff pitching to go against.

Manager Blount, however, has apparently hit the rocks as his showing with the bat is woefully bad and the figures show him with an average of .284. When he was in the Central league he hit around the .300 mark and the records indicate that he has either gone back or has not hit his stride.

Harry Corns, at one time a very reliable left-hander on the Fort Wayne pitching staff, is located at Hamilton, Ont., and his batting shows a remarkable falling off. In 1912 he hit for .242 for the season and this year he is going along at the rate of .150.

Manager Shaughnessy is also having a hard time getting his batting eye and he is nearly a hundred points below his mark of last season, and is batting only .250. However, he starts badly most every year and does his best hitting after the middle of June. Ed "Lefty" Rogers is also having his troubles in the start and had reached only .260 when the last official figures were given out. He is playing the outfield and pitching whenever he is called upon.

"Mollie" Kustus, bought by Cincinnati, and afterward with Brooklyn and a member of Evansville's only pennant winning combination, is the real batting leader of the league with an average of .429. Shocker, farmed by the Fort Wayne team to Ottawa, and a most promising pitching prospect, had been in eight games when the averages were computed and was hitting the ball at .278, while Garnett William Craven, of Central league fame, and the manager of the St. Thomas club, was breezing along at .255.

Kubat, who joined the Fort Wayne team a couple of years ago, and was sent to the Ottawa club, afterward brought back here and later drafted, has been sent back to the Shaughnessy club and is showing some speed with the bat, having reached a level of .364.

WAILING IS NOT WORRYING PREXY

IS AFTER PUBLICITY

Down at Springfield the Daily News is out with a story that President Louis Heilbroner is on the eve of taking over the Reaper baseball troupe and operating it on behalf of the Central league because it is losing its games, losing money for the owner and is not strong enough for the company in which it is making a race.

With the exception that the president has no such idea, has never contemplated such action and does not think it will be necessary, the story is all true.

As a matter of fact that team belongs to Sol Myer, of Indianapolis, and he has $2,000 of good money in the hands of the president as a guarantee that he will finish the season or sell his club to new owners satisfactory to the other directors. Mr. Meyer has a bank and is generally accredited with being the possessor of some money, and if he wants to lose it at Springfield on a baseball team he is the one who should worry.

"It's all right to talk about strengthening ball teams," said the president, "but where are you going to get the players? They are awfully scarce nowadays and I would be ashamed to say just how many I could place if I had them."

There was talk some time ago of turning over the club to Springfield owners and they entertained the proposition seriously but somehow the project fell through.

President Heilbroner is convinced that the task of persuading his club owners to get more publicity is an almost hopeless task and feels sure that every one of them could get more newspaper notices if they would just turn their attention to it.

He argues that there are hundreds of good little stories that get away every year because the owners and secretaries do not recognize their news value. These same stories, he is sure, would be found interesting to the public and would be eagerly sought by the newspapers if the baseball people had the proper instinct and could be persauded to divulge when divulgence would mean dollars and cents to them.

For instance he cites the fact that after having been crippled for a month and tobogganning from the second place in the column to nearly the bottom, the Fort Wayne team secured two new outfielders and both were ordered to and did report at Terre Haute.

This would have been interesting and would probably have led some patron who was not sure about going to the opening game, to go out and look over the newcomers.

Fort Wayne is no more remiss in this particular than the other clubs, and many opportunities of the kind are offered and overlooked during a season.

Mr. Heilbroner gets all the general publicity that his office affords because he watches closely all that is going on, issues bulletins and averages, but he has not the proper support from the team owners.

One of the suggestions to boost the game along is boys day at all of the parks in the league. This matter is being taken up with the owners and if it can be worked out there will be at least one day when the juvenile fans can be converted into real boosters.

If it is finally agreed upon all boys under 16 will be admitted free and, and if the date is set before the closing of the school term, Saturday will be selected because the management does not want to hold out any inducements for playing "hookey."

READY FOR POLO MATCH.

Captain Cheape Has Sore Nose but Believes He Can Play In First Game.

New York, June 8.—Weather permitting, the teams of England and America will line up at Meadowbrook, L. I., tomorrow afternoon for the first of the polo matches for the international cup now held by this country. The Englishmen had their final practice yesterday.

Though his nose was still sore today after being struck by a ball in Sunday's match, it was said today that Capt. Leslie Cheape, of the challengers, would undoubtedly be able to play tomorrow. He was up and about this forenoon with his face bandaged.

Neither team practiced today. Finishing touches were put on the turf and everything was got in readiness for the great crowd which will attend. The contest will be decided by the best two out of three games.

SUB GETS INTO CLASH.

Capt Vivian N. Lockett

That it pays to be a first-class sub is shown in the case of Capt. Vivian Locket. In the preliminary practice for the international polo matches John Traill found it impossible to manage the strange ponies; so Locket was called on, and has been playing a fine game.

Mr. Spekkert does not remember how the accident occurred and he states that he was not traveling fast.

FISHERMEN LOSE LIFE.

Forty Schooners Wrecked in Gale; News Comes Slowly.

Quebec, June 8.—Some forty schooners were wrecked and twenty or more fishermen lost their lives in the storm that swept the coast of Northern New Brunswick and Chaleurs bay last Friday night. Nearly all the boats were blown ashore on Miscou and Shippegan islands, remote points from which the news came slowly. Eight bodies were recovered and taken to Caraquet, N. B. today. All were bodies of French Canadians fishermen.

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

B. L. E. AND LADIES' MEMORIAL SERVICE

Four Divisions Will Have Annual Event at Plymouth Church Sunday.

G. F. Rogge and F. C. Duryee, of the Fort Wayne Electric works, members of the executive board of the Northeastern Indiana Volunteer Firemen's association, met with other members of the executive board and the officers at Bluffton yesterday and discussed the coming convention and tournament of the association, which will be held in that city Thursday, June 25. Some of the city officials and business men of Bluffton were at the meeting and assured the executive board that Bluffton is prepared to handle a big crowd and proposes to "give the firemen and other visitors on that occasion a good time." The executive board decided to have only two companies in the water battle, which will be one of the exciting events of the meeting. The participants will be selected by lot. It was also decided to eliminate the band contest feature and instead have a continuous concert during the day and evening, each band present taking turns in playing. At the meeting yesterday it was announced that of the twenty-five companies who are members of the association, nineteen have given notice that they will be present to take part in the exercises and it was stated that all of the others will be there also. So far eight bands have given notice of their intention of attending the tournament and among them are the leading musical organizations of this part of the state. Union City had representatives at the meeting to make a bid for the 1915 tournament. The Bluffton people have arranged for a grand fireworks display, to close the day's entertainment. There are two Fort Wayne volunteer fire companies members of the association—the Fort Wayne Electric Works and the General Electric Lamp Works—and after this year there will be three, the third one being the Packard Piano company's firemen, who were recently organized and are now awaiting the arrival of the fire fighting equipment. Other cities represented in the association are Montpelier, Dunkirk, Parker City, Hartford City, Portland, Winchester, Butler, Berne, Bluffton, Garrett, Eaton, Decatur, Columbia City, Albany, Farmland, Auburn, Markle, North Manchester, Middletown, Matthews, Union City, Fountain City and Waterloo. The two companies from this city will go to Bluffton on chartered interurban cars and will be accompanied by the Moose band.

ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICES.

B. L. E. and Auxiliaries Will Join in Commemorating the Dead.

Division No. 12 and Division No. 537, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Friendship division, No. 18, and Nickel Plate division, No. 513, of the Grand International Auxiliary to the B. L. E., will have joint memorial services at the Plymouth Congregational church, Rev. Folsom officiating, next Sunday evening. The beautiful flower ceremony will be employed in announcing the names and paying tribute to the departed and each division will have two members to perform the ceremony for its lodge. Engineers M. F. Flagle and E. Blanchard will represent Division 12, Engineers Robert John and Joseph Harber will represent Division 537, Mrs. U. G. Rhodes and Mrs. E. Blanchard will represent Friendship division, No. 18, and Mrs. C. F. Merritt and Mrs. M. J. Maroney will represent Nickel Plate division, No. 513. These divisions have a total membership of about 600 and the church will be well filled on that occasion.

MAKES WRINKLES GO "AS IF BY MAGIC."

Want to banish every wrinkle—from face, neck, hands—easily, quickly, completely? Try the famous saxolite formula. Nothing else so nearly meets every requirement. Why? Because it is correct in principle and really, truly assists nature. Possessing remarkable astringent and tonic properties, it both tightens the skin—thus naturally smoothing out the lines—and improves capillary circulation and nerve tone—tending to strengthen loose tissue and bring about a healthy condition. Yet, powerful as the saxolite lotion is, it won't harm your skin in the least. And it's so easy to get the inexpensive ingredients at your druggists and so easy to mix them.

Just dissolve 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel—that's all. Bathe your face in this—immediately every wrinkle and crease are affected, even the deepest. You are perfectly astonished and delighted with the result. You look like you've lost years from your age!

DISCUSSING EXPENSES.

Pennsylvania Officials Gathered at Pittsburg Today.

The motive power and the division officials of the Pennsylvania are at Pittsburg today, where a meeting is being held to discuss affairs connected with operating expenses. Those in attendance from Fort Wayne are Motive Power Supt. T. W. Demarest, Division Supt. W. M. Wardrop, Assistant Master Mechanic E. E. Griest and Road Foreman of Engines C. R. Colmey. With the exception of Mr. Demaret, who will go to Atlantic City to attend the annual convention of the Master Car Builders, the officials will return to Fort Wayne tomorrow.

WILL GO TO BOWSERS.

William Bonnell, for several years employed as assistant time clerk at the office of the Bass Foundry and Machine works, will resign this week and next Monday will take a position in the office of S. F. Bowser & Co. This change will be followed by the transfer of Frank Zachshefski from the foundry office to the main office to succeed Mr. Bonnell. Last week Bernard Mohl, a clerk at the main office of the Bass works, resigned to go to the International Harvester company's office, and this change was followed by the promotion of Herald Lipes from the telephone exchange and letter file department and the employing of Dee Ward, of Decatur, as telephone boy.

A VERY BUSY PLANT.

The Wayne Oil Tank and Pump company has finished the installation of a big oil plant for the Independent Oil company, of LaPorte, Ind. It was one of the largest contracts of its kind in Northern Indiana this season. The Wayne company is again so busy that the plant is running overtime, particularly the heavy boiler work department.

TOOK HIS WIFE TO HOSPITAL.

Blacksmith H. B. Krall, of the Pennsylvania shops, and Mrs. Krall left Saturday for Philadelphia, where she will enter a hospital for a surgical operation. Mrs. Krall has been ailing for some months, but it was only recently that it was decided to submit to surgery for relief.

TRAFFIC MANAGER COMING.

William Hodgdon, freight traffic manager of the Pennsylvania, is making a trip over the lines west of Pittsburg. He will arrive in Fort Wayne tomorrow morning and remain until 4 o'clock, when he will start upon a trip over the Vandalia.

JAKE BACHES VERY SICK.

Jacob Baches, gang foreman in the Pennsylvania boiler shop, is sick and will not be able to work for some time. He was taken suddenly ill last Friday with symptoms of heat prostration and has been in a bad way since.

HAD HIS THUMB MANGLED.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

The Fort Wayne Federation of Labor will have a meeting this evening.

Blacksmith H. Hibbler, who had been sick several days, resumed work in the Wabash shops this morning.

A. J. Pauser, of the Pennsylvania planing mills, and J. Rost, of the blacksmith shop, are sick and off duty.

Machinist M. P. Zeisig, of the Pennsylvania shops, will visit relatives in Lafayette, Ind., the latter part of the week.

Machinist H. A. Christen, of the Pennsylvania shops, has taken a three months' leave of absence. A portion of the time will be spent at the lakes.

Thursday night Machinist and Mrs. J. H. Doyle, the former of the Pennsylvania shops, will leave for El Paso, Tex., to spend two weeks with friends and relatives.

Machinist E. C. DesPrez, who fell in an engine pit and cut a gash in his cheek, resumed work in the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning, after an absence of three or four days.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown have returned from a honey moon trip and he reported for duty in the Pennsylvania master mechanic's drafting room this morning.

Scott Strawn has returned from St. Louis, where he spent a month with his uncle, Scott Cooper. The young man is a son of Machinist Byron Strawn, of the Wabash shops.

A. L. Ringle, machinist in the Pennsylvania shops, severely injured his abdomen last Thursday when he slipped as he was handling a heavy piece of metal at his lathe.

Machinist Fred Romary, of the Pennsylvania shops, played ball with the Peru team at Warsaw Sunday. The Peru team was victorious, the score standing 11 to 5.

Night Yardmaster John J. Miller and Bill Clerk R. Helmke, of the Wabash, left this morning for New Orleans, where they will spend two weeks in taking in the sights.

The Pennsylvania has just issued an illustrated pamphlet of summer tours for the season of 1914. In addition to a good map of the Atlantic coast country and the New England states, this pamphlet has many attractive pictures of scenes at Atlantic City, Washington, Baltimore, New York city, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and other cities.

Assistant General Foreman A. S. Courtney, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, failed to show up this morning, but he telephoned the news of the arrival of an eight-pound boy at his home. This is the first child in the Courtney family.

Twenty-fifive men, comprising the night force at the Pennsylvania round house, were the guests of E. C. Keese, also employed there, Saturday. He resides on a farm out on the New Haven road and the party went there over the interurban, had breakfast and dinner and returned home at 3 o'clock.

A committee has in hand the preparations for a picnic by the Textile Workers on Sunday, June 21. It is proposed to make the affair open to all and with that end in view tickets are now being prepared to be placed on sale. The committee will select the picnic grounds this week.

George Wilson is doing some proselyting among the colored cooks and restaurant attendants with a view of organizing them into a union, affiliated with the Federation of Labor. It is estimated that there are about 100 people in the city who are eligible to membership to cooks' and waiters' union.

Machinist W. G. Dressell, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, has taken a two week's leave of absence and secured transportation to Philadelphia and Washington for self and wife. The wedding will probably take place tomorrow and this will be the first notice of it Mr. Dressell's friends will receive.

Gus Van Dissen and Clyde Campbell, Pennsylvania switchmen, resumed work this morning. For three or four days they were at the lakes at Atwood and say that all that prevented new fishing records was the law and the presence of the game warden. They had to quit fishing just when the fish were biting the best.

because we would have it at hand. Until men are perfect beings of this kind, socialism must either constitute a tyranny so rigid as to destroy not only the right of liberty and to interfere with the pursuit of happiness, or it must be a failure."

Thronged With Visitors.

The dawn of today found this little city crowded with visitors and with participants in the Rappite observance, the centennial celebration of the foundation of New Harmony. Fitting tribute was paid to Robert Owen, the principal in one of the most discussed experiments in the history of socialism.

The feature of the program was an address by former President William H. Taft, who discussed various phases of Rappite life and of Robert Owen's experiment and pointed out the significance of the foundation of the colony. Mr. Taft and Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president, motored to New Harmony this morning from Evansville, where they spent the night. Mr. Fairbanks is to speak tomorrow.

Visitors found many things of interest to claim their attention today. There are exhibits of many historical objects in show places of the city. One of the most interesting is in the public school building where historical relics brought here from Economy, Pa., where the Rappites made their last stand for community life, are on display. A speaking trumpet used by Father Rapp in addressing his followers is in the collection. The centennial celebration closes Saturday.

Rappite Morning Call Given.

It was 3 o'clock in the morning—dawn was just breaking over the Wabash river bottoms when New Harmony folk, and the vanguard of centennial visitors were awakened by two voices calling out in the gray light:

Again a night is past. The morning is come. Our time runs away. The joys of heaven are our reward. Awake!

Times have changed in a hundred years when, through these same streets, the Rappites' night watchman made the rounds and gave this call. The Rappites arose. And so some did this morning, possibly to see the two night watchmen clad in quaint Rappite period styles, who, with old perforated tin lanterns and candles for illumination within, were making the rounds. The major part of New Harmony, however, rolled over and slept on.

A Modern Proclamation.

Some even were able to ignore at 4 o'clock the booming of cannon, the ringing of bells and the blowing of the electric light power house whistle, which in a more modern manner proclaimed:

Behold! A century has passed since the Rappites founded Harmonie, one of the most picturesque and peculiar communal colonies this country has ever known; which, in its time, was supplanted by the brilliant colony of the noted Owens. Arise, put on your tango shirts and modern skirts, for the lambs and the sheep and the goats have come home, and people are coming and New Harmony is to celebrate a whole week—its first century of glorious memories, and to hold all Indiana's attention. Arise!

Center of Experiments.

New Harmony, as Prof. Taft described, was the center of two experiments in socialism of very different types. The first of these, started a hundred years ago by George Rapp, a German mechanic, was in motive primarily religious. "The Rappites" were classed by the speaker with the Shakers, the Zoarites, the Communes of Amana, the Communes of Bethel and Aurora and the Oneida community. "They were all successful for years," he said, "in the simple methods of manufacture and agriculture to which their members devoted themselves. They are not examples useful for the sociological student in considering present day socialism, because their members had not before them the working out of a new plan for society and social progress, but rather a method of living a satisfactory religious community existence. In the intensity of their religious motive was found a spur to industry and self-sacrifice and a substitute for the institution of private property which such communities abolished. Until other forms of socialism find such a substitute, they are likely to prove futile, as the history of several instances of practical trials has demonstrated."

Rappites and Owenites.

The Rappites of New Harmony sold out their land to Robert Owen and his partners in 1825. The community Rapp founded was a heterogeneous collection of many different elements. Confusion finally resulted; the various factions asked Owen to exercise his powers as a dictator until they could reach a satisfactory adjustment. Five or six different constitutions were adopted within two years. Then Owen had an open breach with one of his principal partners over the adoption of the Pestalozzi method of school teaching. The community disintegrated, but the Owenses remained in New Harmony and the family became leaders in the political and social life of the state.

"The Owenite community at New Harmony," said Mr. Taft, "was only one of a number of similar communities inaugurated to carry out the principles of one social philosopher or another. Into them entered many noble men and women with high purpose and with the conviction that the secret of the regeneration of society and the world had been committed to them and was about to be revealed in convincing realization. There were other Owenite experiments—one at Yellow Springs, Ohio; another at Nashoba, in Memphis; another at Haverstraw, in New York; another at Coxsackie, in the same state, and a third at Canton, Ohio, the Kendal community. Then followed the disciples of Charles Fourier. His theory was not purely socialistic, but a kind of a compromise of a scheme of harmony between capital and labor in which he gave to all laborers a choice and variety of occupations, short hours and sought to make labor attractive. The various communities were called phalanxes. The famous Brook farm at West Roxbury, Mass., was one of these. There were many others, but in ten years or less they were no more. Another Frenchman, Ettienne Cabot, described what he called a voyage in Icaria, which gave his ideal of a community on a communistic and socialistic basis. This led to the attempt to establish a settlement in Texas, another one in Illinois and a third in Iowa, called Icarian communities, but they, too, faded out.

Fails in Small Communities.

"Mr. Morris Hillquit, a leading socialist in this country, reviews this history and gives as his conclusion that the socialistic principle is not adapted at all to small communities, that it can not be the result of legislation, but that it must come through economic necessity and through the demand of one class, the labor class. By acquiring the political power they can and should vest all productive agencies in the government and then will follow a regulation of wages, prices and all economic conditions with a view to securing community happiness.

"I shall not stop to discuss socialism in general or what it means, for it might be difficult to give an accurate definition, so varying are the views of persons who call themselves socialists. But no one can read the history of these isolated efforts in the direction of a regeneration of society on the socialistic principle and the abolition of the institution of private property, without a most wholesome lesson. They teach the danger of destroying what we have that is good in society and that has been tested by time, in order to seek a millennium which must rest for its successful achievement on the elimination of all the elements of human nature as we know it and reforming of it that is possible only after hundreds of centuries.

"But while the new Harmony experiment in socialism was a failure, the leading intellectual men and women who were associated with it, many of whom remained in New Harmony, preserved their high purpose of serving mankind and gave their attention to reform, less ambitious but more useful."

BREAKFAST AT EVANSVILLE.

Mr. Taft and Party Reach New Harmony by Special Train.

Evansville, Ind., June 8.—Former President William H. Taft accompanied by former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, his son, Richard Fairbanks and Merrill Moores, of Indianapolis, went to New Harmony on a special train this morning after being entertained at breakfast by friends. Prof. Taft will speak at the New Harmony centennial today. This afternoon Prof. Taft, Richards Fairbanks and Mr. Moores plan to motor to Poseyville, Ind., where they will catch a train for Indianapolis. Prof. Taft plans to remain in Indianapolis tonight and return east Tuesday.

OFFERS LAND FOR TUBERCULAR HOME

Mrs. George Flick to Aid in Battling Terrible Disease.

FLOWER DAY PROFITS

A tract of land on South Broadway, opposite the old Flick homestead, is to be given to the Fort Wayne Anti-Tuberculosis society by Mrs. George Flick. The land is just over the Broadway bridge on the road leading to the county orphanage, and according to preliminary plans a modern hospital for the care of sufferers of tuberculosis is to be erected on the ground.

Mrs. Flick will first deed one acre of ground to the society and later plans to make larger endowments. As soon as the land is turned over to the society the Allen county board of commissioners will be petitioned to erect the hospital.

Officials of the society are grateful to Mrs. Flick for the donation, and it is likely that the hospital will be built this summer. The site is ideal for such an institution, located on high ground and surrounded by deep woods, within a stone's throw of the beautiful St. Mary's river and easily reached by the Bluffton interurban.

"Flower Day" Saturday netted the society the sum of $125 and in addition to generous donations on the outside, the fund swelled to $987.27. The money is to be added to the anti-tuberculosis fund.

RAISING BUGS TO EAT; PROLONG LIFE

Young Man in California Laboratories Deep in the Work.

MILLIONS OF GERMS

Berkeley, Cal., June 8.—Little germs—millions of 'em—that keep people young when they eat 'em, are being hatched out by C. M. Twining, a young assistant in the Cutter laboratories here.

The little bugs of long life are called "Bulillus Bulgaricus," named after the Bulgarians, who eat them in curdled goats' milk and many of whom are said to live to be 150 years old.

Eli Metchnikoff, the famous bacteriologist of Pasteur institute in Paris, first discovered that it was these germs that caused the longevity in the people of Bulgaria. He broached the theory that old age is caused by certain gas-producing germs in the big intestine, which absorb moisture and cause hardening of the arteries. He further found that B. Bulgaricus, introduced into the intestines drove out "B. Coli" and other harmful germs, but did no harm themselves. Twining is not only commercializing Metchnikoff's theory, but is seeking to raise germs that will live longer and which will produce no disagreeable taste.

C. M. TWINING.

He raises them in an incubator in beef broth, and sends them by the millions to patients who put them in boiled milk. The acid by-product of the germs curdles the milk and the curds are taken daily for a week.

"The idea that all germs are harmful is a mistaken one," said Twining. "Some are beneficial. Lactic acid germs are harmless and the most beneficent of the lactic acid germs are the B. Bulgaricus, as proven by experiments and the long life of the Bulgarians."

NO KIN APPEARS TO CLAIM RICHES

LIVED IN TENEMENT

New York, June 8.—Carl Schmidt, the Bowery recluse in whose clothing were found bills and deposit receipts amounting to $25,000, lay unconscious all day in Bellevue hospital, and a fact which marked an annal in the institution was that throughout the whole day no friend or relative appeared who might lay claim to the poor rich man's hoard of money after his death.

How he managed to amass his fortune is a mystery which can not be solved until the old man recovers his reason, or until some one who has been in his confidence appears.

"He was a queer one to us all," said Anthony Niechel, day clerk at the lodging house at No. 262 Bowery, where Schmidt has lived for years. "We none of us could understand him, and not for a moment did we believe that he could be rich.

"He would leave the house about 9 o'clock in the morning, and after that he was lost to us until he returned at dinner time. He was always shabby; always seemed a bit hungry; we all liked him because he never annoyed any one. When he would come in in the evening he would sometimes chat for a few minutes with some of the older lodgers, and then he would go up to bed—lost again until the following morning.

"I believe he was a captain on the northern side during the war. He received a good pension, and surely did not spend above $250 a year for his living expenses. We have never known him to have a real friend or a relative. His only mail was from the pension department."

At Bellevue hospital it was learned that Schmidt had been judicious in the distribution of his board and had placed it in half a dozen different banks.

Remains of Mrs. Stevenson to Rest Beside Those of Husband.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 8.—In fulfillment of her last wishes, the ashes of Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson will repose beside the body of her husband on the summit of Mount Vaca, Samoa. This was made public here today on the authority of Mrs. Isobel Strong, daughter of Mrs. Stevenson. Before the door of the tomb will be inscribed the last stanza of Stevenson's verse to his wife.

To this tomb there will be no means of access except a rough mountain path. When the will of Mrs. Stevenson, who died in Santa Barbara several months ago, is settled her childrene, Mrs. Strong and Lloyd Osborne, will take her ashes to Samoa.

OPENS AT BAY CITY.

National Camp Review of Knights of Modern Maccabees Begins.

Bay City, Mich., June 8.—The national camp review of the Knights of Modern Maccabees began here today with more than a thousand delegates in attendance. Several hundred women delegates to the great hive meeting of the Knights also are holding their annual convention. It is expected the proposed amalgamation with the Maccabees of the World will be endorsed. Officials of the order say little opposition to the merger is expected as 75 per cent of the delegates have been instructed for it.

BABIES SHOWING BETTER HEALTH

NEW ONE EXAMINED

The first three infants taken to the milk station clinic at the First Presbyterian church, a week ago, were brought back to the depot again Monday morning, and each of the babies, much to the delight of the anxious mothers, showed marked improvement, as a result of the treatment of modified milk, prescribed upon the occasion of the first examination.

One of the first babies had picked up a marvelous amount of flesh in the short period of time, and when in only its infant clothes it was placed upon the scales, the dial registered a gain of twelve ounces in six days.

One new baby was prescribed for Monday morning. Like the fourteen others, it was suffering principally from mal-nutrition and modified milk, according to age and weight of the infant, was prescribed and the mother was told to report in a week. Nearly fifty bottles of milk were sent out Monday morning for the use of babies already examined and prescribed for.

The exceptionally hot weather, it is thought, cut down the attendance at the free milk depot. Mothers were cautious against taking their babies out of doors in the hot sun, but thus far, the station has at least proved a vast benefit to more than a dozen infants, who were in serious need of expert medical diagnosis and prescription.

ABOARD BRILLIANT

New York, June 8.—Two hundred deadly East Indian snakes overrunning the ship, five heat crazed yaks doing everything but climb aloft and a crew of thirty-five Lascars, Hindus and Chinese threatening every minute to cut one another's throats—such was the combination which added ten years to the age of Captain Grant, of the Brilliant, a four-masted British bark.

The Brilliant is now in New York harbor after a voyage of 115 days from Hong Kong. Life began to be just one strenuous minute after another almost before Victoria Island had faded over the horizon, the excitement continuing unabated until the Jersey coast was sighted. With the Brilliant safely secured to her pier in New York, Captain Grant and his officers heaved a sigh of relief which might have been heard a mile away. The captain's hair had turned gray and his weather-beaten features had several more wrinkles as a result of his experience.

The Brilliant, carrying Standard Oil stores, had an uneventful voyage outward bound to Hong Kong and Kobe. She carried an able crew of Swedes and Norwegians, but they tired of the long grind and deserted the ship between watches a few hours after the vessel dropped anchor in Kobe harbor. With the holds filled with Japanese merchandise, Captain Grant was compelled to sign a nondescript crew composed of no less than ten nationalities in order to man his vessel for the homeward-bound trip to New York. He cleared at Kobe, stopped at Hiogo until December 18, and made Hong Kong in two weeks. The entire crew deserted at this port and the seamen signed in their place represented, said Captain Grant, the scum of the far eastern ports.

No Sleep for Officers.

Squared away to the southward with the Straits of Sundae as the objective, the Brilliant became the theater for a series of events which made sleep a matter of three winks at a time for the officers. First of all it was found that most of the "able seamen" had never seen any more experience than would be necessary to handle a rowboat. When most of the men were suffering from seasickness and lying in their bunks a big Lascar deserted his post at the wheel and made for the forward hatchway like a streak of brown. Two seconds elapsed and he came up from below with the entire crew at his heels. Ill or well, they were in the rigging at one leap and all gesticulated wildly as they directed the attention of Captain Grant to several squirming objects on the deck.

Four boxes filled with cobras and other poisonous reptiles had broken loose from their fastenings. Two hundred snakes had been given the liberty of the Brilliant. The orientals would not go near the snakes, and Captain Grant and his officers were compelled to kill them with clubs. Snakes appeared from hiding places, however, for three weeks after the boxes had been broken, and until the crew was sure that the last had been done away with they persisted in sleeping in the rigging. They had to make themselves fast with ropes during rough weather, but it was better than sleeping below, with the possibility of waking up and finding a full-grown cobra as a bedfellow.

Yaks Go Crazy.

After passing through the Straits of Sundae the five yaks on board began showing signs of suffering from the heat. As the Brilliant hovered near the "line" they went crazy one by one.

"They couldn't do it in a bunch," said Captain Grant. "They had to do it one at a time in order to prolong our agony."

The snakes and the heat-crazed yaks had practically scared the crew out of their wits before the "line" was well to the stern. About the time the last yak had been killed and cast overboard the Lascars and Chinese engaged in a pitched battle.

The Hindus and others took sides in the argument. Their fights were a daily feature until long after the cape had been rounded. Instead of trying to prevent trouble, knowing that any interference on his part would only complicate matters, Captain Grant allowed them to fight it out among themselves. At times, however, the friction assumed a serious turn when some of the men displayed knives. Although they never actually carried out their threats to cut each other's throats, the situation continued to be tense and called for the utmost diplomacy on the part of the officers.

When the Brilliant made fast in New York harbor Captain Grant withdrew his surveillance with the remark that they could go as far as they liked in marring each other's countenances, but that he would tie each man hand and foot and cast him overboard if they so much as made adent in the polished deck of the Brilliant.

Champion Runner to Teach Boys in Camp

Geo. V. Bonhag

George V. Bonehag, who was formerly America's premier distance runner, a point winner for the Stars and Stripes at Athens in 1906, at London in 1908 and at Stockholm in 1912, has changed his vocation.

He is going into the business of bettering the physical and mental condition of the American boy.

Bonhag has associated himself with Hamilton institute, of New York, and in the summer he will conduct a camp for boys at Lake Annabessacook, Me.

Boy Scouts Will Give Their Ice Cream Social at Swinney Park Saturday, July 12.

The Boy Scouts of the city are busy planning their activities for the summer months and it was announced that the annual ice cream social and band concert will be given at Swinney park on Saturday evening, July 12. The Boy Scout band will furnish the music for the occasion. This is a new feature as the boys have as yet never played at their own concert.

The Scouts will give away to the most popular little girl between the ages of four and twelve, a large handsome doll. This contest will be decided by the girl receiving the most votes during the time of the contest, which will be previous to the social.

The scoutmaster is also offering to any boy, scout or no scout, who sells the largest number of tickets for this event, a bicycle donated by Brosius & Brosius. Any boy in the city may enter this contest and those who wish to enter are asked to be present at the meeting of the scouts to be held Monday evening of this week at the Jefferson school.

ENJOY ANNUAL PICNIC.

Members of the Concordia Singing society and members of their families enjoyed an outing Sunday afternoon at Centlivre park. The picnic was well attended and a program consisting of musical numbers given by members of the organization was rendered and enjoyed by all.

FOREIGNER ENDS LIFE BY HANGING

Stranger Working for Louis Brudi Shuffles Off in New Haven.

HIS NAME UNKNOWN

A foreigner, known only by the name of "John," aged 32 years, and for the past week employed by Louis Brudi at New Haven, committed suicide by hanging himself in the Brudi stable at some time between 11:45 and 12:15 Monday.

When it came time for the other employes about the place to go to dinner "John" said he was not feeling well and would eat nothing.

Half an hour later when the men returned to the barn they found the man hanging and dead.

The man came to Brudi's a week ago an dasked for employment. He gave no other name than John, said he came from Minneapolis and that he had a wife and children in the old world.

Coroner E. . Kruse went out Monday afternoon and viewed the remains.

MUST QUIT MISSOURI.

Washington, June 8.—The supreme court today affirmed the decree of the Missouri supreme court ousting the International Harvester of America from the state, and fining it $25,000 for violation of the state anti-trust law.

THE DEATHS.

COLLINS.

Loretta Morris Collins, aged twenty-four years, died at 4:45 o'clock Monday morning at the home of her uncle, Peter Collins, 801 West Washington boulevard after a prolonged illness from complications.

She was a daughter of Mr. James Morris, of 223 West Butler street but had been making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Collins. She was born and reared in Fort Wayne and was a member of the 1907 graduating class at St. Augustine's academy. Surviving she leaves her father and the following brothers and sisters: James, Mollie, Thomas, Patrick, Kathryn and Anna Morris.

STEINAU.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Steinau, 207 Fifth street, died at an early hour Sunday morning at the age of two days. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the residence. Interment at Lindenwood.

Warren Vaughn, an aged man residing at 1836 Short street, stepped on a banana peeling at the corner of Superior and Harrison streets Saturday night and fell to the pavement, sustaining a fractured knee.

A Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction car crashed into a herd of horses at 9 o'clock Sunday night near the Bash farm southwest of the city and three of the animals were killed. The front trucks of the car left the rails and it was necessary to dispatch the wrecking crew to make repairs.

GIRL PRISONER IN AUTOMOBILE

Screams and Tries to Leap Out as Car Dashes at Mad Speed.

CHASED BY POLICE

People in the Empress theater and crowds on Wayne street were startled about 9:30 Sunday night when a light colored automobile of high power dashed west at mad speed carrying a driver and a young woman, the girl screaming shrilly and making frenzied attempts to leap from the car, and the man swearing at her and trying at once to guide his machine and restrain the shrieking female.

At Washington and Ewing streets, Officer Ward Hall, a night patrolman, saw the car dash past. The girl was still trying to leap out and the man, swearing at her in a tone loud enough to be heard by the officer said, "——— you, you shall not jump out."

As soon as another automobile came along Officer Hall commandeered it and started in pursuit. By that time the car with the screaming girl in it had reached Broadway and turned south. Officer Hall, in the borrowed car, kept up the pursuit to the corner of Taylor street and Broadway, where all trace was lost.

As the car passed the Empress the girl threw open the fore-door of the car and tried to leap out. The driver abandoned his steering wheel and grabbed her with both hands and forced her into a seat. The police are trying to identify the car.

GIRL IN MEXICO LED MERRY CHASE

SHE WAVED A FLAG

Kansas City, June 8.—Horace G. Whittlesey, formerly of Emporia, Kan., was a dentist in the City of Mexico. He has drilled, jerked, bored and otherwise tortured Mexican jaws, with great pleasure, as he admits, for the past eight years.

Now Mr. Whittlesey's patriotic proclivities not only led him to visit upon certain Mexican molars slyly added twinges of pain, but during his residence in the Mexican capital he studiously grounded his children, Mariana, 9 years old, and Horace 6½ years old, in the principles of patriotism—particularly reverence for the flag.

Besieged His Home.

Maybe this is why Mr. Whittlesey is doing his refugeeing a little earlier than he intended. At any rate he confessed that the patriotic fervor of his children caused him about the most ticklish half hour of his life shortly before he fled with his family.

The excitement started when the coachman of a neighbor drove up and down the street before the dentist's home in the City of Mexico shortly after the occupation of Vera Cruz, and heaped maledictions upon the heads of the "gringo" Whittleseys and said disrespectful things about the "gringo's" ancestors for several generations back. He intimated, further, that the "gringo" was afraid to leave his house. He dared him to come out.

All Frightened But the Children.

Astonishing to relate the "gringo" left his home and acted in a way that so pointedly indicated that bodily harm might result to the coachman that the latter drove off his ancient coach in ludicrous haste. This incident was the spark which set off the magazine of patriotism in Mariana and Horace.

There were anti-American demonstrations and mobs all over the City of Mexico. Houses were being searched for arms. In the midst of all this Mr. and Mrs. Whittlesey were astounded to see the two children parading through the house and out onto the porch, wildly waving two American flags.

Furling the Flag.

Probably Mr. Whittlesey would have preferred at that moment to have seen his children waving a red flag in the path of an Andalusian bull. The parent gave chase—the children ducked and dodged, pleading for the retention of the precious flags. Mr. Whittlesey mopped perspiration, pursued and argued. Finally, aided by a flank movement executed by other members of the household, the children were captured and their flags hidden securely.

"Why don't you speak Spanish for the man?" asked Mr. Whittlesey of Horace.

"Don't want to," replied Horace. "When I'm in the United States I only speak American."

HATS IS HATS

By ELLIS PARKER BUTLER.

(Copyright, 1914, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

For five minutes the telephone bell had been ringing as hard as it could ring in the office of the Interurban Express company at Westcote, and every minute Mike Flannery was getting madder.

"Number 76 don't answer," said the telephone girl sweetly to the party on the other end of the wire. "Shall I ring 'em again?"

Mrs. Madden straightened up and her face hardened.

"You ring until he does answer!" she snapped.

When the bell again began its irritating, maddening jingle, Mike Flannery was out on the platform welcoming the 4:08 train from the city, and the expressman in the car was dumping packages on to the big truck. He shoved two trunks and a laundry hamper off the car and chucked a coil of lead pipe after them, and handed Mike Flannery carefully a cylindrical pasteboard box with its six "Handle With Great Care" labels on it.

"Got a calf here for you, Mike," he said.

Calves may be sent in two ways, and this one had been sent in the uncrated way. It costs more to send a calf uncrated, but some folks are fond of sending them that way.

"Shove th' crate awnto th' truck," said Flannery.

"It ain't crated," said the expressman; "it's loose. Climb in and give a hand to him."

When they put hand to him the calf yelled for mother and braced her feet, and the conductor came to the car door and urged haste. It is a bad job getting a good-sized calf to setp out of a side door on to a truck, and a truck is a bad thing for a calf to stand on, anyway, so when the calf refused to go out of the side door they thought it would be better to lead him out of the back door and down the steps. It was that kind of a car, half smoking car and half express car, and so, after the expressman and Flannery and the conductor could not lead the calf down the back steps the smokers came out of the smoking car and helped. They led him down by pushing from behind, and he landed on the platform with a sawed-off wail that sounded like "Ma-a-a-wawk!"

And all the time the telephone bell was ringing.

Flannery tied the calf's halter to the rear end of the truck and went to the front end and took hold of the iron tongue, and pulled. Back of him was the full passenger list of the 4:08, grinning; and ahead of him was the telephone bell, ringing. Was he mad? He was so mad that when he gave the truck a jerk the calf made the trip across the platform into the express office in two leaps! Two leaps, and then stood dazed and astonished. He was so dazed he didn't even know the halter had broken. He just stood there like a silly calf. But Flannery didn't!

Flannery did not even look at the calf. He slammed the waybills on his desk and made one jump for the telephone. It was then that the calf looked down to see what was the matter with his feet. He was hobbled. Through the lid of the cylindrical box that bore the labels, "Handle With Great Care," both forefeet of the calf had gone.

"Mother! Mother! Mother!" called the calf, in its soul-stirring voice.

"Hello!" yelled Flannery into the telephone. "An' phwat th' divil be ye mekkin' such a—Shure Oi know 'tis Saturday afthernoon, an' did ye call up Mike Flannery fer to' tell him th' day av th' week? 'Is they a package come fer Missus Mary Maria Madden?'" he mimicked angrily. "Well, if ye w'u'd be given' me a minute t' look t'roo th' way bills—How th' divil kin Oi look is they a package, ma'am, whim ye kape me here wid me eye fastened awnto th' tellyphone? —Gat away from there, ye big beast, ye!"

Mike Flannery slammed the receiver on the hook and made one jump for the calf. He put his shoulder under the chest of the calf and encircled its legs with one arm, and hefted up. With the other hand he pushed the hatbox off the calf's feet. The telephone bell was ringing, but Flannery paid no more attention to it than if it had been a swarm of bees. He was used to telephones, and he had never known one to get down off the wall and bite him. He set his teeth and pushed the twine off the crushed pasteboard box and took off the lid. There were two holes in the lid where the calf's feet had gone through.

It was a hat. Flannery took it carefully from the box and laid it on the end of the truck, and stood back and looked at it.

"An' tomorry—an' tomorry—" he said with compressed anger—"tomorry do be Sunday! Shut up!" he said to the telephone bell. "An' you shut up, too!" he said to the calf. "An look at ut! Look at th' hat now, will ye?"

It was—it had been—a tall hat, a fashionable hat, built on the general plan of an inverted coal hod. It was a pale, molasses-candy yellow of dreamy soft straw, the plaits of which began at the ground floor and went up and up in graceful spirals until they reached the plateau at the top. It was a new hat, and a spring hat. For a minute Flannery could not believe it was a hat, he had become so used to the low, turtle-shell shape, and then, just as he had decided that it was a hat, he realized that it was a hat no longer. A calf has dainty feet, with two toes on each foot, but they are out of place standing on top of a new style three-story-and-basement hat. The hat was badly dished. The bunches of spirea multiflora and astilbe japonica were jammed into the moire, and telescoped with the yellow haircloth belly-band. There were three punctures and a compound fracture and a whole crowd of contusions in that hat. No one ever saw a sicker-looking hat than that one.

Flannery, very soberly, bent over and picked up the box. The hat had been expressed by "Ernestine, Artistic Millinery," but as Flannery read the address of the consignee he straightened up and gazed at the telephone with anger. The consignee was Mrs. Martha Mary Madden. And the telephone bell was still ringing.

"Hello!" he said, when he had taken the receiver down, and his voice was gentle. "Hello! Are you there, Missus?"

"W'u'd ye mind sayin' th' worrds a bit slower, mum?" said Flannery. "Well, ain't Oi just tellin' ye—? If ye'll but give men wan worrd, mum—Sure, Oi know me business! Well, th' same t' ye! Hat! Aain't Oi been tellin' ye for th' last half hour that th' hat has come? Oi say th' hat has came! CAME! TH'—Hat—HAS—CAME!"

Flannery slapped up the receiver. He was mad now.

"Phwy don't Oi bring th' hat up?" he snapped. "Will Oi mek haste, fer they may be a few changes in th' trimmin' she'll be wantin' t' mek? They'll be changes, all roight! Mabby th' leddy'll be disappointed whin she gits th' hat!"

He looked at the telephone doubtfully. It was his duty to deliver the hat, and he would deliver the hat, but perhaps it would be well to just mention over the phone that a little accident had happened to the hat. The shock would not be so great to Mrs. Madden. He picked up the telephone directory and turned the pages.

"M," he said; "K, L. M. Ma, Mac, Mad, Madden, John C. Madden, 1—3—5 Westcote."

He put up his hand for the receiver and glanced back at the hat. His hand remained motionless in the air. The hat was gone! The last bit of astible japonica was just disapearing into the calf's mouth! Flannery let his hand fall.

"Th' rule applyin' t' th' case," said Flannery, slowly, to himself; "th' rule that applies t' th' prisint case—th' rule—" He put up his hand and scratched the red thatch on top of his head. "Now, phwat w'u'd th' rule be, annyway?" he said. "Hats w'u'd be hats, an' calves w'u'd be calves, but then th' hat is aten by th' calf, is 'ut a hat or a calf? I wonder w'u'd Oi report th' hat in bad condition, or absint entoirely? Oi dunno."

"There be no doubt th' hat is in bad condition," said Flannery, with worried brows. "Ut stands t' reason that a hat phwat has been aten by a calf sh'u'd be in bad condition, an' th' rules says t' so report whin goods is received in bad condition. But th' other wan—rule twenty-six—says: 'Whin goods be lost in transit or in th' ixpriss office they shall be so reported by th' agint.' An' t' Flannery ut looks like whin a calf ates a hat th' hat is lost. Shure 'tis lost! But is ut? Some w'u'd say' twas lost, but Mike Flannery knows moighty well where th' hat is this blissid minute! 'Tis in th' calf. So 'tis not lost."

He sighed. He knew there was trouble ahead for Flannery, whether he reported the hat lost or in bad condition. He turned to his desk.

"They be but wan hat in th' worrld thot will suit aich woman, an' th' hat thot suits Missus Madden is at prisint in th' stomach av th' red an' whoite calf yonder. Calves is nawthin' but livestock, but hats is hats."

Flannery looked at his way bills. "One calf, uncrated, value $18," he read, and then, turning to the next way bill, he stopped with a gasp. It said: "One hat, boxed, value $64."

As he started, the telephone bell began to ring again, and he let it ring.

"Fifty-four dollars!" said Flannery, in an awe-struck whisper. "Fifty-four—!"

He looked up at the calf reproachfully.

"Fifty-four dollars! An' aten by a cheap, inixpensive eighteen-dollar calf! Why, ye ain't no more value than th' crate av sich a hat sh'u'd be!"

He stopped short. Now he knew the rule that covered hats eaten by calves. Rule 25 said: "When the agent be in doubt which rate to charge, he shall chirge the higher," and when an agent is in doubt what to do about a hat that has been eaten by a calf, what should he do but deliver the higher-priced? Flannery dipped his pen into the purple ink and scrawled across the one word "Lost." Then he wrote carefully in his receipt book: "From New York. Consignee, Mrs. M. M. Madden. One hat, packed in a calf. Bad condition."

He stopped a moment to answer the ringing telephone.

"Shure! shure!" he shouted. "Oi'll be there in five minutes!"

Then he took the halter of the calf in his left hand and tucked his receipt book under his right arm, and went out.

Four minutes later Mrs. Madden was standing at her front door, her lips set, her eyes blazing, and a threaded needle all ready in her hand. Her eyes were set steadily toward the village and they did not move to right nor to left. She was waiting for her hat, and she did not look at the man coming up the road with a red and white calf in tether. She did not see him until he turned into the yard, and it was only when he stopped at her feet and held out his receipt book that she looked at him.

"Sign here," said Flannery, pointing to the blank spot.

"What—!" said Mrs. Madden.

"Sign here," repeated Flannery firmly. "Ain't ye th' lady thot's been tellephonin' all day fer her Aister hat? I brung it up mesilf," he said soothingly. "'Tis in th' calf here."

"What!" gasped Mrs. Madden.

"Well, ma'am," said Flanney. "Oi'm not askin' ye t' do nothin' more than Oi'd do mesilf. Th' receipt mentions thot th' hat is in bad condition. Th' receipt mentions that th' hat is in th' calf. An' Mike Flannery guarantees it is. An' usually, ma'am, whin th' company does repackin' ut makes a charge fer ut, but sein' as it's you ma'am, we'll say nawthin' about it."

(THE END.)

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

How Little It Costs To Furnish the New Home at PICKARD'S

We Help You Start Out

Not only do we help with low figures, but with easy payments as well. Just a little down, and the rest as you can afford it—that is our method of payments.

Here is a table, taken from the prices of actual pieces in our stock. It show exactly how much it will cost to furnish four rooms. Notice the wide range of prices, and bear in mind that even the least expensive has a quality backed by the Pickard Reputation and the highest priced is worth every cent asked for it. You can buy any or all on easy payments.

Throw the Searchlight

On the quality of our Furniture—and at the same price, you will always find ours to be an average 25 per cent. better. You see we do a credit business and it sometimes takes a year to pay the bill—and we want the Furniture to be good when you make your last payment—so that you pay willingly and promptly—and then recommend us to your friends. It is different with the cash stores—there the transaction is over in a jiffy.—So you see that quality is an important factor in building up our business and in making of every purchaser, a satisfied customer.

Make Your Home A Comfort Spot

Put the Three-Machines-in-One

SWEEPER-VAC.

In your home, and enjoy house-cleaning. Made to run easy, practical, efficient and economical for HOUSE USE.

The name "SWEEPER-VAC" tells what the machine is: A combination of carpet sweeper and vacuum cleaner. The SWEEPER-VAC COMBINATION includes two machines, each complete in itself.

Although the carpet sweeper and the vacuum cleaner can each be used independently, they will generally be used in combination.

The carpet sweeper is small enough to rest under the vacuum cleaner so that both glide along at the same time, each doing its own thorough work. The vacuum cleaner, by its suction, will remove from a cupful to a quart of solid dirt from any large rug in two minutes, after it has been beaten or otherwise cleaned. The little carpet sweeper at the same time, with its especially constructed brush, will pick up all threads, lint and hair.

This combination SWEEPER-VAC costs the price of several brooms, but forever releases you from their drudgery.

FIRST OF THE SEASON.

Watermelons Arrive in the City and Are Selling at a High Price.

Watermelons, the first of the season, arrived in this city this morning and are selling at the handsome price of 90c to $1.25. Local dealers, however, states that they are having no trouble of disposing of them. These melons come from the southern part of Florida, and it is said that they are of the choice kind.

Fruit dealers reported an expected heavy business on home grown strawberries this morning. A few were brought in last week, and it is thought that there will be heavy trade in that line all this week. The prices dropped this morning and they are now retailing at 13c to 16c a quart.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, June 8.—Prospects that the government crop report this afternoon would be bearish tended today to pull down the price of wheat. Heavy world's shipments counted also against the bulls. The market, which opened ⅛c off to ⅛c up, gradually underwent a material setback all around.

The close, however, was easy at ⅞@⅞c net decline.

Corn rose as a result of consignments being lighter than had been generally expected. Prices started unchanged to ⅛c higher, and seemed disposed to hold at the top side of the race.

The close was steady, ⅞@⅞c to ⅞@⅞c net higher.

Shorts covered oats. The incentive was a commission house demand which seemed to be in course of development.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, June 8.—Sentiment was less cheerful and prices were lower at the opening of the stock market today. Fears of failure of Mexican mediation owing to the Tampico situation exerted a depressing influence. The firm tone which prevailed most of the time last week was no longer evident. No efforts were made, however, to bring severe pressure to bear and selling was in small volume. Early losses ranged from a small fraction in Reading to a point in New Haven.

Suspension of the Tampico blockade by the Mexican government changed the course of speculation. Traders who had sold in the belief that a serious crisis was imminent bought back their stocks and the list quickly overcome the initial depression. Engagement of $4,500,000 more gold for export was without adverse influence in view of the favorable bank statement of Saturday and the accumulation of idle funds here. Bonds were steady.

The market closed easy. Outside news had little influence on values today, although there were important developments which the street had long been awaiting. The supreme court decision in the Shreveport rate case, favoring the railroads, and the bullish government crop figures failed to stir the market. Realizing and short selling forced back prices all around toward the end, Reading reacting a point.

DAILY MARKET LETTER.

(Furnished by J. S. Phillips, North American Building, Fort Wayne, Ind.)

Chicago, June 8.—Trend of Tuesday's turns on the government report figures, wheat shipments from primary points are huge and the United States visible of 27,000,000 bushels may decrease to 17,000,000 bushels or so. Corn visible increase of 1,150,000 bushels is small on the receipts of past week and private consumers must be absorbing corn. There have been large covering by July corn shorts. About 35 per cent. of the new corn crop territory is dry and oats complaints from the drouth territory are steady. Locals continue bearish on wheat. World's wheat shipments of 17,000,000 for week are a record and mean an easier situation abroad during July. Old corn months should see new tops but purchasers should now await recessions. Oats are in a bull position. July pork ran up about 50 points on attention from shorts. Large number of reports in today of cutting new wheat this week from Missouri and one or two from Illinois.

Government figures on winter wheat, 92.7; spring wheat, 95.5; oats condition, 89.5. Report indicates winter wheat crop of 638,000,000 bushels; spring, 262,000,000; total crop of 900,000,000 bushels.

OFFICIAL FORECASTS.

For Fort Wayne and vicinity: Fair and continued warm tonight and Tuesday.
For Indiana: Generally fair and continued warm tonight and Tuesday.
For Ohio: Fair and continued warm tonight and Tuesday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Some of the highest temperatures of the season were recorded yesterday over the central states, temperatures from 90 to 94 degrees being general over Iowa, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, 94 degrees being reported from St. Louis. At Fort Wayne the highest was 91 degrees, which is the highest temperature yet reached this summer. West of the Rockies unusually low temperatures have continued for the last three or four days, 36 degrees being reported this morning from Winnemucca, Nev., and 32 degrees from Yellowstone park.

No showers have occurred over the central and southern sections of the country, although showers have occurred over New York and New England, and from the Lake Superior region westward to Montana and the Dakotas. At Huron, S. D., unusually heavy rains have occurred, more than eight inches having been recorded since Thursday.

With an area of high pressure covering the southeastern states, and a low pressure area in the northwest, conditions favor continued fair and warm weather in this section for the next two or three days.

and was walking west along the company's right of way and evidently did not hear the sound of the whistle blown for the crossing. The crossing was unguarded at that time because of the fact that the watchman does not report for duty until 7 o'clock.

The man's body was horribly mangled, and it was several hours before he was identified. Coroner E. H. Kruse was summoned and among other things leading to his identity was a watch bearing his name and a waterworks meter receipt in a pocket of his coat. Nobody witnessed the accident, and among the first to find the man's remains were H. Wolf, of 1513 Walton avenue, and Clark Dinnius, who resides on Winter street.

Mr. Rockstroh was a native of Germany and came to this country twenty-five years ago, locating immediately in Fort Wayne. He was a member of the Concordia Lutheran church and was well known among the German residents of the city. His wife died four years ago and surviving he leaves eight children—Mrs. Minnie Frederick, Mrs. Alvina Wolf, Mrs. Margaret Reiter, Frederick R., Hedwig, Carl, Elsie and Marie Rockstroh.

Heink. She testified she roomed with Mrs. Dean from time to time during 1913 and intercepted a considerable number of Rapp's letters.

It was said that ten more letters would be introduced and identified and that this probably would conclude the presentation of testimony of the complainant.

Ben M. Smith, chief counsel for the defendant, declared that he would centered his defense on the allegation that the singer was not a resident of Illinois and therefore not entitled to sue for divorce in the Illinois courts. He added that he would prove Rapp's counter-charge of infidelity against the songstress. If successful in this, he said, there would be no necessity for controverting the letters placed in evidence by the prima donna.

She Was "the One and Only."

In the letter of Aug. 1, 1913, Mrs. Dean is addressed as "My darling, wonderful girl." It went on: "Without you it is awful. Just now when I require that quick wit of yours the most I must forego it. That is honest, girlie, and you know that my unbounded admiration for your ability is true. You are the one and only little woman for me who can keep me true and straight and who can bring out the best in me."

The epistle mentions a Mrs. Despoth, whom the writer says gave him the idea "of coming to Chicago and confronting the madam direct. She gave me considerable information about her." The letter was signed "Your Billie" and concludes with the statement that what money the writer has "is yours."

Mme. Schumann-Heink garbed in a tailored suit and wearing a motherly little black hat, listened intently to the reading of the letters.

Letters written Aug. 6 and 8 were read, a missive dated Sept. 5 was sent in care of Mark Harrison, the actor, who roomed at Mrs. Dean's apartment, to avoid interception.

The singer said that she would have to miss most of the rehearsals of the Wagner festival at Beyreuth but could reach the scene in time to participate in the principal event in July.

successful attempt was made, under the leadership of a woman, to upset the wagon from which the suffragettes were speaking. The orators escaped into the residence of the local leader of militant society and the crowd afterward pelted the house with stones and broke every window.

Another Demonstration.

Another demonstration by a militant suffragette in the presence of King George and Queen Mary was carried out at the International Horse show at Olympia this afternoon. Their majesties had hardly taken their seats when a young woman rose in the stalls opposite and in a shrill voice screamed denunciations of the forcible feeding of suffragette prisoners. The police pounced upon her immediately, but the woman fought wildly and her ejection from the building was effected only after a struggle.

"No peace for King George or Queen Mary" is the latest orders given out by the headquarters staff of the militant suffragettes and their followers now allow few appearances of their majesties in public to pass without some kind of demonstration.

The guardians of ancient structures in all parts of the country have adopted the most stringent precautions to protect the buildings against the vandalism of the militant suffragettes. Guns and dogs have been requisitioned for this service.

Two men armed with rifles and accompanied by two bull dogs have been placed on guard in the grounds of the historic Priory at Christ church, Hampshire, which dates from the twelfth century. This plan is also being adopted at other places.

American Goes to Jail.

Mrs. May Fausten, the American woman arrested with several others after a disturbance at the Brompton oratory yesterday, was arraigned today at Westminster police court. The magistrate told her she would have to give a bond of $50 to guarantee her good behavior for six months or go to Holloway jail for fourteen days. Mrs. Fausten unhesitatingly chose the jail sentence and announced her intention of at once beginning a "hunger strike." Oscar Fausten, her husband, who was present in court, acquiesced in his wife's decision. He informed the magistrate that he was a suffragist, but that when he accompanied his wife to the oratory he did not know there was to be an "unseemly demonstration."

"My wife was unjustly and brutally treated by the police and she did not participate in the disorders at the oratory," was Fausten's declaration later in the day. The Faustens formerly lived in New York but have resided in Berlin and London for the past 14 years. Mrs. Fausten is from Philadelphia.

Pike Was Merely Drunk.

Harry Pike, who yesterday startled the authorities and the public by invading Buckingham palace, is not a suffragette agent, according to the attorney for the prosecution who appeared against him at Bow street police court today.

The man who clambered over the ten foot spiked wall which surrounds the palace grounds and eluded sentinels, police guards and servants, did so while under the influence of drink and without any ulterior object, said the lawyer. After overcoming all the obstacles and evading the watchers Pike strolled about for a long time in the interior of the palace, which he explored from basement to sixth floor. It was only when he entered an occupied room that he was discovered and arrested. He had changed his clothing in one of the chambers for a suit belonging to a servant, as he had torn and soiled his own clothes in climbing the wall and crawling across the grounds.

The magistrate remanded the prisoner for a week for further inquiries.

Pike today issued a long written statement giving details of his wanderings and adventures in the palace. He mentioned that his wife was in America and that he had been drinking ever since she left England. He is an automobile mechanic.

JAIL TERM FOR DIVORCED MAN

NEWS OF THE COURTS

Henry Williams wondered how long Judge Yaple's patience could be stretched before it would snap. He knows and will spend the next ninety days in the Allen county jail thinking it over. Some weeks ago Alice Williams was given a divorce from Henry Williams in the superior court. The decree gave her custody of two children and an allowance of $16 monthly, to be in equal bi-monthly installments, for their support. Repeatedly the wife has complained to the court of the delinquency of her ex-husband in the matter of the allowance for the children. Finally Williams was cited for contempt, and when he appeared before Judge Yaple Monday gave no reason worth while why he should not be punished and the judge ordered him to jail for three months.

Home Six Nights in Two Years.

Clarisa Wiseman, in her divorce complaint to the superior court, says that during the past two years her husband, Willis Wiseman, has spent not more than six evenings at their home, 1217 Calhoun street. He is charged with openly admitting association with divers bad women and with failing for two years to provide. The couple were married in December, 1898, and have two small children of which the plaintiff asks the custody.

Suit to Replevin Valuable Horse.

Ethan B. and Artemas O. Souers have begun suit in the circuit court against George Waldrop to replevin a gray Percheron stallion of the alleged value of $1,500. The complaint sets out that the animal is not held for taxes, assessments or judgment of court and that it is believed to be unlawfully held somewhere in Allen county. The plaintiffs are widely known dealers in imported horses.

Both Worked to Keep Husbands.

There is striking similarity in the divorce complaints of Orena Gray against George Gray and of Eve G. Bonfiglio against Frank Bonfiglio, both filed in the superior court. Mrs. Gray says she was married to George in July, 1908, and that in the following December he deserted her after having made her go out to work to earn money to support her. Other cruel and inhuman treatment is charged. Mrs. Bonfiglio says she and Frank were made one in April, 1907, and that he played a cruel joke on her April 1, this year, when he packed up his duds and fled, she knows not where. Bonfiglio likewise refused to work and made his wife go out to hard labor to get means to support herself and him.

Sues for Theft of His Wife.

In a complaint filed in the superior court, Joseph J. Hartman sues Forrest Johnson for $5,000 for alienating the affection of Mrs. Clementina Hartman. The plaintiff says he and Clementina were married in 1906 and that on July 23, 1913, she left him, going to Columbus with Johnson and taking the children with her. He charges that the absconding pair have been living in adultery. Hartman was given a divorce and custody of his children some time ago.

Notes of the Courts.

The Farmers' and Traders' bank of Markle, Ind., has brought suit in the circuit court against James Hamilton on a note, demanding $236.

In the superior court the suit of the City Trucking company vs. the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, has been dismissed.

Before Judge Eggeman and a jury the suit to break the will of the late Joseph Oppelt is on trial in the circuit court.

The will of the late Frederick Thiele, of Washington township, has been ordered probated. The property goes to a son who is directed to always provide a home and support for his mother and to make certain provisions for his sisters.

IS DECLARED INSANE.

Walter Romanofski, a foreigner resident on Wallace street, has been declared insane by a commission that sat in the court of Justice A. C. Nierman. Romanofski was taken into custody by the police last week while he was going about town armed with a big revolver and hunting for enemies he said were conspiring against him. The man had threatened his family and one or two physicians who had attended him.

RELIC ROOM ROBBED.

Relics loaned by Mrs. Helena Wolf, a nurse during the civil war, to the historical collection in the relic room at the court house, were stolen from a glass case Saturday. A breastpin given Mrs. Wolf by Gen. John Morgan, the noted raider, and a memento given her by Gen. U. S. Grant were among the things stolen.

WILSON LIKELY TO ACCEPT THEM

that as legislation in no way waives treaty rights he may accept the measure although he desired passage of the repeal without limitation.

In answer to questions concerning the Colombian treaty the president today said Secretary Bryan still has that and the Nicaraguan treaty under consideration and no definite decision has been made as to when they will be submitted to the senate.

Troops will not be withdrawn from the Colorado coal fields immediately. The white house has reason to believe that a conference will soon come about between the warring forces which will doubtless end in a settlement of differences and make possible the withdrawal of federal troops without danger of further conflict.

The president believes the prospect for the passage of the conservation program in the house is good and expressed the hope that the measures desired by the west may be reached, also by the senate, before the end of the session.

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT.

Coal Operators and Strikers in Meeting at Mason City, W. Va.

QUEEN CONTEST GROWING WARM

A SUMMER FESTIVAL

Twenty or more of Fort Wayne's beautiful young ladies are engaged in a strenuous rivalry for the sovereign honors of the Summer Festival, June 22-27, for the benefit of the Children's Playgrounds association and from among these will be chosen the queen and her maids to preside over the festival. Although candidates were not nominated until the end of the week the competition has assumed the liveliest interest already. From the way the race has started it is indicated that this will be altogether the greatest contest of the sort Fort Wayne has ever witnessed.

It costs 1 cent for each vote given to a candidate for queen. Votes may be deposited in the ballot boxes distributed in a dozen or more down town business places. The method of voting is simple. Place the amount you wish to vote in one of the envelopes that can be found at all voting stations, write upon the outside the name of your candidate, seal it and drop in the box. Quite easy, indeed. Candidates will aid you to vote by calling on you personally, collecting your votes and depositing them. You are not likely to altogether escape attention of the score or more of pretty young ladies who are contesting for the honors and for the rich and beautiful prizes. A diamond ring, valued at $175, a solid gold diamond-studded watch worth $60 and a gold la valliere worth $40 are the three prizes offered. They are on exhibition at Trenkley & Koerber's jewelry store, 816 Calhoun street.
